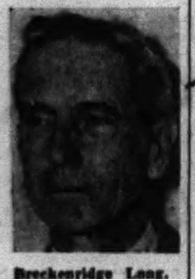
SENATE VOTES HALF A BILLION LOAN TO CHINA

Reason for Extra Aid Questioned.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—The senate foreign relations committee was told at a closed meeting today that the real purpose of the administration's proposed 500 million dollar loan to China is to undo damage caused by a speech made on Jan. 12 by Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, who declared that Germany and not Japan must be defeated first.



Breckenridge Long.

The senate later passed the Chinese loan bill by a vote of 74 to 0 and sent it to the White House. The house approved it unanimously yesterday.

Why Ignore Lend-Lease.

In the debate today senators hinted enigmatically at the real purpose of appropriating half a billion dollars for a special credit to China instead of extending further aid under President Roosevelt's virtually unlimited lend-lease authority.

It transpired later, however, that the mystery was dealt with much more directly at the closed session of the foreign relations committee this morning.

The foreign relations committee heard testimony by representatives of the war, navy and state departments and by Jesse H. Jones, federal loan administrator. Breckenridge Long, assistant secretary of state, told the committee that while Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek remains steadfast in his determination to resist the Japanese, he has been subjected to pressure by certain Chinese leaders to make peace with Japan.

Dr. Sun's Warning Cited.

When Sen. Robert M. La Follette [P., Wis.] demanded that the advocates of a deal with Japan be identified, Long refused to name them. Thereupon Sen. Bennett Champ Clark [D., Mo.] recalled that Dr. Sun Fo, president of the legislative yuan and son of the founder of the Chinese republic, Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, stated publicly shortly after Knox made his speech that China could not be expected to offer resistance much longer without aid from the United States and Great Britain.

Dr. Sun made the statement at Chungking, capital of China, on Jan. 17. "If," he said, "the United States and Britain intend to allow Japan a free rein in the far east while they are finishing off Hitler, as seems to have been indicated in recent speeches by A. V. Alexander [first lord of the British admiralty] and Knox, there is grave doubt in Chungking as to the wisdom of China's continuing to fight as she now is doing so successfully."

Clark also recalled that the newspaper Sao Tang Pao, official organ of the Chinese army, alluded directly to the Knox speech in an editorial denouncing efforts by the British and American authorities to sidetrack the war against Japan while concentrating upon the task of defeating Hitler first.

Knox Gets No Defense.

The Missouri senator then remarked that the real purpose of the half billion dollar credit was to undo the damage caused by Knox's speech. Long did not dissent, nor did any member of the committee.

"That was probably the most expensive speech in the history of the United States," Sen. Clark commented.

The navy secretary made his half billion dollar speech before the United States Conference of Mayors in Washington on Jan. 12. He said:

"We know who our great enemy is—the enemy who before all others must be defeated first. It is not Japan; it is not Italy; it is Hitler and Hitler's Nazis, Hitler's Germany."

Questions Loan Plus Aid.

Sen. Tom Connally [D., Tex.], chairman of the foreign relations committee and manager of the Chinese loan bill, told the senate that it is to the interest of our country to give all possible assistance to the Chinese "now that Japan is our common enemy."

Sen. Robert A. Taft [R., O.] said he was curious to know "why the

J. Dewey Abraham, promoter accused of having swindled investors out of more than $500,000 in a get-rich-quick scheme, surrendered late yesterday, ending a police search for him which had been started 24 hours earlier.

"I'm guilty—absolutely guilty," he said wearily when placed in custody of Assistant State's Attorney C. Vernon Thompson and Sergt. Walter La Roy by his lawyer, W. W. Smith. "I'm ready to face the music."

The surrender was arranged in Smith's office at 77 West Washington street while the grand jury was hearing witnesses against Abraham. The promoter, nearing 58 years and gray haired, had telephoned Smith he wanted to surrender, and Smith's associate, Albert Buccieri, met Abraham secretly in the loop. Thompson then was called.

Assets Down to $30.

Abraham was taken immediately to the state's attorney's office to make a statement. He told his story with little prompting. He had dealt in hundreds of thousands of dollars, he said; he had dreamed of millions.

"Now all I have left is this," he said, taking $30 from his pocket.

According to the complainants, Abraham had for several years pushed a promotion scheme based on the quick purchase and sale of real estate, diamonds, and securities. He told clients that the plan was backed by a 27 million dollar syndicate secretly sponsored by Bernard M. Baruch, New York financier, to whom he claimed kinship. He promised profits of 6, 20, and 100 per cent.

Loss Estimated at $516,700.

As a result, many men and women gave money to Abraham for investment. Most of them were relatives and friends. One invested $250,000, another $140,000, a third $80,000, and others from $900 to $10,000. According to Prosecutor Thompson there are 17 known victims, whose aggregate investments total $516,700. Abraham's estimate was nearly $70,000 less.

"I guess I took in $450,000," admitted Abraham. "That's tops. But those people didn't lose everything. I paid dividends, almost every month. With a new investment, I'd pay interest on an old one, so that I was robbing Peter to pay Paul."

Diamonds, even fake diamonds, were one of his weaknesses, he admitted. He mentioned them in telling how he gave paste diamonds for security to his sister-in-law, Mrs. Lillian Abraham of New York City, who had invested $250,000 in his promotion, and to Martin Lundquist, 7422 Colfax avenue, who had invested $1,000. Lundquist was his auditor without pay.

Only a Dream.

"Everything was a dream," said Abraham. "The 27 million dollar syndicate was a dream. Bernard Baruch was a dream. I never saw him, didn't know him, and am not related to him. I just used his name in my sales talks."

Abraham insisted that he returned in dividends most of what he took. He used the remainder to live on and to keep up his pretense of being a millionaire broker. He estimated he lost "not more than $20,000" in the stock market.

And, he added, "there were no other women in my life—not with me nearly 58."

Once Prosperous in Business.

Abraham said he had been a reputable business man until five years ago when he embarked upon his swindling career to maintain his high standard of living. Before that he often had earned $25,000 a year.

In the grand jury inquiry, which may be resumed today, Abraham probably will be asked to account for the $17,000 on deposit in his account in a loop bank on Jan. 1. Only $330 is left. He told Prosecutor Thompson he withdrew $11,000 and used $10,000 of it to pay debts.

Abraham's wife, Lucy, was reported prostrated last night in her home at 1765 East 55th street. The only word she had received from her husband since his disappearance from his office at 323 South Franklin street, Jan. 26, until his surrender was a letter in which he admitted his thefts, and called himself a liar, thief, and worthless husband.

FLYNN APOLOGY ASKED IN HOUSE

Slur on Party Patriotism Angers Congressmen.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—Republican members of congress continued to express resentment today at the assertion of Edward J. Flynn, chairman of the Democratic National committee, that "the Republican party is not as much interested in winning the war as it is interested in controling the house of representatives."

"Flynn went far indeed into the realm of partisan prejudice, personal abuse and mudslinging when he made such a statement," Rep. Roy O. Woodruff [R., Mich.], told the house. "Every good American, irrespective of political affiliation, will decry this unwise, ill conceived and wholly unnecessary attempt to agitate acrimonious political controversy at this time when the nation so vitally needs unity of action and unity of will.

Attack on 22 Million Voters.

"The charge that Flynn makes against the 22 million citizens who voted the Republican ticket in the last election is in effect a charge of treason. He ought to apologize for this false, slanderous charge.

"There were sons of Republicans as well as sons of Democrats and New Dealers at Pearl Harbor, Midway, Wake, Guam, and in the foxholes of the Philippines today.

"Not content with one outrageous charge against the integrity and patriotism of the millions of Republican Americans in the nation, Flynn went even farther to say that 'no misfortune except a major military defeat could befall this country to the extent involved in the election of a congress hostile to the President.'

Owes Nation an Apology.

"He plainly implies that a Republican congress actually would sabotage the national defense and be willing to see the nation defeated and crushed. He owes not only the Republicans but a whole nation striving for unity a profound apology."

Rep. Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.], displayed to members a copy of the Daily Worker, official organ of the Communist party of the United States, which told of Presidential Secretary Marvin H. McIntyre expressing Mr. Roosevelt's appreciation to the Ohio Communist party for their pledge of support in behalf of winning the war.

"While the President's chairman of the Democratic National committee is repudiating the support of loyal Republicans, men who believe sincerely in a constitutional form of government, and asking that none of that political faith be returned to congress, Secretary McIntyre sends the President's 'deepest appreciation' to communists," said Hoffman.

Democrats Slate M'Keough for Senator; Kelly Declines

BY PARKE BROWN.

Congressman Raymond S. McKeough [2d] was brought forward last night as the Cook county Democratic organization's choice for nomination for the United States senatorship in the April 14 primary.

He was indorsed formally by the county central committee at a hurriedly called meeting in the Morrison hotel, was escorted from the headquarters two floors below, and accepted the honor with a speech in which he pledged himself to continue to support President Roosevelt.

Mayor Voices Emphatic "No."

A few minutes earlier, the committee had listened to the reading of a letter from Mayor Kelly in which he declined to run for senator and urged the indorsement of somebody else. Earlier in the day, at a luncheon of the State Street council, the mayor had said emphatically that he would not run for the senatorship. At the time of the meeting he was on his way to Washington on defense business.

While there was no official admission to that effect, this speedy indorsement of McKeough by the regular organization—frequently described as the machine—was considered a message to a gathering of downstate Democrats in Springfield today. Downstate leaders have conceded that the nomination this year should go to Chicago and that Chicago should choose its man, but some of them grew impatient over the long delay.

McKeough on Way to Springfield.

With McKeough definitely in the race, it is believed the Springfield conference, an entirely unofficial meeting, will either echo the McKeough indorsement or remain silent on the senatorship. The congressman took a midnight train for the state capital and will be on hand if the downstaters wish to hear from him. So will Ald. Paul H. Douglas [5th] of Chicago, who has said that his petition for the senatorship contest will be filed tomorrow.

All of the publicly mentioned potential candidates, including State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney of Cook county, have been invited to Springfield, but it is not believed Courtney will accept. Efforts to communicate with him last night were unsuccessful. His one public utterance concerning the senatorship was that if the Cook county committee and the state central committee indorsed him he would run for that nomination.

Gives All Credit to Nash.

In his speech of gratitude for his indorsement, Congressman McKeough gave all the credit for his being in political office to County Chairman P. A. Nash, who introduced him to the Morrison meeting. He told how Nash put him into the race for congress in 1934, and continued:

"Since that time he has been not only a political sponsor but a father to me. He is the greatest patriarch in the Democratic party anywhere in the United States."

The candidate is serving his fourth term in Washington. He was born in Chicago, the son of a policeman, Timothy McKeough, on April 29, 1888, and thus is 53 years old. He is married and is the father of two daughters. Educated in the public and parochial schools and graduated from De La Salle institute, he was in the live stock commission and railroad business before entering the investment securities business in 1927.

Two years ago opposing candidates attacked him for voting against continuing the Dies investigation.

U. S. SUBSIDY OF HIGH SCHOOL BOYS IS URGED

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5 (AP).—A suggestion that the government as a wartime measure select high school youths of unusual talents and finance their education in institutions of higher learning was made today by a commission of the National Education association.

"It is not to be forgotten that it was the work of a group of young university physicists that gave the RAF technical air superiority to prevent a German invasion of Britain in 1940," said a report from the association's educational policies commission.

BAG 2 ATTACKING PLANES; AMBOINA ISLAND IS SILENT

DIGEST OF MAJOR WAR NEWS FROM FIGHTING FRONTS

Latest developments on world's fighting fronts:

British batteries on Singapore silenced a number of Japanese guns on the Malay peninsula in an artillery duel, according to dispatches from the besieged naval base.

As Batavia told of the second Japanese air raid in three days on Surabaya, location of the main Dutch naval base on Java, the United States army announced that American flyers had shot down two planes in battling a superior force over that Dutch East Indies island. Lack of news from Amboina aroused Dutch fears that their second biggest naval base had fallen.

Japs Gain in Burma.

In Burma, it was acknowledged that Japanese patrols had fought their way across the Salween river above fallen Moulmein in an enveloping thrust designed to isolate the British garrison at Martaban. Tokio claimed air raids had cut the Burma road's railway link, but a British military spokesman maintained that not even the fall of Rangoon would "mean the end" of China's lifeline highway.

In the Philippines, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's men engaged the Japanese in skirmishes, the war department reported.

Axis Nearing Tobruk.

In Libya, the British acknowledged that axis troops were within 50 miles of Tobruk in a drive which had pushed imperial forces back 180 miles.

The Russian radio said a big battle had been raging for days at the approaches to "an important town" northwest of Moscow. London indicated the town is Velikie Lukie, key rail point only 85 miles from the Latvian border.

Hershey Blames Draft for Wives Quitting Jobs

New York, Feb. 5 (AP).—Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, said today that about a half million married women had quit their jobs since the draft went into operation. While it could not be said positively that their resignations were part of a system that would enable their husbands to claim deferment because of dependents, he told a luncheon of the Commerce and Industry Association of New York, that must have been a contributing factor.

60 Japanese Planes Raid Surabaya Stronghold.

Fight Superior Force

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5 (AP).—A little group of American pursuit planes tackled a superior force of Japanese bombers and fighter craft over Java, the army reported today, bagging one bomber and a pursuit ship. One of the American planes was missing. The American planes were fast P-40s. While this was the first mention that such craft, with American pilots at the controls, were taking part in the East Indies struggle, there was nothing to indicate that they represented fresh aerial reenforcements rushed across the Pacific.

BATAVIA, Netherlands East Indies, Feb. 5 (AP).—Official silence hid the fate of Amboina tonight and suggested that Japanese landing forces might have gained the upper hand in the fight for the second biggest Dutch naval base, midway between the Philippines and Darwin, Australia.

Last reports of the battle on the little island of Amboina between Celebes and New Guinea told of a locked struggle yesterday, with first one side and then the other holding the advantage, but the war bulletin today said there was no further news.

Surabaya Again Raided.

Surabaya, Java, site of the biggest Dutch naval base, was attacked today by a fleet of 40 Japanese bombers and 20 fighters. It was the second raid on the city in three days. Enemy losses were not immediately determined, but three defending planes are known to have been lost.

As before, the city was machine gunned, but the bombing attack was mainly directed at the harbor works and naval establishment. Fires broke out in the harbor, causing some material damage. None was killed in downtown Surabaya.

Aircraft Carrier Believed Near.

The Aneta news agency said the presence of fighting planes in the attacks on Surabaya and the recent raid on Dutch Timor indicated an enemy aircraft carrier was in East Indies waters. The nearest point at which the Japanese might have established a land air base, the agency says, is in the Kendari region on the southeastern coast of the island of Celebes, 700 miles to the northeast—too far for effective fighter plane action.

The Dutch communique also said the commander and part of the garrison from Balik Papan on the east coast of Borneo "succeeded in fighting their way thru enemy troops to safety." Defense forces still are in action in the Balik Papan area and are under continual light bombardment thruout most of southeast Borneo, it added.

Japs Claim 85 Aircraft.

TOKIO, Feb. 5 [From Japanese Broadcasts], (AP).—Japanese naval aircraft in Tuesday's mass raid on the Surabaya naval base and the Malang air base in Java shot down or destroyed 85 enemy aircraft and lost only four, imperial headquarters said today.

JAVA SET FOR INVASION

SURABAYA, Java, Feb. 4 [Delayed.]—East Java, of which the big Dutch naval base of Surabaya is the political and industrial center, is set to meet a Japanese attack. A full-scale Japanese invasion attempt in this area, probably in conjunction with efforts to land in other parts of Java, is anticipated before long.

American participation in the battle against the Japanese in the Netherlands Indies already is large and can be expected to be on a still more extensive scale as time goes on and the anticipated attempt to invade Java materializes.

Surabaya is taking on an increasingly American atmosphere as American and Dutch rub shoulders in their common effort against Nippon. Americans are finding no difficulty in getting along with most Dutchmen with traditional facility at languages. "Speak English" shops are filled with American products, and Surabaya is as modern in tempo and development as most American cities.

Surabaya seemed little affected by its first Japanese air attack yesterday [Tuesday], and it is evident the sturdy Javanese will stand up to air raids with self-control and fortitude. Business went on as usual today [Wednesday] and the authorities reported no tendency among the populace to flee the city.

City a Symphony in Green.

In appearance Surabaya is a symphony in green, the authorities having painted all large buildings green so that to raiding airmen they blend into the tropical foliage which surrounds them. Water just below the surface has prevented erection of bomb-proof shelters, but sufficient surface shelters that can protect occupants from explosions and shrapnel have been built for the entire population.

The Dutch do not propose to lose Surabaya, and no evacuation of the inhabitants is planned. Food is plentiful, and even imported American tinned goods and manufactured articles are available in quantity. Altho nearly every Dutch man and woman in Surabaya has a wartime job, social life still thrives, and clubs and hotels draw crowds of diners and dancers. American officers are a noticeable element in the city's social life. American-Dutch relations are obviously cordial.

CHINESE BATTLE JAPS FOR PORT; LOSSES HEAVY

CHUNGKING, Feb. 6 [Friday] (AP).—Both Chinese and Japanese forces, battling in the outskirts of Waichow, refugee crowded port city in Kwangtung province, suffered heavy losses during continuing fighting, a Chinese communique said early today.

Opposing troops clashed on both sides of the East river, which splits the city, as the Japanese sought to dislodge the Chinese from recently captured positions.

Despite bombing by Japanese planes the Chinese moved up reënforcements in an attempt to save the city, the communique said.

Meanwhile, it was added, original Chinese positions on both sides of the Chang river, in the Nanchang area, were restored after successful Chinese counterattacks.

CHIANG CALLS ON CHINESE TO JOIN SINGAPORE FIGHT

SINGAPORE, Feb. 5 (AP).—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek sent a message to the Chinese people of Singapore today urging them to be loyal and courageous in the defense of the great allied stronghold. The message said:

"As the battle of Singapore is beginning, all Chinese there must come together with firm service in helping the war of resistance. Our countrymen who are in military labor and service must especially work without fear of any hardship and be loyal and courageous in performing their duty.

"Victory of the allies means our victory. I urge all to take up their responsibilities in facing their important task."

BRITON'S PAINTED SOS SAVES SHIP; HE WINS CROSS

LONDON, Feb. 5 (AP).—Thomas Huggett, a steward aboard the German-captured 8,046 ton tanker, San Casimiro, was awarded the British empire medal tonight for his feat a year ago in surreptitiously painting a three-foot-high SOS deck sign which enabled British patrols to recapture the ship.

New Zealand to Draft All Childless Men First

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, Feb. 5 (AP).—New Zealand announced today that men with children will be called by age groups for military service both here and abroad following the calling of all childless married men. The ministery of national service said the government is adopting this method because the army wants younger men who take more easily to modern warfare while industry needs the more skilled and experienced type, who are usually older.

Commander of Repulse Becomes a Rear Admiral

LONDON, Feb. 5 (AP).—The British admiralty announced tonight the promotion to rear admiral of Capt. W. G. Tennant, commander of the battle cruiser Repulse which was sunk by the Japanese off the Malayan coast Dec. 10. Tennant, who has just returned to England, was received by King George VI. He was one of five captains to be promoted.

SINGAPORE GUNS SILENCE JAPS IN ARTILLERY DUEL

Foe Begins 'Offensive'; Bombs Ships and City.

BULLETIN.

TOKIO [From Japanese Broadcasts], Feb. 6 [Friday] —The Domei news agency reported today that Japanese army bombers sank one 10,000 ton ship, set fire to one of 6,000 tons, and hit three of 3,000 tons each in the Strait of Johore at noon yesterday. The agency said other Japanese aircraft raided a large Singapore airdrome, destroying half of the runway and other objectives and wrecking five planes. It said the Japanese suffered no losses.

SINGAPORE, Feb. 5 (AP).—Behind the moatlike protection of Johore strait, British artillery men exchanged shells today with Japanese batteries pointed at Singapore Island and one after another silenced an unspecified number of enemy guns. The Singapore gunners scored this success despite continued bombing and strafing from the air. Damage from Japanese shells was described as "negligible."

Besides knocking out Japanese guns, the defenders also smashed at enemy observation posts and transport facilities carrying Japanese troops into position for the expected water-jump assault on this island stronghold.

Japs Swarm Down Peninsula.

RAF reconnaissance planes reported "much enemy movement southward in Johore." Japanese forces have been streaming southward thru that southernmost state of Malaya, taking up assault positions around Johore Bahru, since the defenders last Friday night and early Saturday pulled back into their strategic island, blasting the causeway behind them, to await the invaders' attempt to cross Johore strait or outflank the island.

Johore strait, a half mile to a mile and a half wide, is the greatest obstacle encountered by the Japanese in their march thru Malaya. Even a feint at crossing is bound to be costly.

300 Civilians Injured.

The Japanese, no doubt, are counting on gaining domination of the air by ruthless bombing and strafing to pave the way for any attempt to force the strait. Nearly 300 civilians have been injured in the past two days—63 fatally. They are virtually without shelter.

The ranking air raid warden here has urged authorities to use unemployed mining engineers to tunnel air raid shelters into hills around the city of Singapore.

But the Japanese have not yet put down the British challenge in the air. Hurricane fighters intercepted a large formation over Singapore this morning, shot down one of the attackers, probably got a second, and damaged a third. The raids caused comparatively "little damage or casualties," today's communique asserted, adding: "Shipping in the harbor was also attacked."

American Flyer Missing on Venezuela Mercy Trip

CARACAS, Venezuela, Feb. 5 [Special].—Jimmy Angel, daredevil American flyer, was 48 hours overdue at Ciudad Bolivar today on the return leg of a mercy errand in the wilderness to bring out the wife of Capt. Felix Cardona to a maternity hospital. She and her four children were aboard the plane when faint signals were heard Tuesday, saying that visibility was poor. Commander Fitzhugh Lee, United States naval attaché in Caracas, took off today to join Venezuelan army planes in a search for the party.

Big Jap Bombers Raid New Guinea Port Again

MELBOURNE, Australia, Feb. 5.—Japanese four engined planes bombed Port Moresby, New Guinea, this morning for the second time. They dropped 30 bombs, of which some fell in the sea. Some damage was done to civilian buildings, but there were no known casualties. The enemy machine gunned and attacked various points by cannon.

JAPS ATTACK U.S. HOSPITAL SHIP 9 TIMES IN A DAY

MELBOURNE, Australia, Feb. 5 (AP).—A hospital ship carrying wounded American soldiers and nurses from the Philippines to an Australian port was attacked nine times in one day by Japanese bombers and fighter planes which "came over like swarms of flies," it was disclosed today.

One of the wounded soldiers said the raids took place Jan. 8.

He said, however, that "all the wounded were cheerful" and declared their only wish was "to get well and have another crack at the Japs."

[The ship apparently was the 2,067 ton Mactan, which the United States army announced on Jan. 15 had reached Darwin, Australia, after sailing from Manila shortly before New Year's. This would seem to locate the attack as somewhere off the Dutch East Indies island of Celebes.]

CONGRESS MEDAL IS SOUGHT FOR GEN. MacARTHUR

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5 (AP).—A bill directing President Roosevelt to award the congressional medal of honor to Gen. Douglas MacArthur for his heroic fight in the Philippines was introduced today by Rep. J. Parnell Thomas [R., N. J.].

Congress also was asked to designate a District of Columbia road and a Tennessee Valley authority dam in honor of Gen. MacArthur. Rep. Luther A. Jones [D., Tex.] introduced a bill to change the name of Conduit road in the District of Columbia to MacArthur road.

Legislation offered by Rep. John Jennings [R., Tenn.] would change the name of the TVA Douglas dam to Douglas MacArthur dam.

That 'Submarine in Sky' Report Is Full of Hot Air

Mitchel Field, N. Y., Feb. 5 [Special].—A woman air raid spotter at Jamesburg, N. J., flashed Mitchel Field authorities today: "There's a submarine floating in the sky." The army quickly reassured her it was only a navy blimp.

BURMA INVADERS SEEK TO ENVELOP BRITISH GARRISON

RANGOON, Burma, Feb. 5 (AP).—Japanese invaders have forced patrol crossings of the Salween river above fallen Moulmein in an enveloping thrust apparently aimed at Thaton, 40 miles to the north, and intended to cut off the British garrison at Martaban.

Such crossings were officially acknowledged today and it also was disclosed that Paan, 30 miles above Moulmein, on the east bank of the Salween, had been in enemy hands for some days and only this morning was assaulted by British bombers.

Pledge to Hold Rangoon.

Amid the confused and still inconclusive fighting thus progressing upon the far approaches to the Burmese capital of Rangoon—it lies across the Martaban gulf from Moulmein—a British military spokesman declared:

"Certainly it is our definite intention to hold Rangoon at all costs. But even if Rangoon should go it wouldn't mean the end of Burma or the Burma road."

[Rangoon lies at the sea end of the Burma road, the one presently effective avenue of allied supplies to China. The British spokesman, in saying not even the city's capture would close that avenue of aid, apparently referred to previous conjecture that an alternative route would be built from Calcutta thru Upper Burma via Bhamo into China.]

The afternoon communique from British headquarters reported that Martaban, just above Moulmein across the Salween's mouth, had "a quiet day except for a little shelling."

Attack Foe with Bayonets.

"One of our patrols," the communique added, "attacked the enemy at the point of the bayonet and in the fight which ensued some casualties were inflicted on the enemy. Our own casualties were light."

Japanese planes bombed Rangoon's western suburbs this morning, causing some casualties. An airport north of Rangoon was bombed last night.

JAPS CLAIM ISLAND.

The Berlin radio said Japanese troops had occupied the Island of Bilugywun, off Moulmein, thus getting astride the trans-gulf routes to Rangoon.

Tokio, also via Berlin, declared that the railway running north from Rangoon to supply the Burma road had been "cut effectively" by Japanese air raids. It was asserted that the railway station at Toungoo, 130 miles north of Rangoon, had been destroyed, and that south of Mandalay the line had been cut at several points.

The Chinese press described the situation in Burma as grave. The newspaper Takungpao declared that "altho Chinese troops have been steadily pouring into Burma, they thus far have not received orders to attack the enemy. This is regrettable."

Lieut. Gen. T. J. Hutton, commander of British forces in Burma, is scheduled to issue an important statement today.

ROBBED OF $496 NEAR BANK.

Meyer Tobin, 4424 Drexel boulevard, secretary of the Sun-Ray Cleaners, 2324 Madison street, was robbed of $496 yesterday near the Liberty National bank, 3158 Roosevelt road. Tobin was knocked down by a bandit, who fled in a car with two other men.

AEF Goes on Parade in Ulster; Declares War Will Be Long One

First AEF Ceremonial

BY RICE YAHNER.

WITH THE UNITED STATES ARMY IN NORTHERN IRELAND, Feb. 5 (AP).—American troops proudly stepped out today in a show for their British buddies and Irish townsfolk in the first ceremonial since the second AEF vanguard landed in the British isles less than two weeks ago.

A portion of the force marched miles thru the countryside to a community where, with fighter planes winging overhead, they passed in review and inspection for Maj. Gen. Russell P. Hartle, the United States commander in Northern Ireland.

Eyes of civilians and soldiers followed the Americans on the march, with their own band playing American march tunes.

Dog Joins in the Ceremony.

The British have been in the war so long that ceremony has been cut out, but the American review could be called an official visit of the soldiers to the town, near their concealed bases, and it gave an opportunity for mass inspection.

British rifles cracked on a nearby target range as the Americans paraded in khaki ranks.

Following every step thru the ceremony was an Irish mongrel dog which, uninvited, became loyal to Sergt. Max Shepherd of Waterloo, Ia. The dog was named "Hawkeye," for Iowa.

March Fails to Bother Men.

Among the troop contingent was Corp. Lloyd Carpenter of Waverly, Ia., who has two sons in the United States navy air corps. He served in World war No. 1 and "came along this time because nobody was left at home."

More than 10 miles of marching with full field equipment in the cold afternoon did not bother the soldiers. They are getting used to British food. Minor respiratory ills are fewer than they would be at home, said Maj. I. Gittler, one of the force's surgeons.

Already the American soldiers are mapping plans to participate in local athletics. Four boxers are to demonstrate their skill in a town show this week. Private Lester Thompson of Minnesota is matched against Corp. Howard Duncan of Iowa, and Private Charles Beekman is to meet Private Warren Slettermark. Both of the latter are from Minnesota.

Predicts Lot of Fighting

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 5 [Special].—Warning that every one must prepare for a long war and have an "awful lot of patience," Lieut. Gen. Andrew G. L. McNaughton, who is back on leave after two years in command of the Canadian army in Britain, said today:

"We are going to see a lot of fighting before it is thru."

He also predicted:

"It is man power combined with industrial power that is going to count. We have not reached finality in weapons of war. Industrial ingenuity should take every weapon with a view to bettering it.

Hails Canadian Equipment.

"Don't let anybody think the Germans are beaten yet. We can't let up in our effort. We must concentrate on smashing the Nazis until our armies are in Berlin. . . ."

Regarding his men in Britain and the equipment Canada is pouring out, Gen. McNaughton said:

"The men are hard and fit and have become acclimatized. The material coming into our hands is all thoroly proved and tested. We are completely satisfied that the Bren guns, Bren carriers, tanks, vehicles, and other equipment coming from Canada are better than the rest."

Pay Cost in Shells, Not Lives.

The Canadian commander added:

"In this war we want to pay the costs in shells and machinery, rather than in man power, so I trust when our formations are complete we will have a greater assembly of armor than anybody else. Our job is to ease the task and multiply the power and speed of man thru mechanization."

One feature of the training of his troops in Britain which the commander emphasized was that, despite the mechanization of the army, the men were kept on the march.

"The more motor transports there are, the more the troops have to march," he said. "Vehicles are for strategical moves, tactical movements are carried out on foot and over great distances."

AMERICANS REST AS JAPS SLACKEN PHILIPPINE DRIVE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5 (AP).—Beaten to a standstill in a fortnight of savage jungle and seashore fighting, the Japanese forces on the Bataan peninsula in the Philippines gave the hard-pressed defending forces of Gen. Douglas MacArthur a rest.

Combat operations were confined to skirmishes arising apparently from unexpected encounters between advanced scouting patrols of the two armies roaming the underbrush to determine the other's next move.

For MacArthur's American and Filipino soldiers the lull undoubtedly meant a long overdue opportunity for rest and hair-trigger sleep. They have been fighting with few letups for nearly two months.

400 POUND FURNACE STOLEN.

Attorney Arthur W. Main reported to the police last night that an iron furnace weighing 400 pounds had been stolen from the back yard of his home at 9821 Vanderpoel avenue.

CHURCHILL BALKS AT ANY REVISION OF WAR CABINET

Dominion Representatives Won't Be Included.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 5. — An undercurrent of dissatisfaction persists here despite Prime Minister Winston Churchill's overwhelming vote of confidence last week and the government changes announced yesterday.

Churchill today in the house of commons refused to promise any change in the war cabinet and said arrangements for the British dominions to be represented in the British war cabinet would not change its membership. He said Sir Earl Page, special Australian representative in London, for several months has been exercising the rights Australia wanted in asking for a voice in formation of war policy.

He said he had informed Canada, New Zealand, and South Africa that "the same facilities will be available to them if they wish to take advantage of them." He added that Canada and South Africa "do not at present wish to attach special representatives to the war cabinet," being satisfied with the present arrangements, while no reply has been received from New Zealand.

How Dominions Get a Say.

Asked whether dominion representatives who wished to attend cabinet meetings would have any say in decisions or whether they would be there merely to offer advice, Churchill said:

"Giving advice is having a say."

Aneurin Bevan, Laborite, asked why the new minister of supply, Sir Andrew Rae Duncan, will not be given war cabinet status. It is reported that Sir Stafford Cripps, former ambassador to Moscow, refused the post of minister of supply because he would be denied a place in the war cabinet and equality of powers with those of Lord Beaverbrook, who vacated the post to become minister of war production.

Churchill said he did not think it necessary for the supply minister to be in the war cabinet, since many advisers urge that it be kept small. Churchill, however, did not satisfy questioners who sought a definition of Beaverbrook's powers. He said he would make a statement on the subject at commons' next session.

Hint Eden May Go to U. S.

Reports circulated in informed circles tonight that Anthony Eden, foreign secretary, may succeed Lord Halifax as ambassador to America. Halifax has requested to be relieved of his post, but whether he will resume his old job of foreign secretary is uncertain.

This position has been suggested as suitable for Cripps, especially in view of his close contacts with Moscow and because of the sympathy the Indians are known to have for him. The foreign secretaryship would give Cripps membership in the war cabinet.

Cripps declared that he is returning to parliament as a "back bench" member, adding:

"I do not propose to make things difficult for the government by merely becoming a critic. But neither do I propose to be afraid of saying what I think ought to be said."

Asked if he is going to India on a special mission, Cripps said he had no such intention, but "that does not mean to say that if some one asked me, I might not go."

HAWAII GETTING BACK TO NORMAL IN A WARRING WAY

HONOLULU, Hawaii, Feb. 5 (AP).—With reopening of the stock market, schools and the territorial courts Hawaii returned to a semblance of normalcy today, but war and defense remained the uppermost considerations.

Residents may stay out until 8 p. m., but they must not show any lights.

Gas masks are carried by virtually every man and woman; flower plots and vacant tracts are being converted rapidly into vegetable gardens; the building of bomb shelters continues apace, and nightly blackouts remain the unalterable rule.

Plans for evacuation of all women and children from an 18 square mile danger area along Honolulu's water front in case of an attempted enemy landing were outlined by Lieut. Gen. Delos C. Emmons, military governor of Hawaii.

U. S. TO PROVIDE WARSHIPS FOR USE OF URUGUAY

Will Guard Coast with Native Crews.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Feb. 5 (AP).—With vessels provided by the United States and manned by Uruguayan naval crews, Uruguay will patrol her own strategic coasts on the Atlantic and the River Plate estuary, where the shattered, refuged German pocket battleship Graf Spee was scuttled after a battle with the British in December, 1939.

The disclosure was made tonight by Defense Minister General Julio Roletti, who said this step had been taken to maintain pledges of continental solidarity. These pledges, he said, have taken on new meaning since Uruguay's recent break with the axis.

Roletti explained that the Uruguayan navy as constituted is unequal to the patrol task, but he added that his government had been informed by Washington, D. C., that United States vessels were provided for the Uruguayan crews.

Three Nations Instruct Officers.

The crews are in training here and two officers are studying with the Argentine navy, two with Brazil, and two with the British South Atlantic squadron in preparation for the patrol.

Roletti said the ships would be complemented with seaplanes to be purchased from the United States under the terms of a $17,000,000 lend-lease project.

The defense minister disclosed that plans were being speeded for new naval air bases. Construction of a giant airport also is being pushed, in preparation for shipment of military planes from the United States.

18 to 20 in Military Training.

Roletti announced an order to augment the regular standing army and said that the government soon would start military training of all male citizens of from 18 to 20 years old to build up reserves.

Earlier today the government issued a decree extending the rights of nonbelligerency to Great Britain and announcing that it would apply the same treatment to any extracontinental power coöperating with the hemisphere defense.

These two steps carried out a proposal Foreign Minister Alberto Guani presented to the recent Pan-American conference at Rio de Janeiro but which failed to carry there.

Its General Batista Now; Cuban Military Revamped

HAVANA, Cuba, Feb. 5 (AP).—Now it's Gen. Batista. Long a colonel while active head of the Cuban army, President Fulgencio Batista became major general on the reserve list today under a new wartime law reorganizing the military. It provides superior officers who have been chief of the army and have been or are president shall attain the rank of the army's chief officer. Batista retired from the army to run for president but may be recalled any time after his term expires in 1944.

FLAMES DAMAGE FOOD WAREHOUSE NEAR NAVY YARD

Boston, Mass., Feb. 5 (AP).—A section of a 1,000 foot food warehouse on the banks of the Mystic river was destroyed today by fire which tentatively was attributed by some fire officials to a short circuit.

Firemen brought the flames under control after a two hour battle. The building, containing foodstuffs of a grocery chain, is about a quarter of a mile from the Boston Navy Yard in the Charlestown district.

Fire Chief Samuel J. Pope, estimating damage at $75,000, said that there appeared to be no evidence of sabotage.

The flames were subdued before they could spread to a wool warehouse or to a chemical storage plant of the du Pont company. Freight cars and a freighter moored nearby were moved out of danger. Four fireboats aided in fighting the fire.

Four workmen who were trapped temporarily in the shed while trying to battle the flames with a fire extinguisher rescued a fifth employé by forming a human chain and passing his unconscious body out of the smoke filled building.

BOYS TOWN USES TRIBUNE MAPS FOR WAR STUDY

Pupils at Boys Town, Neb., Father Flanagan's famous establishment, are using THE TRIBUNE's color maps to follow the progress of the war, a Chicago alumnus of the home said yesterday. He is Sam Turner, 20 years old, who was placed in the employ of the Stevens hotel last June and is now in charge of the hotel's exhibit hall. Young Turner clips the maps from THE TRIBUNE and sends them to his former history professor at Boys Town. Turner was made a member of W-G-N's "Citizens of Tomorrow" honor roll in June.

The united nations in the western Pacific war theater have a numerical superiority of nearly 3 to 1 over the Japanese in native mongoloid [yellow race] population, a survey disclosed yesterday. The Japanese and the territories under their control have a mongoloid population of 175,800,000, while the countries aligned with the united forces have 497,700,000, including the 422,000,000 of vast China.

The mongoloid peoples have diverse religions and cultures, and among some of them there is a strong desire for independence, or at least home rule. These factors would prevent their even living harmoniously in a sphere of influence which Japan wishes to impose in that part of the world, according to Prof. Fay-Cooper Cole, head of the department of anthropology at the University of Chicago. While some of the mongoloids resent control by the white race, they would more strongly resent Japanese domination, he said.

Comparison of Population.

COUNTRY.	POPULATION.
China	422,000,000
Dutch East Indies	42,000,000
Philippines	16,000,000
Burma	14,600,000
Borneo	1,850,000
Straits Settlement [including Singapore]	1,250,000
Total	497,700,000

The mongoloids under Japanese control are:

COUNTRY.	POPULATION.
Japan	98,000,000
Manchukuo	36,000,000
French Indo-China	23,000,000
Thailand [Siam]	15,000,000
Malaya	3,800,000
Total	175,800,000

Part of Borneo has been seized by the Japanese, but no estimate is available on how much of the population is subjugated. Manchukuo was taken by Japan from China 10 years ago. French Indo-China was brought under Japanese control before the war with the United States began. Thailand's weak government was unable to resist the Japanese and the latter have conquered Malaya.

Many Are Buddhists.

"Buddhism is the religion of Japan, China, Thailand, and Burma," Prof. Cole explained. "Malaya, the Dutch Indies, and the coastal areas of Borneo are largely Mohammedan. Parts of the interiors of Sumatra, Bornea, and Malay state are pagan.

"Most of the Philippines, however, are Christian, altho in the southern end of the islands are the Mohammedan Moros. There are many cultural differences, too, in the western Pacific.

"The Japanese originally borrowed much of the culture of China and made some modifications. The educated Chinese are contemptuous of the Japanese. The Philippines took over the Spanish culture and have adopted many standards of the western world under American rule.

Filipinos Fight for Freedom.

"The Filipinos' great hope is for independence, as promised by the United States. For this reason, and to a lesser extent because of a different culture and a different religion, they are vehemently set against the Japanese.

"In Malaya, too, there is no sympathy for the Japs. Three classes of population there—the Malayans, the southern Chinese, and the tamils [laborers from India]—dislike each other more than they dislike the British overlords.

"In the Indies the Dutch are the overlords, and there is no friendliness of the natives toward the Japanese. The Dutch have encouraged intermarriage with the natives and there are some 250,000 mixed bloods loyal to Holland on the islands."

M'ARTHUR PORTRAIT IN THE TRIBUNE TODAY DONE BY OSKAR GROSS

The portrait of Gen. Douglas MacArthur which is reproduced in its original colors on page 12 of this issue was painted expressly for THE TRIBUNE by the well known Chicago artist, Oskar Gross. Executed in oils, this portrait of the gallant defender of the Philippines, is a work of exceptional merit. In it the artist has created a true likeness of a man of spirit and determination.

Mr. Gross is an American of Austrian birth. It was in the early days of the first World war that he renounced his foreign citizenship. He was born in Vienna in 1871, and was a pupil there of the Imperial Royal Academy of Fine Arts. Later he studied in Munich and Paris. It was the murals that he painted for two pavilions of the Paris exposition of 1900 that attracted the attention of American art lovers and led to his coming to this country in 1902. He has remained in America since, devoting his attention in the main to portraiture.

He has exhibited his works thruout the country, and has won numerous awards.

FBI RAIDS JAPS NEAR NAVY YARD ON WEST COAST

Vallejo, Cal., Feb. 5 (AP).—Twenty-five Federal Bureau of Investigation agents raided Japanese establishments in Vallejo today and took many persons into custody in an investigation of espionage in the big Mare Island navy yard area.

Nat Pieper, head of the FBI at San Francisco, said Japanese employés of the navy laundry, and the new Frisco grill, were taken into custody "because there are grounds for suspicion of espionage."

POINT TO FLAWS IN DEFENSES OF PEARL HARBOR

Jap Timetable Reveals Weak U. S. Plan.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—A timetable of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor was cited by military experts tonight as offering conclusive evidence that the success of the assault was due to inadequate defense plans and inadequate arms as well as to failure of the army and navy to be on the alert.

Even if the armed forces had been on the alert, experts said, they could not have detected the Japs in time to forestall the attack. The defense plans were not drawn to meet the form of attack developed by the Japs and for that reason the defense forces did not have a sufficient quantity of the type of equipment needed to meet such an attack.

Not Absolving 2 Commanders.

Experts emphasize that they were not attempting to absolve Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel and Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short of the blame placed upon them for the failure of the defense forces to be on the alert in the report of the board of inquiry, headed by Justice Owen J. Roberts of the Supreme court.

However, experts said, Kimmel and Short were not responsible for the inadequate plans and inadequate equipment.

Carriers 700 Miles Away.

The timetable of the war experts shows that Jap aircraft carriers were about 600 to 700 miles off the island of Oahu at dusk the night before the attack. In order to have detected the carriers the defending forces should have had an air patrol or ships out that distance.

Defense plans called for a 700 or 800 mile patrol by the navy if deemed necessary by the head of the naval forces and a 20 mile off shore patrol by the army. On Nov. 1 naval intelligence assured Kimmel that the bulk of the Jap fleet was in home harbors, according to the Roberts report, so such a patrol was not deemed necessary.

Even if such a reconnaissance had been made daily for the full 360 degree circle about the islands, the Japs would not have been spotted 700 miles away at sunset, experts said. The patrol would probably have reached the 700 or 800 mile limit at noon and would not have spotted the enemy approach.

Not Enough Planes.

Plans did not call for a patrol out 700 or more miles from dawn to dusk, but merely set an extreme range for a daily patrol. The defense forces did not have sufficient carriers or enough planes and trained pilots to maintain such a thoro sea patrol.

Army plans called for planes to be ready only after four hours' notice. The army's first notice of the presence of Jap planes, which went unheeded, came at 7:02 a. m., or five minutes after sunrise. The Jap planes were then 130 miles out.

In order to have intercepted the Japs in force the army planes would have had to have had notice at about four hours before sunrise, when the Japs were about 400 miles out to sea aboard aircraft carriers. No night patrol was maintained and justly so, experts said, because carriers would run without lights and could not be spotted.

Plane Detector Inadequate.

Experts also pointed out that if the islands had had detector equipment of the most modern type which locates planes from 800 to 900 miles away the defenders should have spotted the enemy planes taking off from the carriers at least two hours before they struck. This would have enabled many of the army planes to get into the air. The mobile plane detectors on the island, however, had a range of less than 150 miles.

Failure to sound any alarm kept all except a few planes on the ground where they were easy targets because they were in close formation. Planes at one of the fields which was not bombed were able to take off and give good account of themselves against the Jap raiders.

The four hour alarm limit did not mean that no planes could take off until four hours after the alarm was sounded but that all of the planes should be in the air before that time elapsed. The limit was necessary because many of the flyers lived some distance from the air fields and also because planes at the fields were parked together instead of being scattered at various strategic points. The planes were so concentrated that their taking off would require considerable time.

No Plans for Dawn.

Thoro defense plans would have called for at least a portion of the army planes, if not the whole strength, to be in the air at dawn, experts said. No such plans were ordered by the army high command in Washington. Had the planes been in the air the Japs would have been routed.

The Japs evidently timed their attack to be about 130 miles off shore at 7 a. m., knowing that the aircraft warning system operated from 4 a. m. to 7 a. m. By chance a noncommissioned officer receiving training heard a large number of planes approaching east of north about 130 miles off. He reported this to an inexperienced officer, who dismissed the planes as friendly planes, according to the Roberts report.

An Unexplained Failure.

An unexplained failure to realize the attack was being made, played into the hands of the Japs earlier when a Jap submarine was spotted and sunk about 6:30 a. m. in the prohibited area off Pearl Harbor. Altho a report of this encounter reached the naval watch officer no general alarm was sounded.

No general alarm was sounded until after the Japs struck at 7:55 a. m.

The time table of the Jap attack, as prepared by military experts from the Roberts report and other official sources, is as follows:

DEC. 6.

6:56 p. m. Honolulu time.—Jap fleet, including at least three carriers, at sunset races at 25 to 30 knots [29 to 35 land miles an hour] for Hawaii from point about 650 miles northwest of Oahu.

DEC. 7.

4:00 a. m.—Army's mobile airplane detectors placed in operation.

4:58 a. m.—Submarine net across Pearl Harbor opened for entrance of two mine sweepers. Ordinarily closed during night hours.

5:57 a. m.—Jap carriers about 300 miles north and slightly east of Oahu. Three American task forces out to the south, west, and southwest of island. Some navy patrol planes operating with these task forces, but far from Japs. Jap bombers begin taking off from carriers for Hawaii as dawn lights sky.

6:33 to 6:45 a. m.—USS Antares sinks sub.

6:57 a. m. [according to the navy], sunrise.—All Jap planes in air and about 150 miles off Oahu. Moving at about 150 miles an hour.

7:12 a. m.—Sinking of sub reported to naval base watch officer. Destroyer sent to investigate. No alarm.

7:20 a. m.—Sergeant reports presence of planes to inexperienced lieutenant. No alarm.

7:45 a. m.—Second submarine sighted in harbor . . . probably passed in an hour earlier. No alarm sounded.

7:57 a. m.—Jap planes blast from air. Alarm sounded.

8:35 to 8:43 a. m.—Another small submarine sunk.

8:40 a. m.—Submarine net closed.

11:00 a. m.—All attacking planes withdrawn.

1:00 p. m.—Jap fleet starts back for Japan with returned raiders.

The Jap planes had a cruising range of at least 1,500 miles and could easily have darted in from about 300 miles at sea, dropped their bombs, and returned in the time shown, experts said. It has been estimated 150 to 200 planes were employed in the attack.

Experts Cite Attack Timetable

(Story in adjoining column.)

C., yesterday as offering evidence that the success of the assault was due to inadequate defense plans and inadequate arms as well as to the failure of the army and navy to be alert.

Germans Seize 3 Russian Film Actresses as Guerrillas

BERLIN, Feb. 5 [From German Broadcasts] (AP).—Three Russian film actresses who were trained in soviet guerrilla schools have been captured by German troops as they sought to cross Nazi lines on wrecking expeditions in the rear, the Berlin radio said tonight. The radio said the three were equipped with explosives and incendiary liquids used for sabotage.

THREE REGIMENTS OF NAZI INFANTRY SMASHED—REDS

Claim 47 German Planes Destroyed in 2 Days.

MOSCOW, Feb. 6 [Friday] (AP).—The Red army still is overcoming German resistance, a soviet communique announced early today. One Russian unit was reported to have wiped out three Nazi infantry regiments on the central front.

A total two day bag of 47 German planes was claimed compared with 10 Red craft lost. The Nazis were said to have lost 160 planes to 39 Russian during the last week in January.

President Michael Kalinin declared yesterday that the Red army is approaching the borders of Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, and White Russia, and that in the south every day "more occupied places in the Ukraine are recovered." In some sectors the Germans have been hurled back 175 miles since the Red counteroffensive began on Dec. 6.

100 Miles from Latvian Border.

The Red army last was reported officially operating in the northwest in the Kholm area, some 100 miles from Latvia and Estonia; below Smolensk in the Kirov sector it also was about the same distance from White Russia; in the Ukraine Marshal Timoshenko's troops were beyond Lozovaya, important railway junction between the Donetz and Dnieper rivers on the road to the big industrial center of Dnepropetrovsk.

[The British radio quoted the soviet Kuibyshev radio as saying a big battle had been under way for days at the approaches to an important town northwest of Moscow. This town, the British radio suggested, was Velikie Luki, key junction on the Moscow-Riga railway west of Rzhev and 85 miles from the Latvian border.]

Threaten Vital Communications.

The Russians were reported to be threatening many vital communication points.

The Red army either already has cut or is dangerously near the Leningrad-Vitebsk railway in the northwest; has cut the Rzhev-Vyazma-Bryansk railway in the center; and is imperiling the entire Nazi communication system linking Orel, Kursk, Kharkov, and Stalino.

Unconfirmed dispatches said the Russians had made new gains both north and south of Kharkov.

In two days official dispatches have told of more than 8,500 Germans falling, 5,300 of these being slain or wounded in the recapture of five localities on the Kalinin front northwest of Moscow.

New gains also were reported on the central front along the road to Smolensk. Six more points were recaptured in that area.

Germans Counterattack.

BERLIN, Feb. 5 [From German Broadcasts]—(AP).—The high command communique today said "on the eastern [Russian] front numerous soviet attacks failed with heavy losses for the enemy. Our counterattacks resulted in local successes. In the central sector an enemy force was surrounded and annihilated. Formations of the air force carried out successful attacks on troops in prepared positions, columns on the march, and enemy air bases."

HUNT GIRL'S ATTACKER.

Police began a search last night for a young man who dragged a girl 8 years old into an alley in the 3500 block of Clark street. Her screams and the approach of passers-by frightened him away before he could harm the child.

GIRL SPY SAYS RING HAD RADIO TRANSMITTER

New York, Feb. 5 (AP).—An 18 year old German born high school girl, the government's chief witness in the espionage trial of seven persons, said today that the lone woman defendant told her she disposed of a short wave radio transmitter in August, 1941, shortly before the FBI broke up an alleged spy ring.

The girl, blonde Lucy Boehmler, asserted that Mrs. Helen Pauline Mayer, a defendant, informed her that she had destroyed papers belonging to Kurt Frederick Ludwig, alleged ring leader, and had "gotten rid of" a radio transmitted in her home.

Miss Boehmler, who has pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy to violate the espionage act, said she received $25 a week as secretary to Ludwig and Ulrich von Der Osten, described by United States Attorney Mathias F. Correa as the mastermind of the ring. Von Der Osten was killed last spring in a taxicab accident.

AXIS ADVANCED UNITS WITHIN 50 MILES OF TOBRUK

British Patrols Busy Along Entire Libyan Front.

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 5 (AP).—Spearheads of the axis African army tonight were believed to stand within 50 miles of Tobruk in the continuing counteroffensive which has swept the British forces back some 180 miles since the German and Italian troops occupied Bengazi.

While the British army command reported only patrol activity and operations of mobile columns "along the whole of our front," the latest high water mark of the axis' eastward push was indicated in an RAF communique which announced that British bombers had been active to the east and west of Tmimi.

Bombing Raid on Sicily.

Situated at the eastern base of the Cirenaican hump, Tmimi is 60 miles west of Tobruk and about 140 miles air line from the Libyan-Egyptian border.

In addition, the RAF said its fighter planes machine gunned enemy vehicles in the forward sectors and that in a bombing raid on Sicily yesterday a freight train and railway bridge were attacked "with good results."

Eight RAF planes were listed as missing from operations that included defense against a large enemy bombing squadron under strong fighter escort which staged another assault on Malta. "Several" of the raiders were said to have been damaged.

Dive Bombers Raid Malta.

VALETTA, Malta, Feb. 5 (AP).—Dive bombers caused a number of casualties and some property damage in a sharp attack on this British Mediterranean island base today. A large bomber force attacked a second time this afternoon.

AXIS COUNTS PRISONERS.

The German and Italian communiques yesterday said axis troops have passed Derna and are "continuing to pursue the enemy eastward." German planes were said to have dispersed British columns west of Tobruk.

The axis said that according to reports thus far received, 3,500 prisoners were brought in during fighting in Cirenaica in January, and 370 armored cars and 192 guns were captured or destroyed.

The Germans said submarines attacked a British convoy off Sollum and "several torpedo hits were scored on various units. The sinking of a British destroyer is probable," it was claimed.

The Germans said their bombers under fighter escort attacked the port of Valetta, Malta, with "heavy and superheavy bombs."

THREE WARSHIPS TO BE LAUNCHED AHEAD OF TIME

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 5 (AP).—Four to six months ahead of schedule two destroyers and a cruiser will be launched here and in nearby Camden, N. J., as a Lincoln's birthday celebration next Thursday, the navy announced today.

Ceremonies will be held to a minimum because of wartime conditions. Only a few guests will be admitted to the heavily guarded yards and most of the spectators will be the men who built the ships.

The cruiser Montpelier will slide from the ways of the New York Shipbuilding corporation into the Delaware river at Camden, and the destroyers Butler and Gherardi will be launched at the Philadelphia navy yard.

3 Canadian Airforce Flyers Die When Plane Crashes

SYDNEY, N. S., Feb. 5 (AP).—Three occupants of a royal Canadian air force plane were killed instantly when their machine crashed 50 miles southwest of Sydney last night, RCAF headquarters here said today. A fourth member of the plane's crew escaped with only slight injuries, altho the plane burst into flames.

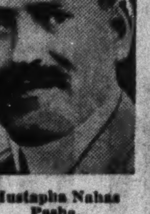
EGYPT PREMIER NAMED; SUPPORT FOR BRITISH SEEN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 5.—Mustapha Nahas Pasha, Wafd [Nationalist] party leader, ended a 48 hour crisis today by forming an all Nationalist cabinet to coöperate with Great Britain.



Mustapha Nahas Pasha.

The crisis had its roots in the decision of Prime Minister Hussein Sirry Pasha's cabinet to break relations with the Vichy, France, government two weeks ago. The action was taken while King Farouk was out of town and he protested against the impropriety. The cabinet first wanted to resign, then decided not to.

Today the British ambassador and general here called on the king. Shortly thereafter, Farouk invited Nahas to form a cabinet on the latter's own terms.

French Accuse Britain.

VICHY, France, Feb. 5 (AP).—Political circles charged the British tonight with trying to drive French influence permanently out of the eastern Mediterranean area as the Iranian minister here, Mohsen Rais, notified the French foreign office that he had been recalled. This followed similar breaks with Vichy by Iraq and Egypt.

Goering Ends 8 Day Visit to Duce, Air Units in Italy

BERLIN, Feb. 5 [From German broadcasts by The Associated Press].—Reichmarshal Hermann Goering left Rome by special train last night to return to Germany after an eight day visit in Italy during which he conferred with Premier Mussolini and inspected German air units operating from Italian territory.

GREEKS' PLIGHT MORE DESPERATE DAILY IN FAMINE, WELLES SAYS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5 (AP).—Greece is suffering a terrible famine, reports reaching Washington thru various channels indicate, and the situation in that axis occupied country is growing more desperate daily.

At a press conference today Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, described the plight of the Greeks as utterly appalling.

Welles said the department's information indicated that the Germans had ruthlessly stripped the Greek people of their food reserves and left them to starve. He added that the rapidly increasing death rate among infants was particularly shocking.

BRITAIN STUDIES NEW TAXES ON SUBJECTS IN U. S.

LONDON, Feb. 5 (AP).—Sir Kingsley Wood, chancellor of the exchequer, told the house of commons today that he had under consideration the possibility of taking further powers to obtain greater financial support of the British war effort from wealthy British subjects now in the United States.

The question was raised by Geoffrey L. Mander, Liberal, who asked what steps were being taken particularly in regard to those living in "such places as New York, Long Island, the New England coast, Santa Barbara, Del Monte, and Carmel, Cal."

AXIS ATTEMPTS TO 'POISON' US BY RADIO REVEALED

Outrageous Lies Charged to 'Borgia Bund.'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—Archibald MacLeish, director of the Office of Facts and Figures, issued a statement tonight charging the axis powers with "attempted mind poisoning" in their propaganda campaign against the allies. He said the poison, in the form of "exaggerations, distortations, and outrageous lies," is being spread from each of the axis capitals via short wave radio.

He gave the first official examples of enemy propaganda after a study of their broadcasts. He charged the axis with trying to disrupt the recent conference of American nations at Rio de Janeiro.

Tokio Growing Sensitive.

Judging by the broadcasts from Tokio, MacLeish said, the Japanese appear to have grown sensitive about the treachery of Pearl Harbor and are now engaged in "a high pressure campaign pointing out the nobility and high honor of the Jap soldier."

Dubbing the axis propagandists the Borgia bund, MacLeish, a poet, compared the enemy campaign to the plots of the notorious 15th century family. However, he said he believes the American people are smart enough to detect enemy falsehoods.

For U. S. Consumption.

As examples, the statement cited recent broadcasts aimed at the United States which declared:

"The American foreign policy is dictated from Downing street rather than from Washington, and will leave America holding the bag."

While to the British the axis charged:

"The British empire is dissolving like a lump of sugar into Roosevelt's tea cup."

Lately, MacLeish continued, the Berlin radio has asserted the landing of American troops in Northern Ireland was timed to "coincide with Roosevelt's gradual absorption of Australia and Canada."

"On the beam to South America," MacLeish said, "the United States was repeatedly charged with imperialistic designs. Many attempts were made to fabricate a picture of religious conflict. One was an allegation that the Vatican, which promptly denied the story, was urging South American countries not to break relations with the axis. Another, via Italian radio, portrayed 'Protestant Roosevelt' in an alliance with 'atheist Stalin' attacking 'Catholic fascism.'"

BRITAIN WARNED AIR RAIDS ALONE WON'T WIN WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Sir Roger Keyes, admiral [inactive] of the fleet, today discounted Britain's ability to bomb Germany as a major factor in winning the war. The recently retired head of the commandos [invasion troops] in an address before the Richmond Rotary club said, "Until we can restore our sea power we cannot expect to win."

He cited the "little real effect that concentrated bombing from widely distributed airdromes had on the British people and industries" to stress his argument that bombing is not the key to victory. Many objectives in Germany and German-occupied territories, he pointed out, are "far out of reach of bombing aircraft based in Britain," adding that "essentials for all aircraft stationed aboard, and many aircraft themselves, have to be carried overseas in ships protected by the navy."

NEAR BEER MAKES NAZIS SAD—IT IS NOT NEAR ENOUGH

Newest War Measure Hits Them Hard.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Feb. 5.—The Germans have been deprived of beer, their favorite beverage, and the substitute introduced thruout the country this week has resulted in more disappointment than any other measure taken by the government since the war began, it is said here.

After tasting the weak brew which the government has decreed, Germans eagerly awaited the so-called special beer which is permitted to be served thrice weekly. This, according to the Berlin correspondent of the Stockholm Social-Demokraten, proved almost as much of a disappointment as the new near beer.

Wines Also Rationed.

He reports that the new near beer and the drinking restrictions have introduced a form of prohibition in Germany which would have been impossible in peace time.

The usual comforts enjoyed by the Germans in peacetime have disappeared and the living standard is steadily sinking. Wines are also rationed, and there are few brands to choose from. Foreign wines do not exist.

Another real hardship is the extremely small tobacco ration, three cigarets per day per man, two for women, which are sold on cards.

Vegetables Are Scarce.

Life has become more difficult for those who depend upon restaurants for meals; two days in the week are fish days, and on two days, every one is supposed to eat army rations, which include 50 grams [about 1.76 ounces] of meat and 10 grams [about .35 of an ounce] of fat. The remaining three days, one can eat 100 grams [about 3.5 ounces] of meat per day, according to one's card.

Vegetables, other than potatoes, are scarce. German bakeries, once famous for many different kinds of pastries, bread, and cakes, today sell articles which look like prewar delicacies and which taste almost as bad as near beer does to the workers.

Many necessities, such as combs, brushes, toothpastes, and mouth washes, have become scarce, and matches are sold by the single box.

AMERICAN PILOT KILLED BY NAZIS; BRIDE IN AIR UNIT

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 5 (AP).—The widow of Flying Officer Douglas Van Buskirk of New York was informed today by the British air ministry that he had died at the controls of his bomber when it was shot down over Germany on Nov. 7.

Mrs. Van Buskirk will report to Havergall college, Toronto, on Saturday to train with the Canadian women's auxiliary air force.

Van Buskirk, one of the first United States flyers to enlist in the royal Canadian air force, was posted for duty overseas only a week after his wedding. The cable from the air ministry said that his crew died with him. His plane was one of 37 bombers and 15 fighters that failed to return from operations that night—one of the costliest nights of the RAF.

DOUBT SHORTAGE IN RUBBER, SUGAR; DEMAND INQUIRY

New Dealers in House Join to Protest Rationing.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—Demands for a congressional investigation of the alleged shortages in rubber, sugar, and other commodities were heard in the house today as the chamber debated and passed by a voice vote a bill authorizing the secretary of agriculture to plant 75,000 acres of Guayule shrubs which produce natural crude rubber.

A number of members expressed their suspicion of the authenticity of shortages which have led to the rationing of rubber and sugar. Such a stalwart administration supporter as Rep. Adolph J. Sabath [D., Ill.], chairman of the rules committee, joined in questioning the necessity for rationing.

Sees Plot to Mulct People.

"I am informed that there is no great shortage of rubber in the United States and that the same situation exists as to sugar," Sabath told the house. "I think advantage is being taken of the publicity given these supposed shortages for a hoarding of stocks so that a few persons may mulct the American people. We ought to have an investigation of this matter."

"If there is a shortage of sugar, congress is responsible," said Rep. John E. Rankin [D., Miss.], "because it cut down production in certain states."

"Excitable Women" Blamed.

"Are your reflecting upon the credibility of Leon Henderson, the price administrator, who has rationed rubber and sugar?" Rep. J. William Ditter [R., Pa.] asked Sabath.

"No," said Sabath, adding: "I think excitable women, buying up everything they can, are largely to blame."

"The Agricultural Adjustment administration is to blame," disputed Rep. Cliff Clevenger [R., O.]. "It cut sugar beet production 17 per cent and also cut cane sugar production for 1942."

"Prominent rubber company officials assure us there is absolutely no shortage in rubber," interjected Rep. Martin L. Sweeney [D., O.], "while Henderson says there is only a three months' supply. We certainly ought to have an investigation to ascertain the truth."

Stock Piling Approved.

Rep. Andrew J. May [D., Ky.] noted that the military affairs committee of which he is chairman approved legislation three years ago authorizing the government to explore the possibilities of acquiring stock piles of rubber and 46 other strategic materials.

"I regret that no government agency ever took advantage of that authority," he remarked.

Sabath, to whose committee investigating resolutions are referred, promised that serious consideration would be given to any proposal for an inquiry.

Proponents of the bill before the house said that the cultivation of guayule in the United States has been demonstrated as feasible. It can be successfully grown in California, Arizona, New Mexico, and Texas. The plant yields rubber which, after deresination, a simple, inexpensive process, is essentially the same as crude rubber from Para rubber trees.

Appreciable supplies of rubber can be produced from guayule within three years and a large amount could be obtained within five to six years, it was stated.

A New Industry Foreseen.

The house debated in detail the possibilities of the manufacture of synthetic rubber. Rep. Everett M. Dirksen [R., Ill.] predicted that the nation was standing on the threshold of a new industry which will derive our rubber requirements from farm commodities.

The starch in corn, Dirksen said, can be released by a process of fermentation and then chemically treated to produce synthetic rubber. This process is still in the experimental stage but if it becomes a reality, the annual corn crop of Illinois alone would be sufficient to produce the maximum rubber requirements of the entire nation, he declared.

Explorations looking to the development of rubber or a rubber substitute from vegetable oils are also in progress, Dirksen said, and have reached an advanced stage.

MAIL WORKERS INVEST $50,000 IN WAR BONDS

The Railway Mail Mutual Benefit association, an insurance organization for employés of railway mail service, has subscribed for $50,000 worth of war bonds, Benjamin F. Carle, its secretery, announced yesterday. The purchase was made thru the Harris Trust and Savings bank.

Employés in the office of Albert J. Horan, chief bailiff of the Municipal court, have pledged purchase of $41,000 in bonds during 1942. Horan also reported that since Jan. 7, $1,400 of defense stamps have been sold in the bailiff's office to the public.

Sales thru the Federal Reserve bank yesterday passed $599,318,000. At the postoffice, total sales of bonds to date are $24,317,689 and of stamps $7,193,057.

Yesterday's sales in The Tribune Public Service Offices were $252.50 in bonds and $112.65 in stamps.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—Mayris Cheney, blonde night club entertainer protégée of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, is going on the federal pay roll at $4,600 a year.

She will direct children's activities in the physical fitness division of the Office of Civilian Defense and will report for duty to her sponsor, Mrs. Roosevelt.

Miss Cheney, who is a frequent guest at the White House and often is a traveling companion of Mrs. Roosevelt, introduced a new dance at a White House function several years ago which she named "the Eleanor Glide" and dedicated it to her patron.

SENATE VOTES 500 MILLION AS LOAN FOR CHINA

Reason for Additional Aid Questioned.

loan is required in addition to the unlimited amount of money which may be loaned under the lend-lease act."

"Let me say," replied Sen. Connally, "that the extension of aid under the lend-lease act, which was restricted to supplies, munitions, and material equipment, has been endangered, of course, by the threat to the Burma road, over which most of the supplies heretofore have gone.

"I desire to suggest, however, that China herself produces large amounts of war materials—rifles, machine guns, and things of that character. So the extension of this credit will stiffen her internal economy.

Sen. La Follette alluded to the testimony in the foreign relations committee. "To the extent that the money to be provided under the joint resolution is utilized for the purpose of strengthening the internal economy of China, I see no objection to it," he said. "To the extent that the money may be used for some other purposes, I think there will be grave doubt about the wisdom of it and it will prove, in my opinion, ultimately, to be a great disappointment."

The senate today gave final congressional approval to the 26½ billion dollar naval appropriation bill and sent it to the White House. After a five minute explanation by Sen. John H. Overton [D., La.] the chamber unanimously approved a senate-house conference committee's version of the measure, the largest single appropriation in legislative history.

DON'T BUY WHAT YOU CAN GROW, MRS. F.D.R. ASKS

Urbana, Ill., Feb. 5.—"It's part of your patriotic duty not to buy what you can grow," Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, the President's wife, told more than 10,000 persons attending the annual farm and home week at the University of Illinois college of agriculture today. Mrs. Roosevelt, assistant director of civilian defense, declared rural communities should become as self-sufficient as they can to free products for war purposes.

"Even when the war is over," she said, "there will be a tremendous need for food to help many other countries back on their feet."

Officers of the Illinois Crop Improvement association, elected today, are George L. Pfeifer, Arcola, president; L. E. Rust, Sibley, vice president; L. L. Lowe, Aroma Park, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Bernice R. Michael, Urbana, assistant secretary-treasurer. Directors are C. E. CANADA-SOVIET AGREEMENT TO AID ARMS FLOW

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 5 [Special].—Announcing in the house of commons that an agreement had been signed in London today providing for the exchange of consular representatives between Canada and Russia, Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King said that the new agreement was expected to facilitate the sending of war material to the soviet union. Canada has already sent 100 tanks, he said, and some of them had been already in action.

Speaking in Montreal, Munitions Minister C. D. Howe said that Canada is sending 20 ton Valentine infantry tanks to Russia at the rate of three a day. Canada, he said, had also sent to China over the Burma road 1,000 Bren guns.

REMINGTON ARMS ADMITS FAT FEES TO WAR BROKER

Justifies It as Means to Speed Output.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—An official of the Remington Arms company today admitted that his company may have paid defense brokers "remuneration out of proportion" to their services but this could be attributed to an aim to achieve speed in production.

Rep. C. I. Faddis.

As a result, said Donald F. Carpenter, vice president of Remington, the company at capacity will produce more ammunition in the next six months than was produced by the entire country during the first World war.

Carpenter appeared before a special house military affairs subcommittee, headed by Rep. Charles I. Faddis [D., Pa.] which is charged with investigating war contracts and the activities of defense brokers, who have been dubbed by aroused congressmen as the No. 1 parasites on the public and the government.

Mistakes Are Admitted.

Legislation is now pending to curb the activities of lobbyists and others who act as middlemen in the procurement and handling of war contracts for a fat fee and commission.

In the company's drive to reach capacity production some mistakes have been made and some people have been overpaid in the effort to obtain tools for expanded production of ammunition, Carpenter told the committee.

Faddis said later that the committee will release next week its report on the Remington case, covering also previous testimony regarding big profits made by some brokers who handled subcontracting for Remington.

Carpenter testified that Leon K. Shanack of New York had subcontracted for Remington about $107,000 in government war contracts and previously had been given $250,000 in orders for commercial and British production "which Remington paid out of its own pocket."

Complied with OPM.

"It should be borne in mind," said Carpenter, "that for the entire period from September, 1940, until April, 1941, all of these tools were purchased by Remington with its own money and for its British and commercial production; so that if the prices paid were high, the money came out of Remington's own pocket."

He said that the company made every effort to comply with "the policy established by the Office of Production Management of subcontracting as much work as possible," and the company's policy regarding purchases did not change because of the war.

"There is one mistake Remington will not make if it is humanly possible to prevent it," Carpenter said. "That is to fail for any reason whatsoever to make all the small arms and all the ammunition that may be needed by the men in our front lines who are doing the fighting. They must have millions of guns and billions of cartridges. Lag in production means death on the battlefield."

Made Up to 100 Per Cent.

Earlier witnesses before the committee have testified that Shanack's profits on subcontracting have run as high as 100 per cent. Shanack admitted to the committee that he had cleared $52,773 in profits in a period of only 10 months on subcontracting totaling $262,663. According to a committee investigator, Shanack made a 74 per cent profit on tools which he sold Remington for $107,530.

Another investigator had told the committee that the De Lisser Machine and Tool corporation of New York had made a profit of about 43 per cent on work totaling $102,937 which it did for Remington.

REPORT 74 SHIPS HIT IN MONTH BY ALLIED BOMBERS

LONDON, Feb. 5 (AP).—Allied air forces operating over wide stretches of European and Pacific waters, sank or damaged 74 axis vessels of all types in January, it was estimated in an official summary tonight.

In the Pacific theater, where allied strength is increasing, 52 Japanese vessels were sent to the bottom or hit. Destruction of a 20,000 ton liner was the highlight of operations in the Mediterranean, where 15 vessels wre sunk or damaged.

The European total includes attacks on convoys off the Netherlands coast and on other shipping in the North Sea, and a series of night attacks to which the warships Gneisenau, Scharnhorst, and Prinz Eugene were subjected at Brest.

ADMITS PULLING SPIKES FROM U. P. RAILROAD TRACKS

Cheyenne, Wyo., Feb. 5 (AP).—Sheriff George Carroll said tonight that La Verne Hale Nicodemus, 26 years old, of Cheyenne, had admitted pulling several spikes from the Union Pacific railroad tracks near Archer. Sheriff Carroll said the charges to be filed against Nicodemus had not yet been determined. The young Cheyenne man, an American citizen, was questioned by Union Pacific and federal bureau of investigation agents, but no motive was established, the sheriff said.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 5.—The ministry of food today rejected a suggestion that the next consignment of tinned food from the United States and Canada comprise fruit. Canned fruit is a rarity in Britain, but a food official said it would not be in the national interest to use the limited shipping space to import it at the expense of more essential foodstuffs.

As a result of the war in the western Pacific the government plans to increase supplies of beef from Argentina to replace much of the mutton which has come from Australia. The meat will be boned in Argentina to conserve cargo space.

Butter and cheese still are reaching Britain from New Zealand. Rice from the orient has become scarce. The supply of tea is sufficient because of large stocks on hand. But it is expected the flow of foodstuffs from the Pacific will be curtailed as time passes.

WASTE DEALERS ASK SUPPORT IN SALVAGE DRIVE

A newspaper and radio advertising drive to stimulate the campaign for the salvage of waste materials was urged last night at a meeting of the Midwest Waste Material Dealers' association in the Sherman hotel.

Members reported a lag in collections. They said that one cause was the trend of some waste accumulators—including housewives—to profiteer. They recommended that sellers try not to haggle over prices.

Herbert R. Lissner, association lawyer, warned that the less waste collected, the more defense factories will be handicapped. Waste of all kinds—paper, rags, metal, old rubber—is wanted as part of a national movement. Nathaniel Leverone, Illinois salvage director, attended the meeting.

3 U-BOATS TRAP SHIP; FLEE WHEN PLANE APPEARS

Crew Says Vessel Tried to Ram Submarine.

New York, Feb. 5 (AP).—An American passenger ship arrived today after a thrilling escape from three axis submarines which dived when a patrol plane appeared on the scene while the unarmed ship was trying to ram one of the U-boats.

Capt. Nels Helgesen.

Altho the captain of the liner [name was withheld] refused to comment on his attempt to ram the undersea raiders, crew members said the U-boats were sighted last Sunday shortly after the vessel left a West Indies port.

"They crash dived when the plane appeared and one of them was so close he passed under the ship," a crew member said.

Zig Zag Rest of Way.

After the submarines disappeared American planes escorted the vessel the rest of the day as she zig zagged thru dangerous waters.

The liner brought in 25 survivors of the Canadian liner Lady Hawkins, torpedoed and sunk Jan. 19, with a loss of 251 lives.

The survivors were Chief Officer Percy A. Kelly, eight members of his crew, and 16 American defense workers who were en route to a southern base.

Kelly a Nova Scotian, discounted credit given him for his cool work in guiding a lifeboat with 71 passengers thru five days of rough seas preceding their rescue.

"It was the help of God that got us thru," he said.

[The 71 and five bodies were landed at San Juan, Puerto Rico.]

Sees Distress Signals.

Capt. Nels Helgesen, master of the rescue ship, said he zig zagged his ship away when he first saw two red flares shoot up from the lifeboat.

"It's an old wheeze for a submarine to send up distress signals," he related. "I wasn't taking any chances, but I maneuvered until I saw the lifeboats, and then I was satisfied."

Vincel Peoples, of St. Joseph, Mo., foreman of the workers, said: "We're still on our way to our base, whenever they want to send us."

SENATE PASSES BILL TO PENSION WORKERS ON PANAMA CANAL

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5 (AP).—Twenty-eight years after completion of the Panama canal, the senate recommended today a system of pensions for civilians who worked there for three years or more prior to 1914.

On a voice vote, it rejected a plea by Sen. Harry F. Byrd [D., Va.] that earlier congresses would have approved the proposed rewards if they were just, and sent to the house the measure authorizing the annuities which Byrd said might cost $15,000,000.

Sen. Claude Pepper [D., Fla.], speaking in behalf of the legislation, recalled that the late President Theodore Roosevelt and others associated with digging of the canal had urged a congressional award for civilian workers.

FINED ON CHIROPODY CHARGE.

M. O. Hammonds, charged with operating a chiropody business without a license at 69th and Halsted streets, pleaded guilty yesterday before Acting County Judge R. W. Keeney and was fined $25 and $18 costs.

FAMED BRITISH SUB LOST AFTER SINKING 13 SHIPS

Several Italian Undersea Craft Reported Sunk.

LONDON, Feb. 5 (AP).—The admiralty today lifted the curtain momentarily for a brief glimpse of submarine warfare in both the Mediterranean and the Atlantic, disclosing a bitter give and take with the axis which cost Italy several of her undersea craft but took from Britain one of her most famous submarine rraiders, the Triumph.

The Triumph, a 1,090 ton patrol type submarine carrying a normal crew of 53 men, was lost after it had reported sinking four axis naval units, including a U-boat, and nine axis supply ships in a "succession of successful patrols" in the Mediterranean.

Commander Wins Cross.

One of its more spectacular feats was reaching home after striking a mine in Scandinavian waters in December, 1939. Lieut. Comm. John W. McCoy docked her for repair with 14 feet of her bow blown off, her hull buckled, and her plates cracked. He received the distinguished service cross for this 300 mile journey.

In announcing the Italian losses the admiralty said that these several craft had "paid the ultimate penalty" after having been sent to help the Germans' submarine campaign in the Atlantic.

[The German high command asserted in Berlin that Nazi U-boats operating off the east coast of North America had sunk six more merchant ships, totaling 47,000 tons, including an ore ship of 15,000 tons.]

14,000 Mile Flight.

One of the Italian victims, the admiralty said, was the 880 ton Ferraris, sunk late in 1941 after an eventful but unsuccessful history which ended soon after an attack by an American built Catalina flying boat had damaged her. The submarine was sunk in a combined operation of the Catalina and the destroyer Lamerton, which had been summoned by the flying boat.

One of four Italian submarines which escaped from Massau, Eritrea, in Italian East Africa, the Ferraris made a 14,000 mile journey back home with the help of a German supply ship which was sailing under the Stars and Stripes, the admiralty said.

CONGRESS TOLD REA HIDES AIMS UNDER WAR VEIL

Public Power Grid Is Seen in Making.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—Congress was warned today that the Rural Electrification administration is seeking to utilize the wartime emergency to impose a vast public power system on the United States at the expense of taxpayers but without legal authority.

The warning was given solemnly by Frank M. Wilkes, executive vice president of the Southwestern Gas and Electric company, of Dallas, Tex., near the end of testimony before a special subcommittee of the house military affairs committee. He charged that Leland Olds, federal power commissioner, has admitted that current REA projects, undertaken as defense measures, are designed primarily to be the "backbone" of public power grids.

Municipal Ownership Spearhead.

These, said Wilkes, would be brought into full play as the spearhead of a municipal ownership drive when peace comes again, competing with private concerns and driving many out of business.

The subcommittee has been investigating complaints that the REA has been responsible for the needless consumption of millions of pounds of copper, a waste of vital power facilities, and long delay in the construction of a new aluminum plant in Arkansas. Wilkes passed a day on the stand yesterday telling an amazing story of the manner in which the REA brought what he termed political pressure to bear to obtain control of the Possum Kingdom dam on the Brazos river in Texas at a loss of more than $100,000 per year to dam operators.

Duplicated Lines.

Had the dam been turned over to a private power company it could have been put into operation at once at a small cost, he asserted. Instead, Wilkes continued, the REA has been building over 200 miles of new transmission lines, largely duplicating existing facilities and using needlessly about 5 million pounds excess copper.

Also in Wilkes' testimony is an account of the REA's plans to project itself into a pool of 11 southwestern power companies to supply electricity for much needed aluminum production at the new Arkansas plant.

The REA, he said, took over the Grand River dam in northeastern Oklahoma and obtained a contract to supply the aluminum plant with 32,500 kilowatts, necessitating construction of 250 miles of transmission line from Oklahoma to Arkansas. It is estimated that this would cost approximately $3,000,000 and require the use of nearly 3 million pounds of copper.

Under Shield of War.

"These things are going on in every state in the union," he admonished. "The REA is building a public power grid; it is the new spearhead of the public power bloc; money appropriated by congress is being used to put over in war what they weren't able to do in peacetime.

"The private power companies are ready to do this job. We have offered to use our lines to carry power to the government plants without charge. Our men have been years in the business; they know the territory, the people, and the lines. Our companies are all in strong position and ready to spend our own dollars to bring every unit of capacity into the program to win the war."

Unconcerned Who Pays.

J. A. Krug, chief of the power branch of the War Production board, later sought to refute Wilkes' testimony, asserting that the plan of the REA provided for 20,000 extra kilowatts of power which would be necessary in arms production in that territory. He asserted that the extra copper used would make little difference in view of this gain.

Asked by Rep. Charles I. Faddis [D., Pa.] whether it wasn't true that including the REA in the program would cost the taxpayers much additional money, Krug replied:

"It doesn't make any difference to me in my job who pays as long as we get the power."

Shoe Repair Shop Owners Seek 7 o'Clock Closing Act

Attorney Irving E. Hollobow, counsel for the Master Shoe Repair and Valet association of Illinois, said yesterday that the 1,500 members of the association have asked Mayor Kelly for an ordinance to close all shoe repair shops in Chicago at 7 o'clock every evening. This would aid in conserving electricity, fuel, and man power in the national defense program, Hollobow said.

CHICAGO PUPILS TO MAKE 10,000 MODEL PLANES

Chicago's 25,000 high school pupils yesterday were assigned to make 10,000 wooden model planes as part of the national construction program of model planes for use in pilot training.

The models of 55 types of planes used by British and American fighting pilots will be black silhouettes built on a 1-to-172 scale. They will aid pilots in recognizing the craft of their own forces in the air.

The models are to be constructed on assembly line principles in the high school industrial arts laboratories. Groups of pupils will cut the wood to specifications and others will sand and paint the models. Each model will cost from 1 to 3 cents, according to Louis Newkirk, board of education director of industrial arts. The program will get under way in March.

CONGRESS GETS 'BIRD' NOW AND PENSIONS LATER

Long Necked Fowl Mailed to Offices.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—The first expressions of public sentiment toward members of congress who recently voted themselves fancy pensions have begun to arrive in the capital, it was learned today.

Packages containing bustles, mouse traps, moth eaten derbys, and other like tokens of esteem were reported delivered to the offices of several members during the day, precipitating a brief debate in the house with renewed demands for speedy repeal of the congressional pension scheme.

Mired in Patriotism.

Meanwhile, from Spokane, Wash., came word that a truckload of similar motley gifts, ready for shipment tomorrow was mired in patriotism. The Spokane Athletic Round Table, originator of the "Bundles for Congress" campaign, announced that it had called off sending the truck and would use money ready for the trip—about $3,000—for the purchase of defense stamps.

Contemplating a choice collection of discarded glass eyes, old lingerie, moth eaten nightcaps, artificial legs, and assorted equally useless junk, Joe Albi, president of the Round Table, announced:

"We think we know a joke and how to start it. We think we know when to stop it, too. The ART thinks such a trek of junk would upset the conservation plan of the country—even might lead to traffic congestion. The gag isn't worth the risk."

Congressmen Get "Bird."

A bird is what most of the members of congress are getting according to a survey. It is called a "worry bird"—a strange looking fowl of wood with a long neck and a pair of long legs, bearing this message:

"Don't worry about the war and taxes,
Get that pension—forget the axis."

Rep. Eugene E. Cox [D., Ga.] was the first with the temerity to announce publically that he had received the bird.

"I got mine this morning," he told the house soon after it convened. "Yes, I can see the humor in it. But it also points out an unfavorable public reaction to the pension law. I fear congress made a dreadful mistake in adopting that bill. We will be at a disadvantage forevermore in considering all retirement legislation. The law was against the public interest and should be repealed."

Criticism Called Unfair.

Rep. Andrew J. May [D., Ky.], who is 67 years old and eligible for a pension under the terms of the new law, immediately took the opposite view.

"The criticism of congress has been unjust and unfair," he insisted. "This really isn't a pension; it is an extension of the social security law for members of congress. Federal judges have a pension which they don't even have to pay for. And they don't have elections to run every two years either."

Several bills seeking repeal of the pension have been introduced, the first having been presented by Rep. Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.] who is the same age as May and also eligible for the retirement benefits. Sen. Harry F. Byrd [D., Va.] announced today that he will move to have the senate civil service committee discharged from further consideration of a repealer which he has introduced and will call up the measure on the senate floor.

TWO BRAKEMEN SHOT FROM AMBUSH WHILE RIDING FREIGHT TRAIN

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 5 [Special].—Two brakemen were under medical care for gunshot wounds received last night in another burst of gunfire in the strike of two operating brotherhoods against the Toledo Peoria and Western railroad.

The brakemen, Richard G. Smith and Charles E. Miller, were slightly injured by buck shot fired from ambush as their freight train pulled into the East Peoria yards. United States Marshal Robert Grant investigated to learn if a federal court injunction against strike violence had been violated.

The strike has been in progress since Dec. 28 when members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen walked out to enforce demands for wage increases and better working conditions. Strikers have asked the government to take over the railroad, which has continued operation on a virtually normal basis.

Quiz on Florist's Death Ends with 'Open' Verdict

A coroner's jury returned an "open" verdict yesterday in the investigation into the death of Fred Schramm, 72 years old, wealthy Park Ridge florist. He was found dead Jan. 22 at the bottom of a five foot boiler pit in one of his greenhouses near his home at 444 Northwest highway. Several injuries were found on the body. Policeman Ray Hansen said it was impossible to determine whether Schramm died of natural causes or as a result of his fall.

Petting Party Slayer Guilty of Manslaughter

Newark, N. J., Feb. 5 [Special].—Tunis Quick, 21 year old butcher's apprentice, on trial for four days in the slaying of Rosemary Abbott during a petting party, was found guilty of manslaughter by a jury today. Quick, who maintained the slaying was accidental, faces a maximum penalty of 10 years' imprisonment. He will be sentenced Feb. 18. The girl was shot as she was petting on a couch with another young man who had won her affections from Quick.

SENATORS FIND SMALL BUSINESS SQUEEZED OUT

Urge Representatives Put on War Boards.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5. — The senate committee on small business reported today that favoritism shown large corporations by the navy, the army, and by other governmental agencies is impeding the war production and is ringing the death knell for the man essential to the American economic system—the small business man.

To utilize the small business man in the war effort and to preserve his place during the war effort, the five Democratic and two Republican senators on the committee joined in sponsoring a bill to place a representative of small business on the war production board. The report added that representatives of small business should be appointed to the army and navy procurement divisions.

Strives to Preserve Status.

"By these means," said Sen. James E. Murray [D., Mont.], chairman of the committee, after outlining the functions of small business representations "we hope to be able to preserve small business, which constitutes a vital segment of our economic system, the destruction of which would endanger our whole American economic and way of life."

The committee report vigorously criticized big business domination of war production to date as a threat against the social and political future of America, as well as the economic future of this country.

"We cannot overlook the fact that the maintenance of private enterprise in the United States is bound up with the preservation of small business," the report concluded. "The tendency is for concerns to grow so big and powerful that their policies affect human lives to such a degree that government control becomes necessary.

See Approach of 'isms.'

"Thus is the process of 'government moving into business' made necessary. By this avenue, collectivism, Fascism, state socialism, or some other 'ism' approaches.

"This is the process that threatens our democracy at the very foundation. This is the process moving with constantly increasing speed and power, threatening eventually to engulf our whole nation. It is a process which cannot be checked on temporary stop-gap methods.

"Small business has been neglected because it is easier to neglect. In some cases the fact that the procurement officers have always been associated with large business has even made the neglect seem deliberate; but in general all of the contract departments have failed to recognize the vital rôle of small business—with its plant, machinery, managerial ability, and skilled labor—in the winning of this war.

Should Be Preserved.

"They [the administrators of the war program] have failed to recognize that small business—now in grave danger—represents a phase of American life worthy of preservation.

"The very concentration of power in the new War Production board only adds to the danger unless that power is correctly used.

"Small business should be given a definite and effective voice in the administration of the war effort.

"Until such recognition is given in the planning, procurement, production, and financing divisions, effective integration of small business in the war effort will fail to be realized.

"Additional unemployment of 1 to 1½ million workers is expected to follow unless the anticipated collapse of small business is avoided . . . millions will shift from one job to another.

Billions for Big Business.

"Altho 13 billion dollars have been spent or allocated for plant expansion in the creation of giant new facilities for big business, no consideration has been given to expanding the the facilities of small business. Yet the possibilities for expanding little business are very great.

"Fifty-six of America's 184,230 manufacturing concerns have been awarded 75 per cent of army and navy contracts. The remaining fragment of the defense program is distributed among about 6,000 prime contractors. Of the concerns not included in the defense program directly, about 4,000 hold subcontracts.

"Over 174,000 manufacturing establishments have not been touched by the Office of Production Management [now the WPB] in its mobilization of the nation's industrial resources. It is fortunate that the draft of man power has not proceeded in similar fashion or our army would consist of extremely brave men, both regiments of them.

168,000 Small Factories.

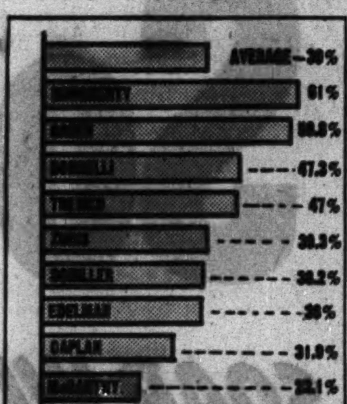
"Of the 2,758,000 small business enterprises in the United States, only 168,000 are manufacturing concerns, and it has been estimated that only 45,000 of the manufacturing concerns can be given a part in war production.

"So far no provision whatever has been made to look after the welfare of those small manufacturing concerns which are not adapted to war production and cannot convert to war production, nor has any provision been made to look atfer the welfare of the nearly 2,600,000 small business enterprises which are not engaged in manufacturing but which are vitally affected by rules, regulations, and restrictions incident to the conduct of the war."

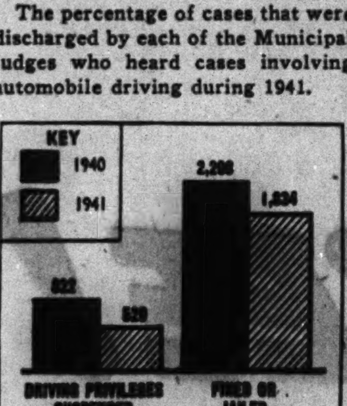
In addition to Sen. Murray, the members of the committee are Senators Francis T. Maloney [D., Conn.], Allen J. Ellender [D., La.], James M. Mead [D., N. Y.], Tom Stewart [D., Tenn.], Arthur Capper [D., Kas.], and Robert A. Taft [R., O.]. The committee announced that it will continue its study and will have further recommendations to make from time to time on the relation of small business to the war program and on the maintenance of small business in America when peace has come.

Court Records

(Story in adjoining column.)



The percentage of cases that were discharged by each of the Municipal judges who heard cases involving automobile driving during 1941.



The decline in penalties from 1940 to 1941 is represented by height of bars.

TRAFFIC COURT DISMISSALS UP; QUIZ ORDERED

Only 28% of Defendants Punished in 1941.

Chief Justice Edward S. Scheffler announced yesterday that he has appointed a committee of five judges to make an immediate investigation of the handling of traffic cases in the various branches of the Municipal court.

The announcement came after a Safety court report for 1941 showed that altho the number of defendants —6,583—was the same as in 1940, punishment was given to only 1,834 or 374 fewer than in 1940. The 1,834 punished last year were fined, sent to the Bridewell or county jail or placed on probation.

The percentage of defendants punished in 1940 was 34. Last year it declined to 28. In addition, only 529 drivers' licenses were suspended in 1941, compared with 822 in 1940.

Accidents, Fatalities Gain.

At the same time Otto K. Jelinek, park district traffic engineer, reported that the number of automobile accidents and fatalities in the district last year showed an increase over 1940. In 1941 there were 96 fatalities and 3,531 accidents, compared with 90 fatalities and 3,330 in 1940.

Judge Scheffler said the five associate judges, headed by Judge John Gutknecht, will investigate the traffice cases. Their recommendations will be put into effect without delay, he added.

After a conference with Ald. George D. Kells [28th[Judge Scheffler sent a letter to Police Commissioner Allman, directing that all summons issued to motorists who drive thru stop lights or stop signs be made returnable before Judge Gutknecht in the Traffic court instead of the Cafeteria court in the city hall.

Desires Greater Punishment.

"A large percentage of auto accidents are caused by motorists failing to stop for red traffic lights or before crossing thru streets," said Judge Scheffler. The Cafeteria court provides a fixed fine of $3, whereas, the seriousness of this violation, in many cases, warrants more severe punishment."

Judge Scheffler's report shows that 10 judges sat in the Safety court last year. They were Leon Edelman, Thomas A. Green, Charles S. Dougherty, Jay A. Schiller, Oscar S. Caplan, John T. Zuris, Justin F. McCarthy, Francis Borrelli, Michael Tremko, and Erwin J. Hasten.

The report showed that Judge Dougherty discharged the most cases —61 per cent of those heard in his court. Judge Hasten discharged the fewest—21 per cent.

Judge Scheffler said that persons who refused to prosecute after cases were brought to court caused the discharge of 1,990 defendants. He said that in most of these cases the court was used by motorists to collect damages, instead of filing suit in the civil court.

CHICAGO AIR RAID WILL BE TRIED, MAYOR PREDICTS

Whether or not the enemy can bomb Chicago, he will try, Mayor Kelly warned 1,000 men and women gathered yesterday in the Palmer House for the annual meeting of the State Street Council.

"It would be a far greater achievement for them to bomb Chicago than it would if they bombed New York," he continued. "They know that as well as we do. Therefore we must look for it and be prepared. There is no use wasting time being scared or hysterical because it may never come. The thing to do is to just get ready."

The mayor reiterated that he wants no politics in the Chicago civilian defense organization.

BEGGAR SLASHES POLICEMAN.

REPORT ZONING ORDINANCE TO COUNCIL FEB. 9

Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th], chairman of a council subcommittee charged with drafting a new city zoning ordinance, announced yesterday that the ordinance, which has been in preparation for two years, will be submitted to the council at its next meeting, Feb. 19.

The new ordinance restricts the height of loop buildings to 198 feet, or 16 stories, instead of the present 22 stories. It also reduces the areas in the city zoned for commercial use.

At a meeting of the subcommittee yesterday T. T. McCrosky, manager of the Chicago Plan commission, said a survey of building demolition in the loop showed that of 198 buildings torn down between 1933 and 1940 the average age was 50½ years. He said that if all remaining loop buildings as old were demolished 1,344,000 square feet of space would be made vacant. He recommended that new buildings be from 12 to 14 stories high.

MEDICAL BOARD TELLS PLAN IF CITY IS BOMBED

Details of provisions for care and shelter of Chicagoans in the event of bombing were released last night by the medical advisory board of the Civilian Defense council.

The plan contemplates use of hospitals, establishment of 450 casualty stations equipped with 3,600 stretchers, 28,800 folding cots, 28,800 blankets, and a reservoir of supplies and a blood bank. Training of 3,000 nurses' aids also is planned. First aid stations are to consist of two to four mobile field units from each hospital, each unit serving a specified part of the city.

Thirteen supervisory committees have been established to administer the plan. The advisory council consists of 50 physicians and hospital directors.

PULLMAN NEEDS OF ARMY FILLED WITHOUT DELAYS

1,957,200 Troops Carried During 1941.

Altho at times forced to use a third of its entire sleeping car fleet for military service, the Pullman company in 1941 was able to meet all military requirements and at the same time serve the civilian population with a minimum of inconvenience, David A. Crawford, president, said yesterday.

David A. Crawford.

Pullman during the year carried 1,957,200 United States troops in specially assigned sleepers an average distance of 1,500 miles per individual.

Crawford said that the Pullman problem in this war is much more complicated than in the last war. In the first World war troops largely moved from camps to the eastern seaboard but in this war troops are being moved in all directions.

Contrasts with Nazi Experience.

He declared that the record of American railroads in this emergency is the more notable when it is recalled that the Nazis many times during 1941 had to cancel all civilian railroad accommodations in order to handle troop movements.

"The Pullman part of this job was a complex one," Crawford continued. "On short notice it has been necessary over and over again to reassemble hundreds of cars which had been scattered to the four corners of the country in previous movements; to inspect, stock and provide these cars with train personnel as they converged on a camp from which a new troop movement was to begin.

"About three-quarters of the 600,000 troops transferred to the west coast during the seven weeks following Pearl Harbor have traveled in comfort in Pullman cars."

Movement Directed from Chicago.

It was disclosed recently that a large part of the troop movement from the inland camps to the Pacific coast following the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor was directed from Chicago by the western military bureau, of which Hugh W. Siddall is chairman.

Further complicating the 1941 movement, he said, is the fact that our armies are now more fully mechanized than formerly and carry a great deal more equipment than in the past. This means that troop trains today must consist of a string of sleepers or passenger cars followed by long lines of baggage and freight cars.

BILL TO REPEAL U. S. AUTOMOBILE USE TAX INTRODUCED IN HOUSE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5 (AP).—A bill to repeal the automobile use tax after next July 1, when the current stickers expire, was introduced today by Rep. Gerald W. Landis [R., Ind.]. Landis, in a statement, described the levy a nuisance tax and declared it "objectionable" on these grounds:

"The auto is not a luxury. Most cars are used for business purposes and transportation purposes.

"Owners of small and old passenger cars must pay the same amount [$5 a year] as do owners of large limousines and luxurious yachts.

"The sticker system is very unsatisfactory because many of them will be destroyed, lost, or stolen."

UNION TO GIVE AMBULANCE FOR CIVIL DEFENSE

The keys to an ambulance outfitted with an asbestos suit for fire rescue work, an inhalator, hot water heaters, medicine cabinets and "blackout" lights will be given to Mayor Kelly tomorrow night by local 734 of the Bakery Drivers' union at its sixth annual meeting in the Palmer House.

The ambulance, purchased by the bakery truck drivers as a gift to the city, will be placed at the disposal of the Chicago commission on national defense. Each driver gave one day's pay. The remainder of the sum collected, amounting to approximately $20,000 over that paid for the city's ambulance, will be given to Maj. Gen. J. M. Cummins, 6th corps area commander, for the purchase of field ambulances for the army.

The union already has purchased $50,000 worth of defense bonds.

WOMAN KILLED; AUTOIST PAUSES AND THEN FLEES

Mrs. Rose Makovec, 80 years old, 1824 West 22d place, was fatally injured last night when she was struck by an automobile in Cermak road at Wolcott avenue. Witnesses told police the driver stopped long enough to look at his victim, then fled.

Edward Benzion, 72, of 3514 Pine Grove avenue, a broker, died last night in County hospital of pneumonia, believed to have followed spinal injuries suffered April 29, 1940, when he was struck by an auto at Market street and Jackson boulevard.

An unidentified junk cart peddler about 60 years old was killed yesterday when he was struck by two automobiles at 16th street and Ashland avenue. He was first struck by the car of Walter Gaskor, 44, of 4753 South Harding avenue, and then by the machine of Anthony Cosentino, 25, of 1257 Flournoy street.

Police sought a hit and run driver whose car struck and injured Henry Boese, 67, of 5541 North Mason avenue last Sunday in front of 5682 Milwaukee avenue. Boese, a retired clerk, died yesterday in the Swedish Covenant hospital.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 96 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 75 were killed in Chicago, where 2,105 were injured in traffic accidents during the same period.

Music Appreciation PUZZLE CONTEST

TODAY'S CHAT WITH THE CONTEST EDITOR for Music Appreciation Projects, Inc.

I don't like to take your mind off of solving the puzzles, but, just for a moment, may I extend the hand of friendship and suggest that we take just a little while to get acquainted.

People enter contests to win money. They enter seriously, intently, determinedly.

I know that. I know it because I have been a Contest Editor for fifteen years, in the employ of the greatest contest organization in America—the Publishers Service Company.

This contest, which you are invited to enter, is under the management of Publishers Service. Our staff, our puzzle experts, our skilled employes are supervising every detail of this contest.

You can enter with confidence, with safety, with complete assurance that your interests, as a contestant, will be safeguarded in every possible way.

The largest puzzle contests ever offered, in all the history of contests, have been conducted by our organization. In a space of hardly a year, our organization conducted contests in which more than a half million dollars in prizes went to the rightful winners.

Year after year, we have conducted the puzzle contests for many of the large newspapers in our country.

Name any big puzzle contest conducted by a newspaper in the past ten years—nine chances out of ten the contest was conducted by Publishers Service.

I mention this in a spirit of getting acquainted with you, as a contestant.

You are seriously trying to win $10,000.00 as First Prize in this contest.

We, in charge of the contest, want you to know that if you are ENTITLED to win this $10,000.00 Prize, you SHALL win it, and that the honor and good name of Publishers Service stand squarely behind this contest, right down to the smallest detail.

Why Is This Contest Being Conducted?

There is always a reason for every contest.

Commercial companies conduct contests to get more customers. Banks conduct contests to get more depositors. Insurance companies conduct contests to get more policyholders. Newspapers conduct contests to get more readers.

THIS particular contest is being conducted by Music Appreciation Projects, a national organization which has branches in many cities throughout the country. The Chicago division of Music Appreciation Projects is the Chicago Society for Music Education.

This contest is restricted to the people of the Chicago area, meaning people who live within the 100-mile radius of Chicago. In other words, only people who live within this area can enter and win.

Why are we conducting this contest?

In order to popularize the Chicago division of Music Appreciation Projects with a vast number of people who will ultimately become fond of good music. Let me express it even more clearly.

Right now, you may not have the slightest interest in good music. Perhaps you are convinced that good music is "too highbrow" or "too long-haired" or "too high class" for you.

Music Appreciation Projects doesn't think so. By means of this contest we hope to induce a friendlier interest in good music and a greater familiarity with the names of the great composers and the great artists. As you solve the various puzzles, all of which have something to do with music, we believe you will be bound to feel closer to music in general and a little bit more open-minded about the vast possibilities of music to add to the happiness and contentment of every home in the land. And as you solve the puzzles and submit them in accordance with the rules, you will automatically be presented with a group of beautiful phonograph records at the end of the contest. You may win $10,000.00 or any one of 99 other prizes in the bargain.

I will have much more to tell you in these chats. Right now, I must explain "How to Solve the Puzzles." So here goes.

I'll see you again soon. C. E.

Here's the Way to Solve These Puzzles:

Above we have designed a sample puzzle. We have completely solved it for you. Remember this is only a sample, purposely made easy in order to give you an idea how to solve the puzzle.

First of all, notice that there are several objects illustrated in the puzzle and that there are a number of plus and minus signs, which means that you add or subtract. All right, now. Let's solve the puzzle together. The first object you see is a PAD. Therefore, you write down the letters P-A-D. Next you see the letter E. Therefore, add the letter E, which gives you a combined total of P-A-D-E.

Next you see the familiar object known as a SCREW. Therefore, you add the letters S-C-R-E-W, which gives you a total of P-A-D-E-S-C-R-E-W.

Now you see a minus sign which means that you deduct the letters S and C. Very well, you deduct the letters S and C from your previous calculation and you are left with P-A-D-E-R-E-W. The final object of the puzzle is a SKI. Add the letters S-K-I to your previous total of P-A-D-E-R-E-W and you have the name of the immortal PADEREWSKI.

Note that in the official puzzle, your solution should fit, one letter to each blank square in the solution diagram that follows the equal sign.

Story of Young Herbert and His Problems.

BY WARD WALKER.

Herbert was a queer little rascal who sent shivers down the spines of those who knew him. And then he took up chess.

Dr. Joan Fleming of the University of Chicago's psychiatric department told the Illinois Psychiatric society all about Herbert last night in a talk labeled "Observations on the Use of Chess in the Therapy of an Adolescent Boy."

Until he was 12 years old, Herbert's parents didn't worry much. O, he'd daydream, then tell them he was thinking of ways to kill everybody in the world—but boys will be boys. Shortly after he was 12, tho, there was a change.

Looks for Powerful Poison.

Herbert started sidling in and out of rooms; he wouldn't eat with his folks; he wouldn't talk. His reading was confined to Edgar Allan Poe and pulp magazine horror tales. He'd play hooky and be found in the Museum of Science and Industry—studying up on the most powerful poison in the world, he'd say.

That went on until he was 16 [two years ago] and then his teachers sent him to Dr. Fleming.

They gave him his fill of science and chemistry at the university until they learned his favorite dream was to construct a huge tower with mile thick walls of steel, charged with a death ray to keep people away.

Dr. Fleming finally got Herbert interested in a game of chess.

Provides Emotional Situation.

"Chess is more than a game," Dr. Fleming said. "There is reason to believe the Buddhists found the game a substitute for war. It provides emotional situations—frustrations, hostility, anxiety."

Anyhow, for Herbert it was what the doctor ordered.

After several months of the game, he even opened up enough to tell Dr. Fleming: "I'm sure I'm omnipotent; if I ever found I wasn't, I'd kill myself."

The psychiatrist got another shock when one day Herbert decided he liked to play checkers better than chess. "More slaughter," he explained.

Grasps Reality of Life.

But thru the combat on the chess board, according to Dr. Fleming, Herbert was finally able to grasp the reality of life. Slowly he found that while he wasn't omnipotent [he frequently was beaten at the game], problems could be faced and worked out.

He still plays lots of chess and altho he is still a problem, Dr. Fleming said there is hope that his mental quirks will straighten.

W-G-N PRESENTS SALUTE TO ARMY ARMORED FORCE

Army officers and Boy Scouts were in the audience that witnessed the radio salute to the armored forces of the United States army last night on the Americans at the Ramparts over W-G-N.

A vivid radio play, "The Juggernaut," depicted the development of the force under the late Maj. Gen. Adna R. Chaffee.

"The Song of the Armored Force," by Ted Dreher and Sidney Gerson, was sung for the first time by the W-G-N chorus. Attilio Baggiore, W-G-N star, sang "Rose of No Man's Land" and "Dear Old Pal of Mine," and Lieut. Samuel Pace of the Chicago ordnance division spoke on tank development.

Q. M. C. TRAINED DRIVERS EXPERT WITH ANY TRUCK

Camp Lee Army Course Is Hardest Possible.

BY JACK THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Camp Lee, Va., Feb. 5.—The gears groaned, but the huge tires bit into the rutted muck of a narrow trail thru the woods and we kept on moving. Seemingly oblivious to the hazards of skinning by trees, the driver followed the curves unerringly.

I sat in the driver's cab of one of the army's huge eight wheel trucks when the soldier demonstrated the last phase in the tough course for trained drivers at the quartermaster replacement center. By the time they have been qualified over these courses the army drivers can take their big charges anywhere.

Drive All Vehicles.

Driving all of the army's motor vehicles is taught here, just one of the phases in supplying trained specialists for hundreds of jobs the men of the quartermaster corps must perform.

As part of their training the drivers must learn how to back huge trucks to loading platforms without denting fenders. He must be able, on road convoy, to signal properly, and drive for miles at the proper interval. And he must be able to negotiate an obstacle course on the driving range, a vast expanse of black top.

An example of what these men are trained to do occurred last fall. In one month, using only 74 vehicles, Capt. George Ammon, motor transport officer of the center; another officer, eight noncoms, and 577 draftees transported the quartermaster school, piece by piece, from Philadelphia to Camp Lee without denting a hub cap.

Former Evanston Policeman.

Or take the bakers, the men who make the bread, come rain or shine, bombs or mud. You don't, if you're a soldier, ordinarily think much about the baker, but you would if there wasn't any bread.

So these men go to school here in Camp Lee. In classrooms they learn theory and recipes. They study wheat and the other ingredients of bread.

They practice their art in regulation camp kitchens, and then start in on the portable field kitchens and the new mobile motorized bakeries. Then, to be prepared in case a bomb should destroy their equipment, they learn how to excavate a proper oven in the earth, prepare a fire pit, and turn out bread under the most unfavorable circumstances.

Troops Kept Clean.

Then there are specialists who help keep the army clean. That may not sound like such a job, but it requires trained men to do the task when the army is fighting in the field, far from laundries and steam baths.

To do this the quartermaster corps has mobile laundries, replete with the latest equipment. Carrying its own power such a unit washes the men's clothing, dries it, sorts it for size, and sends it back to the men, in 1 hour and 40 minutes.

While this is going on the men are being cleansed in the mobile sterilization and bath unit, set up adjoining the laundry. Here their clothing first goes thru a sterilizer—delouser to the AEF veteran—before it reaches the laundry.

Shoes Resoled, Too.

Arranged around the sterilizer are 12 shower baths. And while the tired and dirty soldier is luxuriating in warm soapy water, his clothing is being cleaned, and, to complete the job, his worn shoes probably are being resoled in one of the mobile shoe repair units.

The men who keep the fighting man supplied are usually the unsung heroes, but not by the soldier who will know their worth on the battlefield.

LIFE OF SKEEZIX CARTOONS STATE MUSEUM EXHIBIT

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 5 [Special].—The Illinois State museum is exhibiting this month the original cartoons depicting the life story of Skeezix, the famous growing boy in the Chicago Tribune-New York News syndicate's well known comic strip, "Gasoline Alley."

The exhibit presents in connected form the highlights of Skeezix' life, beginning with the unknown baby left on Uncle Walt's doorstep and taking him thru his babyhood, his school days, his life on the farm where he met Nina, and finally to his recent experiences on a job and the importance of his 21st birthday on Feb. 14, 1942.

The cartoons, on display in the museum's art gallery, are the originals drawn by Frank King. Some are in colors and others are in black and white. One section of the exhibit illustrates how a cartoon is drawn. The museum, on the fifth floor of the Centennial building, is free to the public.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

THE QUESTION.

WHERE ASKED.

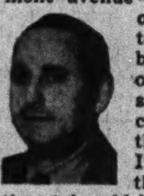
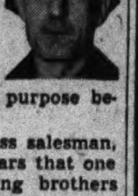
The Answers.

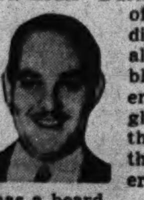
Marr Condon, assistant manager, Morrison hotel—Until just the other day I had been chucking them into the furnace, but now that I know they are valuable as scrap metal, I'm saving every one of them. There's a box in the corner of the medicine cabinet and they all land there.



Louis Harris, salesman, 426 Belmont avenue—For some reason or other I never did like to dispose of razor blades. I've saved every one of them for the last six years and have a couple of thousand of them. One of these days I'll turn them all in at the drug stores where they take old blades.

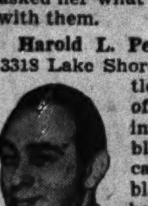


William P. Coffey, stenographer, 7949 Evans avenue—In the past I generally have accumulated about a two months' supply and then taken the cardboard container and all and wrapped them in scads of newspaper and tossed them into the waste paper basket. They've never served much of a purpose before.



Selig Oxenhandler, dress salesman, St. Louis—During the years that one of my young brothers did not shave, he saved all of my discarded blades. Now he sharpens them on a piece of glass, uses them, and then bequeaths them to the next younger brother for the day when he has a beard.

Max M. Librach, state senator, St. Louis—To dispose of the used blades never has been one of my responsibilities. All I have to do is to drop them in the box in the corner of the medicine cabinet and my mother takes care of them from then on. I never have asked her what she does with them.



Harold L. Perlman, fur salesman, 3318 Lake Shore drive—There's a little container I made out of a tin can with a slot in it that I call the blade bank. When I can't stuff in any more blades I start a new bank. One of these days I'll call the junk dealer and he can carry them away.

—Stephen Decatur.

THE RESPONSIBILITY FOR PEARL HARBOR.

At Pearl Harbor our navy suffered the most disastrous defeat it has known in more than 150 years of our national history. Our fleet, which on the night of Dec. 6 the secretary of the navy had pronounced to be alert and ready, was found to be neither alert nor ready. By noon of Dec. 7 it had been so battered that, as Premier Churchill said, the Japanese now have command of the Pacific, and we may be powerless to do much, if anything, about it for a long time to come.

In consequence the gallant men under Gen. MacArthur are slowly being pushed down the Bataan peninsula toward the sea. They appear to be beyond our help because Japan controls the sea and air in the southwestern Pacific and we cannot reënforce or supply the defenders. Hongkong and Malaya have been lost, the Singapore garrison is in a desperate plight, and the situation in Burma could hardly be graver than it is. Much of the wealth of the East Indies—British and Dutch—has already fallen to the invaders and even Australia is menaced.

All of this has resulted from the disgraceful defeat in Hawaii. As if the cup of shame were not already overflowing, we now find that the men in Washington who are largely responsible for what happened are seeking by lies and half-truths to transfer the blame to others. They wrap the Roberts report about them as a mantle of innocence, as if a commission most of whose members were subordinate officers could, in terms, condemn their superiors; and as if a close reading of the report did not make it abundantly clear that the commanders in Hawaii were not the only ones or even the principal ones to blame for what happened.

The people of this country refused to regard the Roberts report as a whitewash of the secretaries and the army and navy staffs. On the contrary, rather. An analysis of the report shows that the commanders in Hawaii knew they were unprepared. They asked for additional supplies which were not forthcoming, not because they weren't being produced but because the administration was sending them to other countries. Worse still, the army and particularly the navy were pursuing a wholly false doctrine, a doctrine which all the experience of this war off Norway, off Crete, at Taranto, and in the sinking of the Bismarck had proved to be false.

When Adm. Kimmel's planning officer, Capt. McMorris, informed his chief that there was no danger of an air attack upon Hawaii, the captain was speaking not only for himself; he was speaking the official dogma of the navy department, which had been drilled into every responsible officer in the fleet. The secretary of the navy and his chief of operations were continuing to think—if what they did can be called thinking—in terms of 16 inch rifles and unsinkable ships at a time when all the evidence at hand proved that these are obsolete weapons of sea warfare.

A great deal has been said about the admiral's failure to keep closed the net guarding the fleet's anchorage. More significant is the fact that the men from whom the admiral took his orders regarded an anti-submarine net as largely assuring the safety of our warships. The danger of air attack was minimized as of little consequence. It is by no means certain that sufficient study had been given the problem of finding and destroying enemy aircraft carriers off Hawaii and it is very far from certain that the means of defeating the raid were at hand. That was not the admiral's fault; it was the fault of his superiors. Certainly he is not to be blamed for the presence of so large a part of the fleet at Pearl Harbor, an advanced base, instead of at a continental base.

Secretary Knox was no less responsible for the catastrophe than was Adm. Kimmel and to say that is not to clear the admiral of any of the blame which attachés to him. It is a matter of the greatest significance that there has been no move to court martial the admiral. To do so would be to give him an opportunity to tell his side of the story and get it into the record. The burocrats in Washington aren't risking that. They don't want him to tell about the limited means at his disposal for patroling the sea or to emphasize the misleading information he was receiving of Japanese intentions. Most especially they don't want the country to know how little our diplomacy in the months before Dec. 7 was related to our military situation.

Instead of ordering a court martial, which might bring out the salient truths, the naval burocracy and its spokesmen are giving the widest circulation they can to the canard that the isolationists are somehow responsible for Pearl Harbor. This lie is spread in the belief that the public memory is short and that the people will not remember that the isolationists stressed again and again our own need for the armaments we were producing.

The country is asked to believe that the navy doctrine is formulated by civilians in opposition to the administration and that the high command is powerless to make its will effective. Further than that, the country is asked to believe that the secretary of the navy, when he reported the navy was ready for anything, didn't know what ideas were guiding his principal officers' decisions.

The plain truth is that Secretary Knox has shown himself to be wholly unfit for the office he holds. He is as responsible for the Pearl Harbor defeat as is Adm. Kimmel. His continued presence in the secretary's office is a most disturbing evidence that Washington is not devoted, with singleness of purpose, to winning the war.

RETURN ENGAGEMENT.

The fact that the army has lifted previous restrictions and is now recruiting parachute troops suggests a nomination for this service. Private Joe Louis is receiving preliminary training in an eastern camp. There have been reports that he is to be withheld from combat service, and instead is to be assigned in some nebulous capacity to the army morale service.

There now are no Negro parachute units. The army might well open this specialist service to them and perhaps make Louis the leader of the first colored parachute unit. Parachutists will be among the élite branches of the army, appealing to adventurous and daring young men. This service should have a special appeal to Louis.

The Germans turned Max Schmeling into a parachutist and Max came off a bad second in his last meeting with Joe. If Joe can lick Max on the ground he can lick him in the air, and there are plenty of other athletes of Joe's race who can help him take care of the rest of the Maxes.

THE SENATORIAL RACE.

Sen. Brooks' announcement that he is a candidate for reëlection places two men in the field for the Republican nomination. Sen. Brooks is the Republican candidate. Mr. Wright is the Democratic candidate for the Republican nomination.

Sen. Brooks' announcement produced in Washington a sheaf of testimonials from his colleagues in the senate. The tribute was extraordinary. Mr. Brooks has been a senator for only 15 months, but in that comparatively brief period he has won a high place in the esteem of his fellows. It is noteworthy that the indorsements included a number from those who, like Sen. Austin, violently opposed the Illinois senator on the intervention issue while that was still debatable by the people.

The name of Sen. Brooks at the head of the ticket in November will aid all the other Republican candidates. It will convince the people that the Republican party in Illinois is fearless and independent.

Mr. Wright has put himself forward and has been put forward by others as indorsing in every particular ["100 per cent" was his term] the policies of the President. That is his privilege as a citizen, but as a matter of political honesty he should then present his claim for office in the Democratic primary or not at all. The Republicans of Illinois don't want a rubber-stamp to represent them in the senate. They want a Republican.

A LOWER STANDARD OF LIVING.

The American people bought 1¼ billion dollars' worth of defense bonds in January. If they kept that up for a year they would turn over 15 billion dollars to the government. And that is not all the fighting money the treasury is collecting or expects to collect. The treasury estimates that the existing taxes will bring in 18 billion dollars, and it is asking congress to pass new taxes to yield 7 billions more. Altogether that makes 40 billions.

Even this does not include all of the money the people are expected to give up for governmental purposes this year. Taxes collected by state and local governments in 1941 amounted to 9 billion dollars. Thus the federal government and the subordinate governments combined will absorb about 50 billion dollars of our spending money this year.

All of the factories of the country produced 57 billion dollars' worth of goods in 1939, the last census year. In this figure there is considerable duplication, for materials which are partly processed by one concern, finished by a second, and assembled into a consumable product by a third are counted three times in "value of manufactured products." All of the stores of the country even in 1929, when we were all flush and the price level was higher than it now is, did a total business of 48 billions, a figure not since equaled.

It is said that the national income this year will amount to about 100 billion dollars, but here, too, there is considerable exaggeration. A physician with an income of $12,000 a year pays $2,000 to his office technician, $1,500 to a stenographer, and $1,000 to a housemaid. The doctor distributes $4,500 of his income among other people and keeps $7,500 for other purposes. In the national income figures the aggregate income of doctor, technician, stenographer, and maid is not considered to be $12,000, but $16,500. Accordingly, the actual income of the people, omitting duplication, will be considerably less than 100 billions.

It should be clear that taking 50 billions for governmental purposes out of a total something less than 100 billions will mean a lower standard of living than that to which we have been accustomed.

AUBREY ON ECONOMY.

Aubrey Williams, director of the National Youth administration, has condemned Dr. George S. Benson, president of Harding college in Arkansas, as a "ringleader in the so-called economy drive."

The offense of Dr. Harding and the Harding students is that they want to save a few dollars for the federal government. The students proposed that the NYA aid they have been receiving be cut off and the money diverted to the war effort. Why should that arouse Mr. Williams' wrath?

The answer would seem to be that the NYA director insists upon forcing money on those who don't want it. If there are wholesale defections from the ranks of the recipients, there would be even less reason than at present for the NYA to exist. This would, of course, be fatal to Mr. Williams and the job holders riding on his coat tails.

Another reason for Mr. Williams' high minded indignation seems to be that he is one of those advanced social thinkers who don't like to see self-reliance in the people. Sen. Harry Byrd said, "Williams evidently prefers to destroy initiative and to condemn those who attempt to make themselves self-sustaining." If everybody taking the New Deal dole in one form or another suddenly got back his independence, the blueprint for the collectivist future would go out the window. So, to Mr. Williams and his associates, there is no greater heresy than being a ringleader in an economy drive.

Editorial of the Day

MAY HEAVEN PROTECT US!

[Milwaukee Journal.]

For several weeks now Italian newspapers have printed disquieting dispatches. The first time that American fighting forces were praised in the Italian press we suspected that a grave error had been made, that an editorial head would roll on the morrow.

But nothing like it happened. Instead, more laudatory remarks appeared for Gen. Douglas MacArthur and his forces.

Then the Italian press carried articles to the effect that the United States was only warming up and implied that when Uncle Sam really got going he would be a tough customer.

Again we were aghast. And then came dispatches from an Italian war correspondent for Corriere Della Sera at the Russian front painting a sorry picture of bedraggled German soldiers.

We know, as does every one who follows the news, that the Germans have been pretty mean to the Italians.

The Italians have lots of good points. They are loving and lovable and fine musicians and we like them. But if they are edging up to make military friends with us, then heaven forbid and may the saints protect us!

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO OF NAMES AND PLACES.

Suggestion to news commentators, cable editors, and proofreaders: Use the accepted English spellings and pronunciations of important place names in the war bulletins wherever possible. Example: Surabaya instead of Soerabaja. That city has been Surabaya in English print for many years—altho Joseph Conrad spelled it Sourabaya.

* * *

An easily accessible guide in such matters is the gazetteer section of Webster's dictionary. It is more trustworthy than a telephone message to a consulate or a linguist. . . . The first time we heard a commentator say Celebes our eyebrows rose until they reached the back of our neck. The mispronunciation sounded like classical Latin.

* * *

Surabaya, incidentally, figures frequently in Conrad's romances of the Malayan archipelagoes. It contains Schomberg's hotel, where the strange tale called "Victory" starts.

* * *

Dispatches occasionally report that certain islands in the Pacific are populated by Kanakas. This word has no scientific meaning; it comes out of sailor talk. In most of the Polynesian languages it means "man." It is used for the Hawaiians, the Polynesians, who are brown; the Melanesians, who are black; and, in fact, for any South Seas islander.

* * *

Let's clear up the question of lascars, too. Seafaring tales are full of them, and they also appear as sinister figures in stories placed in Limehouse and other Chinatowns. They are often seen creeping thru windows at midnight with a knife in their teeth.

A lascar is an East Indian native sailor. In India, he may be a British army officer's native servant. The word is Anglo-Indian and comes from the Hindu for a sailor or soldier. . . . A Malay sailor on his native shore, uncontaminated by forecastle experience, would never speak of himself as a lascar. He would be one of the Orang Laut [sea people].

RENAISSANCE OF DOBBIN.

(On being awakened by the milkman's horse.)

Clippety-clop, I've been a flop—
But—
Clackety-clack, I'm comin' back.

The day draws near
When soon ye'll hear
Upon the street
M' iron feet.
That wastrel Mars
Lets doon the bars,
Burns up the gas,
An' soon wull pass
Frae street an' mart
The horseless cart.

The sportive sparrow
In the tree
Wi' cheerfu' chirp
Wull welcome me.
The whistlin' whitewing
Wi' his broom
Wull gladly hail
The gas cart's doom.

But—
Clackety-clack, I'm comin' back.

A Miniature Fantasy.

These parlors, and kitchens, and bedrooms are not small-scale facsimiles—they are life compressed into a cubicle. In a quiet gallery of the Art institute, they are set into the dark wall like tiny lighted stages, each one a glowing miniature world.

Take, for instance, the ballroom of a home in Charleston, S. C., about 1800. One stares entranced at the sweep and magnificence of the gray-blue walls, the tall columns, the bejeweled chandelier. Looking at the slim-legged rococo chairs, the richly-figured carpet, the massive green sofa, the gleaming floor, one's mind plays a queer trick; the more intensely one studies the flawless detail of all these things the larger they seem to become, until even the room itself begins to grow and one begins to lose all sense of proportion. Finally the mind seems to sink, to drift into the room, so that suddenly all is life-size, and we are there, standing amazed before the huge mirror on the wall.

We can touch the brocade of the sofa; we can feel the warmth of the glowing coals in the fireplace. Those tapers in the glittering candelabra on each side of the room—they're burning! Everything about us is touched with soft yellow light.

Now there are voices on the veranda, and suddenly the tall French door to our left is opened and a young lady sweeps into the room. Her billowy gown swishes as she crosses the floor to the piano. An elegant young gentleman follows closely, and as she plays he stands attentively by. She is laughing quietly, her dark, handsome head thrown back, and her fingers are white as orange blossoms as they move deftly over the keys.

Lovely strains of a Mozart sonata fill the room. In the flickering half-light the young man toys with the lace of his white cuff, and then there is a flash from his gleaming boot as he steps closer to the girl. Her laughter stops; the music becomes a few soft chords. Thru the open door comes a faint fresh breeze full of the promise of spring. The light wind touches the candles and the light flutters briefly.

Now everything is very still. Timosius.

THE GIFT OF FRIENDS.

Thank God for friends, who dearer grow as years increase;
Who, as possessions fail our hopes and hands,
Become the boon supreme, than gold and lands
More precious. Let all else, if must be, cease;
But, Lord of life, I pray on me bestow
The gift of friends to share the way I go.

FOOD GULPERS INVITE HEARTBURN.

So long as the stomach behaves, we let it alone—at least we should. But, at the first sign of trouble, we may well take stock and attempt to find the cause. Most of our digestive disturbances will respond to a slight modification in diet.

We all have friends who are soda tablet addicts. Relief may come but, more often than not, it is merely temporary. The basic difficulty remains and in time may blossom into a serious disorder.

To some extent, we all mistreat the long suffering alimentary tract. We dose it with all sorts of unbalanced edibles, demanding that it handle whatever the palate desires. Not long ago I met a well known business man who had been complaining for several months of heartburn, belching, and some distress after meals. A few questions disclosed his extreme fondness for menus rich in fat. He used large quantities of cream and butter and was particularly partial to French fried potatoes. In addition, he craved mustard and highly seasoned gravies. His symptoms vanished after two weeks on a sensible dietary regimen.

No one has explained exactly what heartburn is. Sour, frothy material at intervals may return to the mouth. As a rule, the patient will blame some dish which he doesn't like and, not uncommonly, will develop a nervous reflex to that special item. In other words, whenever it is consumed, he will experience the same discomfort. He predicts what will happen. Sure enough, it does.

The chances are that the origin is a real spasm which involves the area where the esophagus joins the stomach. Fortunately, it is not a sign of organic disease. It usually appears in those who are worried, who bolt their food, and who rush about—sometimes aimlessly.

We have all seen the condition disappear with the restriction of alcohol and tobacco for a few days, or by limiting starches and sugars, which many of these individuals are unable to digest. This latter plan likewise will relieve flatulence and rumblings, as gas is likely to form when starch is not transformed into glucose.

As has been pointed out repeatedly, swallowed air is largely responsible for belching. If we will eat slowly, refrain from incessant conversation during the process, and drink but little water with the meals—we will not be bothered. Fluids, however, should be used freely between repasts, approximately an hour and a half to two hours after each session at the table.

Should long abuse have invited the establishment of chronic gastritis we can omit all cream, reduce the butter ration, and employ orange or tomato juice generously. Then, too, we must make certain that there is an adequate amount of hydrochloric acid in the gastric secretion. If this chemical is lacking, it is easy to administer by mouth. As we can well understand, if an appreciable portion of the mucous lining has been destroyed, the acid producing cells may never be able to furnish their normal quota.

Finally, the rule that each mouthful should be chewed well and mixed thoroly with saliva should be observed. Gulpers are quite prone to digestive upsets. The habit throws a mass of poorly prepared food into the intestinal canal abruptly. Furthermore, we have no right to expect that the dissolving enzymes can take the place of stout jaws armed with good teeth.

STARVING DISEASE.

J. A. writes: Various lecturers claim that fasting will cure many diseases, such as catarrh, etc. Is this authentic?

REPLY.

No. Various other lecturers may allege that standing on one's head daily will cure headache.

Prolonged fasts may be dangerous. They have no remedial value—not even in obesity.

INTERNATIONALLY MINDED AMERICANS.

Fort Thomas, Ky., Feb. 3.—I wonder whether we are not viewing with too much complacency the activities of Union Now and similar groups. What do you imagine is in Claude Pepper's mind to cause him to suggest changing the constitutional requirement of a two thirds affirmative vote for treaty ratification to a mere majority? Is he worrying that those who oppose foreign entanglements may pick up sufficient strength in this year's elections to block acceptance of objectionable treaties under the present rules?

On Jan. 26 a luncheon was held in Cincinnati for the purpose of forming a local unit of France Forever. The principal speaker, Louis Bromfield, stated that with the close of hostilities there must come into being a union of nations that should also include China, the South American countries, and Russia. This seems to be quite an elaboration of Union Now.

Last Friday Corliss Lamont, son of Thomas W. Lamont, stated: "It is to our own American interests to coöperate in every way with Russia to defeat our common enemy, Hitler. And after the war it will be our interest to continue to coöperate with Russia as well as Britain and our other allies."

LEWIS R. KIMBERLY.

ROCKET SHELLS.

Glen Ellyn, Ill., Jan. 28.—Now that the world's greatest industrial and scientific nation, the United States, has learned with sorrow the superiority of aircraft over the ponderous and fantastically expensive battleship, we hope that it will not have to learn the lesson again in regard to slow moving and massive artillery.

The authoritative journals, Military Engineer and Army Ordnance; men like Maj. James Randolph and Edward Chandler, A. S. M. E., have long advocated the use of light metal tubes launching rocket shells. The fluidity of such attack would change all artillery tactics and make the vast rigmarole of heavy artillery [always pictured stuck in the mud] as obsolete as the dreadnaught.

For the price of one Arizona the gallant men under Gen. MacArthur would become virtually impregnable if armed in this fashion and properly supported by aircraft. R. L. FARNSWORTH.

READY FOR A COMEBACK.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—Is there any place where men who have passed the meridian of life but who are still in good health can register for positions vacated by those who have gone into the army or created by the exigencies of the war? I have had over 20 years' experience as a manufacturer, besides other business experience and public service, but am now retired, altho in fine physical and mental condition. It would be a service to many like myself if you would point out the best way to get back into business for "the duration." O. T.

JOAN BRADSHAW.

FINGERPRINTING.

Chicago, Feb. 3.—This is a complaint about the inefficiency of the fingerprinting that is being done at the instigation of Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health. Employés have been ordered to appear at times and places inconvenient for them. Busy professional people have been kept waiting in line as long as three hours. The persons who took the fingerprints used such a defective method in many cases that the prints had to be done over by others who used a different technique. Why all the finger printers could not have been taught an acceptable technique remains a mystery. No facilities were provided for cleaning the fingers other than a filthy rag which was used by one person after another, none of whom had access to soap and water. This unsanitary practice seems especially reprehensible since it was done under the auspices of the board of health.

Probably no employé objects to being fingerprinted, but the waste of time and the unsanitary conditions are highly objectionable. HYGEIA.

LIAISON AND THE "UNITED NATIONS."

Chicago, Jan. 28.—It is at last being recognized that there should be liaison and coöperation between our armed forces. But it is being tragically overlooked that there cannot possibly be any effective liaison and coöperation of our armed forces widely scattered over the globe in about a dozen AEF's, with more to follow.

Much less can there be any real liaison and coöperation between our various AEF's and the forces of Russia, Britain, China, or the Netherlands. For Russia is not waging a world war and does not intend to do so; Britain is not waging a world war and does not intend to do so; China is not waging a world war and does not intend to do so; and the Netherlands is not waging a world war and does not intend to do so. Only our leaders are waging a world war, and they have no allies. ERNEST BRADSHAW.

SPARE TIME ASSIGNMENT.

Chicago, Feb. 3.—What's all this talk about sending help to MacArthur? Why doesn't he send help to the British at Singapore? DAN MACMILLAN.

CONGRESSIONAL PENSIONS.

Champaign, Ill., Jan. 30.—Will you kindly print the names of all those representatives and senators who voted for pensions for themselves recently? Also, let me know whether or not our President signed the measure or vetoed it?

People whom I have told of the measure are loath to believe me. Your paper, so far as I know, is the only one which has mentioned this matter.

OPAL E. COFFEY, D. O.

[Reply: The bill passed the house without a record vote. It passed the senate by 42 to 24. Chicagoland senators voted as follows: Yeas, Gillette [Ia.], La Follette [Wis.], Brown, [Mich.]. Nays, Lucas [Ill.], Wiley [Wis.], Willis [Ind.], Vandenberg [Mich.]. Absent, Brooks [Ill.]; on official business, Herring [Ia.], Van Nuys [Ind.]. President Roosevelt signed the bill Jan. 24.]

I also cut out all interesting pictures pertaining to the war. MRS. J. W. ECKERT.

JOINT OWNERSHIP.

Chicago, Jan. 29.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I would appreciate your advising if [1] when property is purchased in two names, one party can take a mortgage or get a loan with the property as collateral without the knowledge of the second party.

2. Don't both parties have to sign for such a loan? B. V.

1. Technically, the owner of an undivided share can convey his share, but as a practical matter, the ordinary money lender would not be satisfied with such security since a law suit would be necessary in order to enforce the security.

2. As a practical matter, yes.

LABOR DIRECTOR URGES UNIONS TO END RAIL TIEUP

Restore Service Pending Settlement, He Asks.

An urgent appeal that two labor unions get together and reach some agreement to restore full service on the North Shore railroad, now barred from the elevated tracks in Chicago, was issued last night by Francis B. Murphy, state director of labor.

Another move toward a solution of the traffic tieup which has inconvenienced and delayed 30,000 North Shore patrons daily since Sunday was inaugurated by Judge Michael L. Igoe of the federal District court. He ordered that A. A. Sprague and Bernard J. Fallon, co-trustees of the North Shore and the elevated lines [both in receivership] make a report in court this afternoon on what has been done toward a settlement of the difficulties.

Amalgamated Stands Pat.

So far the Amalgamated union, which established the blockade against North Shore because of alleged raiding of their membership by the railroad brotherhood unions, evinced no intention of easing their restrictions. They said that in no case would they consent to help brotherhood members operate trains on the elevated tracks.

"It is now five days since the halting of the trains was ordered," Murphy said. "The riding public has been severely punished; 30,000 people need some relief.

"On the merits of the controversy I cannot comment. I cannot take sides, nor do I want to. My only object is to be helpful to the public and to the workers belonging to both union groups on the North Shore road.

Union Has Made Its Point.

"The Amalgamated has demonstrated that it can halt indefinitely any attempt to run North Shore trains into the loop. It has made its point in that respect, and I do not think its position would be weakened if its officers should lift the restrictions now.

"The National Mediation board is investigating the relative rights of the two union groups, and will make important rulings. When it does so, either union can take such action as it wishes, and the operation of the trains should not hurt either side.

"I have been conferring informally all week with interested persons, both in Chicago and Washington. The problems are hard to solve. But I urge as forcefully as I can that there be some compromise that will restore the railroad's operation, and I would like to have representatives of the unions in my office today. We want to be helpful."

Judge Asks Full Airing.

Judge Igoe took the position that the public is entitled to a full airing of the troubles that brought about the refusal of Amalgamated workers on the elevated to throw switches for the North Shore trains. The unions and bondholders of the rail line have been invited to the court hearing at 2 p. m. He said he had had many messages asking him to do what he could to restore the service.

As on previous days, North Shore patrons were forced to leave trains either at Howard street or at Linden avenue in Wilmette and board elevated trains there.

MANY ASK TO TRY FOR COMMISSION IN COAST GUARD

Capt. Thomas A. Shanley, senior coast guard officer in Chicago, said yesterday said his office had been swamped with applications following an announcement that men are needed to take examinations for reserve commissions.

Capt. Shanley explained that applicants must be between 21 and 45 years old, and must have boating, yachting or previous naval experience; a thoro knowledge of seamanship and piloting; training in both practical and celestial navigation, and at least one year of college work.

Those who apply will be handed an outline of the scope of the examination, to be held Feb. 16, and may know at a glance whether they would be able to pass it. He said applicants must apply in person at 610 South Canal street.

Fears Boys'll Steal His Eagles (Weight, 64 Tons)

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5 (AP).—Ray Henderson wishes that Halloween would come early this year because pranksters might steal a couple pieces of his property—two granite eagles weighing 64,000 pounds each. He bought them [it is not clear why] at an auction last summer and had them set up in the yard of his home in nearby Arlington, Va. The eagles were intended to adorn the Social Security building, but were too heavy for even that substantial structure. Henderson invites suggestions for getting rid of the stone birds.

How to make a WAR GARDEN

BY GAIL COMPTON.

It is important to the success of the war garden that good vegetable seeds are purchased. Cheap seeds will prove expensive in the long run, and the home gardener is advised to purchase his seeds from a reliable firm.

After the soil has been worked into a good mellow seed bed the gardener is ready to begin planting. A general rule to follow in sowing seeds is to plant them at a depth four times the diameter of the seed. In a heavy soil the seeds should not be sown as deep as in light soils.

The gardener will find it a good policy to sow his seeds thickly. This way he will be assured a good stand of plants. After the sprouts have a good start they should be thinned out to prevent crowding. Crowded seedlings will not grow to edible size rapidly. If the thinning is delayed too long, however, it will cause a serious disturbance among the root systems of the remaining plants.

This chart will give full information on the planting of the various types of seeds:

Crop—	Seed per 100 feet of row: Seed	Plants	Distance between rows	Depth to plant in inches	Distance in row—inches	Days required to mature from seed

Turnips	½ oz.	....	18-24	¼-½	4-8	60-80

In the row of carrots and parsnips it is advisable to sow a thin line of radishes. As carrots and parsnips are slow to germinate the green sprouts of the fast growing radishes will serve to mark the row so that it will not be disturbed during early cultivation.

Tomato plants for the garden generally can be obtained at any food market or seed store. The plants should be set about three feet apart to allow them plenty of growing room. To tie the plants to stakes use a heavy, soft twine. Cut the twine in pieces about two feet long. Double each piece and loop it around the stake so that it will not slip. Tie the twine to the stem of the plant just below a leaf. This will keep the plant from slipping out of the noose.

The peas, lettuce, carrots, collards, and beets may be followed by later vegetables. This double cropping will afford the gardener heavy production from one row. Choose any of the late crops for the rotation. Late crops that can be used include bush beans, lettuce, endive, collards, beets, onion sets, spinach, and kale.

CHICAGO CAPTAIN SEIZED BY JAPS SENDS MESSAGE

Capt. Mortimer Marks of Chicago, who was among four naval and marine officers captured by the Japs at Guam, was allowed last night to broadcast a message to his wife and parents in America.

Capt. Mortimer Marks.

His wife, Helen, and his 4½ month old daughter, Mariana, are at Mrs. Marks' parents' home in Barbersville, Ky. His father and mother, Mr. and Ky. His father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Dave A. Marks, live at 7448 North Hoyne avenue. Mr. Marks is a shoe manufacturer.

The message said all were well and being well treated. Some personal matters were included so the family would know the message was genuine.

There were 442 officers, men, and civilians captured at Guam. Capt. Marks is a graduate of St. John's Military academy and Northwestern university and entered the marine corps in 1935. He was made a captain a few weeks before his capture.

WOMEN SERVE SOUTH SIDE AS BLOCK CAPTAINS

In yesterday's TRIBUNE appeared an item telling of the election of Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, 5033 Neenah avenue, as the "first woman to be elected a block captain in the Chicago Metropolitan civilian defense area."

The news prompted various calls from neighborhood civilian defense organization heads, who reported that other women had been elected on the south side a week and two ago. At the local offices of the civilian defense program it was said this was correct, altho all information of block captain elections has not yet been compiled.

Garage and Four Truck Trailers Ruined by Fire

A $10,000 building and four truck tractors, of a total value of about $18,000, were destroyed last night in a fire at the Olson Transportation company garage, in the rear of the company's freight house, 2222 South Western avenue. Twelve to 14 trucks and trailers were in the place when the fire started, following an explosion. One man was slightly injured.

JUDGE DOUBTS NEW LAW ON TIRE THEFTS IS CONSTITUTIONAL

Validity of the new state law which makes theft of an automobile tire a felony, was challenged yesterday before Judge John T. Zuris in Automobile court.

The question was raised by Attorney James M. Burke when his clients, Lawrence O'Brien, 38 years old, 8519 77th court, Oak Lawn, and Stanley Gawenda, 24, of 3233 Normal avenue, were arraigned on 30 charges. Burke argued that the law is unconstitutional because it provides that each tire theft is considered a separate offense, even tho several are stolen at one time. This, Burke held, violates the constitutional provisions that one offense cannot be split into a multiplicity of crimes.

"I believe the law may be unconstitutional to that extent," said Judge Zuris. "It is possible that the legislature erred in wording the law."

The defendants waived examination and were held to the grand jury on three charges each.

LIST MEDICAL MEN IN STATE FOR WAR NEED

Paul Armstrong, state director of selective service, said yesterday a list of all Illinois physicians, dentists, and veterinarians is to be prepared to determine where each man in those professions can be of most service to the nation.

Under the Office of Defense Health and Welfare services, a procurement and assignment service has been set up to collect and make available information concerning the supply of qualified practitioners to obtain the most effective allocation of medical manpower needed by the armed forces.

"Local boards," Armstrong said, "will benefit from the information obtained and will use it in classifying any man on the draft list."

January Traffic Record Set at Chicago Airport

Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, announced yesterday that Chicago airport had the best January since it was established. He said 51.4 per cent more passengers were accommodated last month than in January, 1941. The number of planes arriving at and departing from the airport in January totaled 4,400, compared with 3,433 in January, 1941.

STRAP HANGERS HAVE THEIR DAY AND SAY—SEATED

19 Exact Payment in Full for Experiences.

Nineteen Chicagoans exacted full payment yesterday for years of clinging to straps, carrying street car passengers on their insteps, and taking their garlic second hand.

These persons were summoned before the Illinois Commerce commission, from which the Chicago Surface Lines are seeking permission to increase the fare from seven to eight cents. They were asked to testify concerning service and they responded with grim pleasure.

"They should call it the Banana line," dourly reported Michael Dwyer, 7642 South May street, concerning the Ashland avenue line. "The cars run in bunches and then you don't see any more."

James Leibforth, 8837 South Hermitage avenue, told of street cars, marked 95th street, which he said turn gayly into the car barns at 67th street after the passengers have been left to shift for themselves.

Cab Drivers Glare.

"They tell you to take the car behind," he reported gloomily, "and when you look behind there is no car. While you wait on the safety island cab drivers pull up and glare at you. If you're with your girl what can you do?"

His testimony was corroborated by the Rev. A. G. Hagberg of the Grace Methodist church, 78th street and Loomis avenue. The Rev. Mr. Hegberg reported on the difficulties of gathering a straggling flock while members battled with the street car service.

"Terrible," was the succinct finding of Frank A. Malone, 8007 South Winchester avenue, when queried concerning street car service. After some deliberation he expressed his opinion of the Racine avenue line, asserting that he believed it "worse than Ashland avenue, if that is possible."

Reports Service Slow.

Mrs. Roy Beckman of 1527 West 83d street, president of the Foster Park Woman's club, reported that the Ashland avenue service is "very slow," and connections "poor." She added that her trip downtown takes one hour, and said it takes a half hour longer to get home.

After the 19 witnesses were heard they were shooed out of court by James R. Clark, supervisor of opinions and records for the commission, and presiding at the hearing. This move made room for well nigh all of the lawyers involved in the hearing.

MRS. JOE LOUIS' AUTO SEIZED IN SUIT OVER FEES

Deputy sheriffs yesterday went to a garage at 5900 South Wabash avenue and took over the custom built automobile of Marva Trotter Louis, wife of Joe Louis, world's heavyweight boxing champion. The deputies acted on an attachment issued in the suit of Attorney Bindley Cyrus, who is seeking $10,500 in fees for representing Mrs. Louis in her divorce action a year ago.

Cyrus alleges he was not paid for his services after Louis and his wife were reconciled and the suit dropped. Cyrus obtained the attachment writ in Circuit court yesterday after asserting he had been unable to find Mrs. Louis to serve notice of the suit and after he had posted a $21,000 bond with the court.

Cyrus also obtained writs tying up any of Mrs. Louis' accounts in the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, the Continental Illinois Safe Deposit company, the Drexel National bank and Julian A. Black, Inc.

WAUKEGAN HERO OF LAKE RESCUE RECEIVES AWARD

A certificate for meritorious service was presented yesterday to Robert Paveglio, 20 years old, 614 South Genesee street, Waukegan, by the Waukegan-North Chicago chapter of the Red Cross. Two men with Cederna were drowned but Paveglio rowed thru heavy seas to drag Cederna to safety.

OFFERS $25,000 SCHEME TO EASE COUNTY'S BUYING

Purchasing Aid Proposes Petty Cash Fund.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

The Cook county board of commissioners, struggling with 1942 budget requests which exceed prospective revenues by $6,700,000, were presented yesterday with a novel plan of financial gymnastics for keeping their several thousand creditors at bay.

The county has not paid its bills since August, 1940. Consequently, suppliers are reluctant to bid and in many cases boost their prices when they do bid, because of uncertainty of payment. The county's unpaid bills now exceed 3 million dollars.

Frank H. Chambers, chief clerk of the purchasing department, proposed to meet this condition by setting up a "petty cash fund" of $25,000.

Explains His Proposal.

"We probably won't be able to buy certain necessary materials on credit from anybody this year," Chambers explained. "In such emergencies, the county would pay cash from the $25,000 fund. The fund would be used for current purchases, not to clean up old bills."

Assistant Controler Richard J. Daley objected:

"We can't discriminate. If we pay cash to one, all the others will demand cash and then where will the county be?"

Daley's objection was supported by a look at the county's cash—$39,227 at the start of the 1942 fiscal year.

Commissioner Maurice F. Kavanagh inquired whether the $25,000 would be enough for 1942. Chambers explained that this would be just a starter, inasmuch as the fund would be reimbursed when exhausted and would keep revolving as long as the cash held out.

The commissioners conceded the proposal was novel, but perhaps not feasible and took it under advisement.

Vote Pay for Interns.

In response to a request from the 104 interns at the County hospital the commissioners agreed to pay them $12 a month in addition to board and room. The cost for the remainder of the year will be $11,232.

Another appropriation approved by the board members was $12,000 for a staff of six investigators to find more properties which can be taken by the county because the heirs are missing.

Judge John F. O'Connell of the Probate court requested a special appropriation of $14,250 to be used for cleaning up old estate cases.

The board will complete hearing department requests today and then will proceed to revise tentative appropriations and revenue estimates in an effort to balance the budget. Budget requests by departments total $24,176,000, compared with the 1941 final budget of $20,828,000.

New Appeals to Judges.

Officials of the Chicago Association of Commerce announced that they expect more than 70 associations of citizens and business men representing virtually every section of Chicago to join in an appeal to the help committee of the Circuit court judges to reconsider their budget recommendations to effect economies advised by the staff of the county survey commission. Such an appeal already has been made by the association of commerce and the Civic Federation.

A new demand that the judges' committee reduce the 2,287 jobs it granted recently in the 13 county fee offices was made by the City Club of Chicago. The club's statement, signed by Herman L. Ellsworth, president, warned that unless the judges act to bring about substantial savings, the county will have payless pay days.

Half Million Paid Negro Workers on Housing Job

Almost half a million dollars was paid to Negro workers on the Ida B. Wells federal housing project, according to a report released yesterday by Robert R. Taylor, consultant to the division of defense housing coördination and vice chairman of the Chicago Housing authority. The report showed that Negro skilled labor earned $198,121, or 8.39 per cent of the wages paid all skilled labor on the job, and unskilled $273,927, or 34.22 per cent of the total. Taylor said this was one of the best records of racial employment on any housing project in the country.

SUGAR STOLEN FROM BAKERY.

Nathan Askow, part owner of the Askow bakeries, reported to police yesterday the theft from the bakery storeroom at 1216 East 53d street of two 300 pound barrels of powdered sugar and a 400 pound drum of shortening, all valued at $125.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer draft and military service questions, both in the daily columns and personally if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the query.]

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

Letters from draft registrants classified as 1-B men [found by physical examination to be fit only for limited military service] make up a good portion of the Friend of the Yank's daily mail.

These 1-B men all ask substantially the same questions. They want to know [1] If they will be called into military service, [2] when they will be called, and [3] what sort of "limited military service" they might be required to perform.

Plans Being Considered.

National selective service officials and high army leaders are now considering plans for calling up thousands of 1-B registrants whose disabilities fall into certain classes. It is almost certain that the first of the 1-B men will be called to duty within a few months, and that tens of thousands of them may be in service before the end of 1942.

It is understood that 1-B men with the following types of disabilities are among those being considered for service: insufficient teeth, false teeth, deficient eyesight, varicose veins, deficient hearing, limited nasal conditions such as severe hayfever, minor bone deformities, minor amputations, such as the loss of certain fingers or toes, correctible hernias, remediable hemorrhoids, varicocele, and stuttering and stammering.

Possible Posts Listed.

The 1-B draftees will be trained and assigned in such capacities as clerks, hospital orderlies, cooks and cooks' helpers, mechanics and maintenance workers in army camps, etc. As the war progresses, additional duties will be found for them.

It is not believed that a special effort will be made by the army to keep 1-B men in noncombatant areas. Many very likely will be assigned to duty in the actual theaters of war.

[Tomorrow: Army Air Corps Ground Duty.]

QUESTIONS.

H. L. S. writes: "Will an out-of-state visitor to Chicago be able to register here for the draft on Feb. 16 without getting into legal complications with his own draft board back home? And, if he did register here, would he have to come back to Chicago for his physical examination when he was called?"

Answer: If you are in another city on Feb. 16 go to the most convenient registration point in that city and register there. Then your registration cards will be forwarded to the proper local board in your home community. You will not be required to return to the point of registration for your physical examination; all matters will be handled by your own local board.

P. N. writes: "I am a neutral alien and I have applied for my first citizenship papers. Please tell me how I stand on the draft? Will I be able to volunteer?"

Answer: If you have not yet registered for the draft, and you are between the ages of 20 and 44 years inclusive, you must register on Feb. 16. Under the newest regulations concerning aliens, aliens of co-belligerent and neutral nations are subject to compulsory military service. You also are eligible to volunteer for service under the draft if you so choose.

T. W. writes: "I have a brother in the chemical warfare service of the army. Please tell me something about this service?"

Answer: The principal tasks of the chemical warfare service are the employment of smokes, gases, and incendiary materials against the enemy in any way in which our army uses chemicals; the employment of weapons with which to fire these chemicals, and the protection of the army against enemy chemicals.

CHARGES WOMAN FRIEND CHEATED HER OF $12,332

True Bill Reported Voted by Grand Jury.

Mrs. Mary Sweet.

Their meeting had been a chance one at a brokerage office, but to Miss Kohn it meant the saving of $100 she had invested in a gold mining stock venture. Mrs. Sweet approached her as she left the office, and after introducing herself, said:

"That stock you just bought is a fraud. If you don't believe me I'll take you to the state's attorney's office and prove it."

Helps Recover Money.

Miss Kohn and her new friend went to the state's attorney's office where Assistant State's Attorney John Phillips confirmed Mrs. Sweet's opinion of the stock. Phillips helped Miss Kohn recover her money.

The two women became friends.

Yesterday the grand jury was reported to have voted two true bills charging Mrs. Sweet with operating a confidence game. Miss Kohn said her one time friend had swindled her out of $12,332, the life savings of her mother and herself.

Miss Kohn said Mrs. Sweet had obtained the money by promising her enormous royalties and bonuses on loans to finance a patent infringement fight against two paint companies. Miss Kohn said Mrs. Sweet told her the patent had been brought to this country by her family from England and was worth millions.

Loses Track of "Friend."

Miss Kohn said that when she lost track of her "friend," she remembered that Mrs. Sweet had often told her she was engaged to marry a certain senator. Miss Kohn said she wrote the senator and received a reply that the engagement was "a laugh."

It was then Miss Kohn reported the matter to Assistant State's Attorney Phillips. Phillips investigated and found that if Mrs. Sweet had held the patent it was an expired one. Mrs. Sweet was arrested in Wisconsin and brought to the county jail. Last night she had nothing to say about friendship but Miss Kohn had plenty.

BUGSY SIEGEL FREED FOR SECOND TIME FOR MURDER, INC., SLAYING

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 5 (AP).—For the second time in a year Benjamin [Bugsy] Siegel, accused of killing Harry Greenberg, New York gangster, has gone free.

Superior Judge A. A. Scott today dismissed the indictment against Siegel, saying he did not think the state had sufficient evidence. Siegel's co-defendant, Frank Carbo, prize fight promoter, accused of actually firing five shots into Greenberg's body Thanksgiving eve, 1939, must face trial, however, the court ruled.

Allie Tannenbaum of Brooklyn, who acknowledged that he was a member of Murder, Inc., had testified he was present when Carbo fired the shots that killed Greenberg. He said Siegel directed the killing. The state contends Greenberg was killed because he threatened to talk about the activities of Murder, Inc.

2 GIRLS IDENTIFY SUSPECT SEIZED BY 2 DETECTIVES

Two nights ago as Miss Wanda Vallett, 19 years old, neared her home at 6041 Eddy street she was grabbed around the waist by a strange man who made an indecent proposal to her. Miss Vallett screamed, broke away, and fled.

Last night Detectives Stephen Stenersen and Harold Dystin of the Jefferson Park station, assigned to see that Miss Vallett got home without interference, saw another young woman leave the bus and saw a man grab her as she neared Mead avenue and School street. She screamed, broke away, and fled, and the detectives caught Albert Walker, 30, of 3245 North Neva avenue, a model maker.

Miss Vallett arrived on the scene, identified Walker and explained that she had seen him get on a bus and had taken a later one. At the station Miss Charlotte Grezik, 18, of 6105 Roscoe street, whom Walker had grabbed a few moments before, also identified him. She said he made the same proposal to her that he had made to Miss Vallett. Walker, a married man, admitted grabbing both, but said he just wanted to say hello.

SIX PLEAD GUILTY TO ELECTION LAW CHARGES; FINED

Six persons accused of violating election laws during the April, 1938 primary by aiding voters without obtaining sworn statements that such aid was needed, pleaded guilty yesterday before Acting County Judge Russell W. Keeney and were fined.

The six, all from the 20th ward, had been granted retrials by the Appellate court after County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki had sentenced four to jail and fined the other two $500 each. The higher court ruled that Jarecki should not have presided since he was himself a candidate in the election.

Those fined are Michael Mole, 835 Arthington street and Theodia Hayes, Negro, 1302 South Morgan street, Democratic judges, and Charles Casole, 852 Taylor street, and Michael Albano, 841 Arthington street, Republican judges, $50 each; Allous Johnson Jr., 1257 South Morgan street, and Mrs. Mary Curtis, 1000 Maxwell street, Negro, Republican judges, $25 each.

SUPERIOR COURT JUDGES ADOPT PRETRIAL PLAN

Superior court judges yesterday adopted a pretrial system, as ordered by the state Supreme court, whereby each judge hearing civil law cases will have a separate pretrial calendar. In suits in which both sides agree, there will be a pretrial hearing to dispose of preliminary motions and to settle the cases when possible.

A pretrial system already in operation in the Circuit court, with one judge hearing all pretrial cases, has proved an effective time saver. The Superior court rule initiating the system provides that when both sides have agreed to a pretrial hearing and one fails to appear the judge may dismiss the case for want of prosecution or may enter a judgment against the missing side.

In June, when the present calendars are reassigned, it is expected that a single judge will be designated to hear all pretrial cases for the court. It is also possible that a single judge may hear all pretrial cases for both Superior and Circuit courts.

U. S. NEARS CLOSE OF CASE IN FRAUD TRIAL OF SEVEN

The government neared the close of its case against seven officers and associates of Resources Corporation International yesterday in the trial before Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe and a jury.

C. S. Duggan, accountant for the securities and exchange commission, testified that the company had reaped a profit of more than $4,500,000 thru the sale of stock and that a large portion of the profit was paid eventually into the pockets of the defendants in the case. Defense attorneys were cross-examining Duggan when the session was adjourned until today.

Prosecutors said Duggan probably will be their last witness. The government charges the defendants with violations of the mail fraud and securities and exchange laws thru their promotion of RCI stock.

Lee than two hours later all the loot, except a small opal ring, was found by a passerby under a basement stairway at 2173 Wilson avenue and turned over to the police.

LEARN THE Thriftier CUTS OF MEAT

Have you met these Thriftier Pork Roasts?

THE B VITAMINS NATURAL TO PORK
THIAMINE (B_1)	1.60 milligrams
RIBOFLAVIN (G or B_2)	.34 milligram
ANTI-PELLAGRA VITAMIN	11.0 milligrams
The above figures are typical for ¼-pound edible portion before cooking

Even after thorough cooking, an average serving of lean pork supplies an abundance of thiamine (vitamin B_1) . . . so essential for physical and mental fitness.

In addition, pork, like all meat, is 96 to 98 per cent digestible, is rich in complete, high quality proteins, and contains important minerals (iron, copper, phosphorus).

THERE are two ends to every pork loin, but only one center. Because many women ask for the familiar center section, both for roasts and chops, the end cuts often can be had for less money. Ask your meat-man about them.

To Roast Pork. Pork should always be cooked thoroughly. The cut slice should be grayish, without even a tinge of pink. Season with salt and pepper, place fat side up in open roasting pan. Roast uncovered and without water in moderate oven (350° F.). Allow 30 minutes per lb. or until meat thermometer reaches 185° F.

NO NEED TO OMIT SWEETS, EVEN IF SUGAR IS SCARCE

Substitutes Used in These Recipes of Last War.

Altho refined, granulated sugar may not be overly plentiful in American homes at present, it isn't necessary to omit sweets entirely from the menu. Honey, corn, and maple sirups, molasses, and other natural sugar products may be substituted for granulated sugar with very satisfactory results.

If you're skimping on sugar at breakfast, for instance, you can make up for the lack of sweetening in the morning beverage by serving preserves along with the usual hotbread or toast. And if you haven't tasted cereal cooked with honey, there's a treat in store for you.

For those who still crave sweets in the form of cakes, cookies, and candies, here are a few sugarless recipes that should come in handy. They're taken from the official recipe book published by the Illinois State Council of Defense during the last World war.

Coconut Spice Cakes.
[30 cup cakes.]

3¾ cups flour
1 teaspoon ginger
¼ teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
1 cup coconut
¾ cup corn sirup
1¼ cups molasses
¾ cup boiling water
½ cup fat
2 eggs

Sift together the flour, spices, salt, and soda. Add the boiling water to the fat, molasses, and corn sirup. Add the liquid gradually to half of the sifted dry ingredients. Beat the eggs; stir into the batter; add the remainder of the dry ingredients and the coconut. Half fill muffin cups, well greased, with this mixture. Bake in a moderate oven for about 25 minutes.

Maple Sirup Frosting.

1 cup maple sirup
1 white of egg, well beaten

Boil sirup until it spins a thread. Beat egg white well and pour hot sirup over it, beating constantly with an egg beater. When it begins to thicken, spread on cakes.

Coffee Cake.

2 cups flour
4 tablespoons fat
4 teaspoons baking powder
4 tablespoons corn sirup
½ cup milk
1 egg, well beaten

Mix and sift the dry ingredients. Cut in the fat. Add the corn sirup, milk, and egg. Spread ¾ inch thick in a well greased pan. Mix 1½ tablespoons of sirup [either corn or maple], and 1 teaspoon of cinnamon. Spread lightly over the top. Scatter ½ cup chopped peanuts over the sirup. Bake in a moderate oven at first. Raise the temperature to brown the cake.

Oatmeal Drop Cookies.
[About 72 cookies.]

1¾ cups flour
2 cups rolled oats
½ cup brown sugar
¾ teaspoon cinnamon
¾ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cloves
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
2½ teaspoons baking powder
½ cup corn sirup
¾ cup milk
½ cup melted fat
¾ cup raisins, seeded, cut into halves

Sift together the flour, salt, spices, and baking powder; add raisins and oatmeal. To the corn sirup add melted fat, milk, and brown sugar. Add liquid mixture gradually to the dry ingredients. Stir well. Drop by small teaspoonful on greased baking sheet. Bake about 15 minutes in a moderate oven.

Honey Caramels.

1 cup milk
¼ cup honey
¾ cup corn sirup
Pinch of salt
1 teaspoon fat

Heat the honey and the corn sirup to the boiling point. Add the milk gradually, stirring constantly. Cook the mixture until it forms a firm, soft ball when dropped into cold water. Turn into greased pan and cut in squares when cold. Chopped nuts may be added just before taking from the fire.

Cookies to Serve with Fruit Nectar

These chewy bits of goodness are just the thing to fill up that empty cooky jar. Make them by creaming 1 cup butter and 2 cups sugar, ½ teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon allspice, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, and 1 teaspoon mace together. Beat in 3 beaten eggs, and stir in 1½ cups flour which has been sifted with ½ teaspoon salt and 2 teaspoons baking powder. Then blend in 1½ cups seedless raisins which have been rinsed and dried, 1 cup coarsely chopped nutmeats, and 8 cups uncrushed cornflakes. Shape in small mounds about 3 inches apart on an ungreased cooky sheet and bake in a moderately hot (375 degrees) oven for 12 to 14 minutes. Cool slightly and remove from cooky sheet. This makes 5 dozen large cookies. Serve them with apricot nectar sprinkled lightly with powdered mace.

Instructions for Making Little 'Pigs in Blankets'

To make six little "pigs in blankets" order 1½ pounds round steak cut as thin as possible. Cut into strips about two inches wide and four inches long. Sprinkle the meat with salt and pepper, then place a strip of bacon, and one or two thin slices of onion on each piece of meat. Roll and skewer in place with toothpicks. Brown meat slowly on all sides in hot fat. Add a small amount of water, cover pan tightly, and simmer 45 minutes or until tender. Just before serving remove the meat and make gravy from the pan drippings. Take out toothpicks before serving.

GOOD NEWS! LOW PRICES ON FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

Quality Is High in Most of Week-End Bargains.

BY MARY MEADE.

Good news, week-end shoppers! Both fruits and vegetables are being offered at especially favorable prices, and quality is good on most of the bargains.

All kinds of oranges, from both California and Florida, are reasonable. Previously a good buy, they have gone still lower in price. Grapefruit also are available at bargain prices. D'Anjou pears took a turn downward and might be considered moderate.

There are quantities of low priced, good quality rhubarb, perhaps because the limited sugar supply has decreased the demand for this nonsweet fruit. Apples are a good buy, and avocadoes are reasonable for this time of year.

Iceberg Lettuce a Bargain.

Iceberg lettuce will be one of the best bargains today and tomorrow. The quality of both old and new cabbage is excellent, with the new cabbage above the average, and the price has come down, too.

Cauliflower is a trifle cheaper this week. Broccoli, which also costs less, is of good quality. You'll pay slightly less, too, for dry onions and for spinach.

For some reason there has been a demand for large carrots, which has brought their price up. So purchase of the small ones is recommended, for they're not only more reasonable but better.

The price of celery is down, but the quality is only fair. Green peas are less expensive, but, like tomatoes, they are a luxury. Potatoes are slightly lower, and sweet potatoes show a slight decline.

Florida Rains Affect Prices.

About the only vegetables that are higher priced this week than last are green beans and green peppers, both affected by Florida's heavy rains. You can't expect many green beans until about six weeks later, when the new crop comes thru.

Those promising wholesale egg reports haven't affected retail prices yet, and butter remains the same in price.

The best buys at the meat market are leg of lamb, round steak, sirloin, club, and porterhouse steak, lamb shoulder chops, and hamburger. Some stores are featuring pork loin roast quite reasonably. You'll be paying more for pork soon, because the supply of hogs on the wholesale market is limited.

Roasting chickens are reasonable. Altho loin lamb chops are moderately high, lamb shoulder chops are worthwhile buys. Smoked ham, whole or half, is reasonable. Buy smoked slab bacon or bacon squares for economy.

Inexpensive Cuts Suggested.

Oxtails, breast of lamb, and stewing lamb necks belong in the inexpensive class. Chuck roast of beef is moderate in many stores. Standing rib roast has a fair price. Boneless beef [stew, cut from round] is a trifle high. Smoked picnic is moderate.

A word about steaks: Sirloin, club, and porterhouse steaks are being offered at one attractive price in some stores.

You probably will become more interested in fish as the Lenten season approaches. Sauger pike may be obtained fresh, frozen, or filleted at reasonable cost. Moderately priced salt water fish and shellfish are halibut, oysters, and rosefish fillets.

[Copyright: 1942: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Baked Cottage Roll

A cottage roll (boneless, smoked butt to you) is a grand piece of meat. You can slice it and broil it, boil it or bake it. Here the baked cottage roll is sliced and served cold. Tiny molds of lime gelatin on orange slices garnish the platter and escalloped corn is served alongside. A nice buffet supper combination, isn't it? What's more the cottage roll is an economical cut—it weighs from 1½ to 3 pounds.

SAUSAGE MAKES FLANK STEAK A DINNER TREAT

Puzzled over flank steak because it's so thin, long and narrow? Spread a stuffing over it and roll it up like a jelly roll. You'll like it with this sausage stuffing.

Sausage Stuffed Flank Steak.

- 1 flank steak
- Salt and pepper
- ½ pound sausage meat
- 1½ cups cube bread
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 2 teaspoons chopped onions
- 1 tablespoon catsup
- Flour
- Fat

Sprinkle both sides of steak lightly with salt and pepper. Combine sausage meat, bread crumbs, parsley, the ⅛ teaspoon pepper, chopped onion and catsup. Spread over steak and roll up lengthwise and tie with cord. Sprinkle with flour and brush with melted fat. Place in baking pan and cover. Bake in a moderate [350 degrees] oven for 1½ to two hours, basting from time to time with three tablespoons of fat melted in ½ cup boiling water.

Save Vegetable Tops; They're Useful Items

Think a minute before you discard the tops from celery, beets, turnips, and carrots. The celery tops go well in soups, and after drying they're good in stuffings. Cook the beet and turnip tops in a little water with salt pork when greens are needed in the menu. And the carrot tops make an excellent garnish, to be used instead of parsley.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: WOMAN'S WORK

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

We hope that some of our south side readers can come to the aid of a family which recently lost all its possessions. A case worker from an agency assisting the family sent the following information:

"Dear Miss Brown: We should like to know if you could help us locate furniture for the mother of three children. She is a hard working person who was deserted by her husband seven years ago. The children, ranging in age from 13 to 8, are intelligent and attractive, and the mother keeps them in school and supervises them carefully.

"Recently the building in which they lived burned to the ground, and all clothing and furniture were lost. For a time, this woman and her three children were forced to occupy one crowded furnished room. She has now made arrangements to move into larger, more comfortable quarters, but is much in need of furniture. A couch, chairs, a kitchen table, dressers—in fact almost any item with the exception of beds would be welcome. Miss E."

The agency will aid in the transportation of any items offered, but the allowance for such purposes is small and donations from the south side can be moved most conveniently and at the least cost.

The Housewife

If you want to brighten that dark corner of the living room or the hall, try hanging one or two flower pictures on the wall. Some charming ones we saw, the other day, are copies of those fascinating old Dutch oils in which every minute detail of the composition is carried out with utmost fidelity, even to a dewdrop on the petal of a rose. These flower pictures had three types of frames, one an oval gold one, another a rectangular gold, and the third a wooden one with fretwork. EDITH WEIGLE.

Utility Coats Have Swank at Modest Price

BY REA SEEGER.

A utility coat that doubles for daytime and sports clothes and in a time of stress for a shoulder cape to wear over a party dress is rightfully rated by the young crowd as worth its weight in cash. If it is high fashion, distinctive, and the last gasp in casual swank, then boasts a price tag that almost startles, you can imagine how sensationally it goes over . . . or goes out.

One such a find is a slick wool affair made of fleecy looking material copied from the hide of your pet teddy bear you owned when you were a moppet. Only the color is not quite so burnished a brown. It's a good nut brown tone that goes with everything.

It is cut in streamlined simplicity, a classic that reaches the hem-edge of any dress or skirt. The sleeves are snugly fitted in at the wrists, there are pockets and a neat, high neckline, but the big excitement is the lining. You may choose from scarlet, Dublin green, or a pale beige, considerably a contrast to the husky brown tone of the outside wool velour stuff.

These are the snappiest coats in town. The young crowd is quite mad about them, not only because of their inimitable swank and swagger but because of the stunning contrast linings of smooth wool. The price mark is another important detail, exceptionally easy to take.

Formerly, coats of this particular dash and snap were priced much higher . . . this year, they are finds of the times around $25. They'll outwear and outlast any other kind of a coat that costs more money. They're young, smart, and warm as a bug in rug.

FASHIONS

By ANGELA

Unless you live in the desert you are going to need a raincoat. Because, around this part of the country rain is just like death and taxes. You can bet your bottom dollar there's going to be rain. In fact we've had a sample of it this week—just a preview of what's to come.

If you like to be warm as well as dry, investigate the Shetland reversible sketched first. It is red, or light blue or gold 100 per cent virgin wool Shetland lined with the water resistant gabardine. Makes it a coat suitable for all kinds of weather—sport coat one day, rain coat the next. The belt which is set in in the back ties casually in front. Slash pockets.

Waterproof, mildewproof, stain resistant, washable, transparent, featherweight are the claims made for the second model—a list formidable enough to break down any sales resistance. The full gathered sleeves and roomy shoulders make it an easy number to slip on over a coat or suit when the temperature is low. There is a corded edge to prevent the hem from wrinkling up and to give it a dashing flare. Colors are yellow or blue or . . . white for blackouts. Under $9.

Veddy, veddy British is the feeling of this trench coat, with the plaited and folded fullness in the back, the buckled belt, the raglan shoulders, and the deep revers. It is made of a cravinetted material, a process which makes it waterproof. Still it has a style and a richness of material that makes it a very wearable item for all spring and fall weather.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

Timely.

It was 5 o'clock at the end of a hectic day. The girls in the advertising office were, in their own words, "simply dead."

A late caller insisted upon seeing Mr. B. It was imperative that he see him, the persistent gentleman told the receptionist. Very well, then—he'd talk with Mr. B.'s secretary.

"And what is it you wanted to see him about?"

"Tombstones," said the man sonorously.

Pronunciation.

Mercantile
Amenable
Finance
Revocable.

Do you know the correct pronunciation of each?

Doll Hospital.

On Chicago's south side has been, for 21 years, the Goodkind Doll hospital. Goodkind is the name of the woman who runs it—a plump, round faced, curly haired woman who looks—with her eyes set wide apart—rather like a big doll herself. Into her capable hands [and her husband's, who works with her] come dolls with arms, legs, heads, feet, joints, eyes, wigs, and heads broken.

Like all people who love their work, she reminisces with a little encouragement. She likes to remember the days when she and her husband—work kit under their arms—after hours used to wash the faces and comb the stray locks of the life size display dolls in the State street windows.

Now they take care only of the trade which comes in the door, but it is an interesting business, she'll tell you. So many stories back of the dolls in the small, plain office waiting for their owners. That white kid doll, for example, over there, very old. It is to be cleaned and the arms fixed. A young woman brought it in a day or so ago—it belonged to her mother-in-law, who died New Year's eve. And the Beautiful French doll, two feet tall, in the other case—that belongs to the wife of a doctor called into service. She ran across it when she "was going thru their things." And the quaint china headed doll with the painted black hair and the funny little wooden hands—new feet are to be carved to match the hands—that is cherished by a very modern young miss, but originally it belonged to Great-aunt Jenny, who grew up a prim little girl in Ripon, Wis., many years ago.

The toy dog to be resewed . . . the cat which doesn't meow . . . the Hula which doesn't dance . . . the toy horse which came apart . . . the wigs to be combed and curled . . . the mouths to be painted . . . the "flirty eyes" which no longer roll and flirt . . . these are the maladies of the "out-patient" department of the Goodkind Doll hospital.

Wrong Guess.

"And then," says L. H., "there was the girl bent on self-improvement who took two books out of the library: 'Wanted—Girl with Glamour' and 'The Hollow Chest,' only to discover the latter is a detective story."

$54,229 Tops Day's Gifts to Red Cross Fund

Workers at Armour & Co. yesterday topped the list of employé gifts with a donation of $54,229 to Chicago's Red Cross war relief fund. The company previously had donated $30,000, Martin H. Kennelly, vice chairman of the campaign, announced. Along with other receipts for the day, it raised the grand total to $2,285,483, or 62 per cent of the $3,750,000 goal.

Armour's gift also placed the packing group in the industrial division within $20,000 of its $250,000 quota, the second largest assigned in the campaign. In a letter transmitting the gift, G. A. Eastwood, Armour president, said it represented an average contribution of $3.93 from 92 per cent of the company's 14,700 employés.

"The response," he wrote, "shows how American citizens feel about Pearl Harbor. In previous Red Cross drives gifts from our employés, while always regarded as generous, never approached the amounts given for this campaign."

Other contributions, all from companies and their employés, included $5,000, the Fair Store; $2,729, Link Belt company; $1,250, Stineway Drug company; $890, Janette Manufacturing company; $700, Alfred Decker Cohn; $600 each, Fred S. James company and the Muter company, and $583, College Inn Food Products company.

At the meeting of the general executive board of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union yesterday in the Hotel Morrison, David Dubinsky, president, announced a contribution of $15,000 to the national Red Cross campaign from the union in addition to donations made directly by many of its locals.

In addition, about 40 unions in various parts of the country have formed blood donor groups that are contributing to the Red Cross blood bank regularly, Dubinsky said.

Free Lunches Served to 117,785 Children in Illinois in December

Free lunches were served daily to 117,785 children in 2,710 Illinois schools in December, an increase of 888 schools and 1,337 pupils over December, 1940, it was announced yesterday by the Illinois Public Aid commission.

In Chicago 35,598 pupils of public and parochial schools were given free lunches in December. The lunches are served under the community school lunch program. The food is purchased in the open market by the Surplus Marketing administration and distributed thru the state relief agencies to the schools.

Russell L. Peters, executive secretary of the commission, declared that the greatest number of lunches served last year in the state was in March, when 143,242 children participated in the program.

Thru the Looking Glass

In most cases ankle reduction is rather a difficult task. When the rest of the body is proportionate and only the ankles are heavy it's not easy to streamline them.

Sometimes the cause of the disproportionate size is bone structure, and there isn't a blessed thing you can do about that, with the possible exception of choosing shoes and hose that give the illusion of smaller size. Sometimes it's amazing what can be done along these lines.

But if the ankles are just plain fat there are certain exercises that will help them. We're of the opinion, tho, that carefully supervised exercise is best. An expert will know exactly what you need and see that the exercises you choose will be of the type that do good rather than harm. It's surprisingly easy to exercise incorrectly.

Massage is also helpful. Here again you must have expert advice and should have a masseuse who knows her business. Some of the mechanical devices are good, too. But wearing bandages or taking up trick methods isn't a good practice at all.

Occasionally a physical condition is responsible when the body is slim, but the ankles are inclined to be puffy and swollen. It's a good rule to see a physician rather than a beautician when this is the case. And sometimes a foot specialist can be your friend in this hour of need. Certain foot disturbances, over a period of time, will cause the ankles to thicken considerably. Different shoes and corrective exercises can solve this.

BY JUDITH CASS.

IN less than 16 days the board of the Margaret Etter crèche has made all arrangements for its 1942 benefit, the finals of the National Figure Skating championships at the Chicago Arena on Saturday, Feb. 21. Plans for the benefit were announced yesterday at a cocktail party in the Buttery of the Ambassador West.

Originally the championships were to be held in San Francisco but were transferred here because of the war. They will be the second championship competitions for which the Chicago Figure Skating club has been host this year. The others, the Midwestern championships, were held here last month.

Last week the club suggested to the Margaret Etter crèche board that the skating spectacle would make a gay, colorful benefit. Last Friday the board said "yes" at a special meeting and went ahead with plans. Usually their benefit is held in the late spring. For the last two years it has been a concert by Lily Pons and André Kostelanetz.

Ticket Committee Already on Duty at Skating Club.

Mrs. William J. Kelly, president of the board, returned from a vacation in Phoenix, Ariz., this week just in time to take over the benefit chairmanship and to attend yesterday's party. Already the ticket committee is on duty at the Figure Skating club at the Arena taking reservations. This committee includes Mrs. John S. Nash, Mrs. Leslie B. Olmsted, Mrs. Leland R. Newell, Mrs. John R. Dean, and Mrs. Chester Ihle. Mrs. Frank Bering and Mrs. Thomas Smyth are in charge of publicity.

Other officers of the board are Mrs. Frank T. Kegley and Mrs. Nash, vice presidents; Mrs. Robert L. Muckley, secretary; Mrs. Newell, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Olmsted, treasurer, and Mrs. John D. Nadherny, assistant treasurer.

Altho all the participants are amateurs, the figure skating finals promise to be as colorful as any professional ice show. School figures will be done away with on the first two days of the meet. Entrants on the benefit night will don their gayest costumes and execute their most intricate figures and dances. Miss Joan Mitchell, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James H. Mitchell of Chicago, undoubtedly will be among the finalists. She won the women's senior championship in the midwestern meet last month and holds that same rank in the Chicago Figure Skating club.

Mrs. Eugene C. Morton's Son Weds in Connecticut.

In Greenwich, Conn., yesterday Mrs. Katherine Gibson Van Cortlandt of Guilford, Conn., daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Gibson, was married to Eugene Ecker Morton, son of Mrs. Eugene C. Morton of Madison, Conn., formerly of Chicago, and the late Mr. Morton. Mr. Morton and his bride will live in either Guilford or Madison after their return from a wedding trip to Florida.

Mrs. Morton, who was divorced several years ago from Augustus Van Cortlandt Jr., has four children. They are Mrs. Joseph C. Wilberding Jr. and Mrs. Edward S. Litchfield of Mount Kisco, N. Y.; Miss Eve Van Cortlandt, and Augustus Van Cortlandt III. Miss Van Cortlandt is a student at Skidmore college and young Mr. Van Cortlandt is in his sophomore year at Yale university.

Mrs. Albert J. Fihe and Mrs. Hoskins Damon will give a dinner party for their daughters, Mary Fihe and Norma Louise Damon, before tonight's Fortnightly dance.

The three arts will be well represented at the Cliff Dwellers' after the symphony tea this afternoon, for the special guests will include the cast of "The Corn Is Green" and Ethel Crouch Brown, whose paintings will soon be on display in the club galleries. Irene Stolofsky Davis, violinist, and Rose Lyon DuMoulin, pianist, will play.

Mrs. Dillon Randall Brown and Mrs. Herbert H. Riddle will pour at the College club's tea after the symphony concert this afternoon.

Mrs. Garfield King's Death Is Shock to Friends Here.

Wherever one went yesterday the greeting was, "Isn't it terrible about Kay?" Every one who knew Mrs. Garfield King was shocked and grieved at her sudden death in Sun Valley Wednesday night. This younger daughter of Mrs. James M. Hopkins and the late Kenneth Sawyer Goodman was so young [22] and so full of life, with everything to live for, including a little daughter, Sheila, who will be two in May.

Mrs. Charles Garfield King left last night to meet her son who already was on his way home with his wife's body. Mrs. Hopkins' other daughter, Mrs. Charles S. Dewey Jr., is arriving today from her home in Far Hills, N. J.

The Robert A. Cavanaughs and their daughter, Joan Dunham, will probably spend as much time in the baggage car as they do in the Pullman when they depart for New York on Sunday. They are taking their great Dane, Jansen, to the Westminster Dog show in Madison Square Garden.

Mr. and Mrs. Corwith Cramer, who departed for Jacksonville, Fla., just recently, are hoping to live on their boat, the Sea Foam VI., while Mr. Cramer is on government business there. Mrs. Ambrose Cramer will go down to visit them in March.

Makes Her Mark as a Figure Skater

[The Women in War Work department will report on woman's activities in war and defense work and will answer questions of women who wish to take part in these activities.]

J. P. C. writes: "What about factory work in arms production? Look over the following facts: Age 42—married — no children — excellent health. Education: B. A. University of Wisconsin, M. A. Northwestern university. Training and experience: One year reporting, eight years assistant editor and editor of national publications, training in personnel work, adjustment work, and psychology. I believe that I have a better than average education and that I possess fairly mature judgment. I am willing, yes, anxious to do my part in our war effort, but must earn a living wage thru my efforts. During the last three months I have been trying to get work of some kind. Work that will utilize my background and training. Perhaps you could supply me with the needed information."

This is a sample of the many letters that have come from women of all ages who must earn their living and who would like to do work to help further our war program. Many small plants engaged in war work will not employ women over 30. Others have a slightly higher age limit, but even so, it is difficult to suggest to women over 40 what they can do to earn money in the defense program.

However, there is no age limit in the Buick plant in Melrose Park. An applicant's qualification for the job is the important thing, not her age. Women desiring to apply for work in this plant should call in person at the plant on North avenue between 8:15 and 9:30 o'clock in the morning or between 1:15 and 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Or, an application blank may be obtained by writing to the employment department, Buick Motors division, General Motors corporation, Melrose Park, Ill.

The Studebaker Corporation Aviation division at 5555 South Archer avenue does not employ any women except for office work. Later, perhaps, when more men have entered the armed forces, their places will be filled by women.

Starting next Monday, a Red Cross Gray Lady will be at the army hospital at Fort Sheridan every afternoon except Saturday and Sunday to assist with the recreational therapy service. This is the first government hospital in the Chicago area to have Gray Lady service. Eleven civilian hospitals in this vicinity now enjoy this service, which is under the direction of Miss Gladys Cable.

Mrs. Harold Barnes.

Col. George W. Cook is medical director of the fort. The Gray Ladies who will work under his direction are Mrs. Harold Barnes, Mrs. Frank Judson, and Mrs. Cyrus Poole of Winnetka, Mrs. Henry Florsheim of Glencoe, and Mrs. Bruce Thorne of Lake Forest.

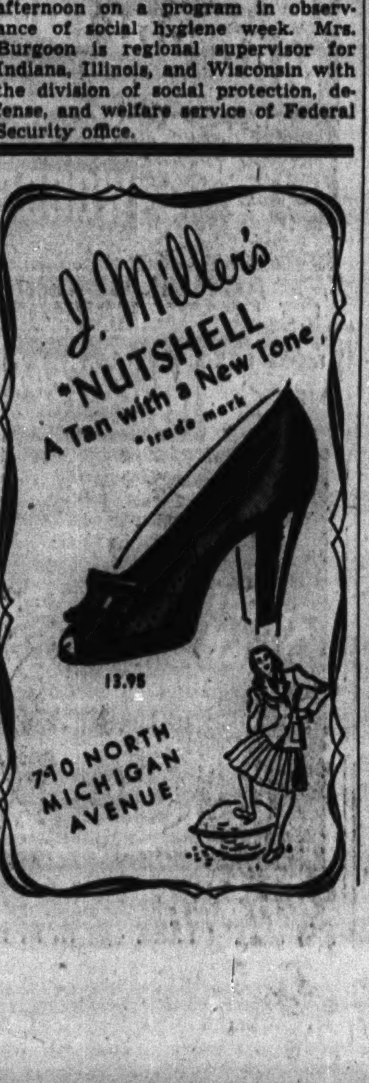
Volunteers attend 12 lectures and do 24 hours of probation work in hospitals before they are qualified to wear the gray veils and uniforms of the Gray Ladies. Mrs. Irene Sidley, who used to head this service, now is in charge of the nurses' aides who work for 40 hours in a classroom and the same number of hours in hospital wards before becoming full-fledged assistants to trained nurses in hospitals.

Girls at Rosary college in River Forest have started out to collect 1,000 books for the Victory book campaign by Wednesday. Torch, the activity honor society, is sponsoring the drive. Miss Rosemary Gannon of Elmwood Park, president of Torch, has announced that a movie on "Life at Rosary" will be shown at 3:30 p. m. daily and the admission charge will go to the drive. The Victory book campaign, sponsored by the American Library association, the Red Cross, and the USO, is collecting 10 million books to be placed in recreation centers for men in the armed forces.

Mrs. Norman J. Sheehe of Rockford, Ill., first vice president of the Illinois department, American Legion auxiliary, will address the Cook County council of the auxiliary at 1:30 o'clock today in the Hotel Sherman. As state chairman of national defense and emergency volunteer service, Mrs. Sheehe recently attended the annual National Patriotic conference in Washington, D. C. She will report on the conference discussions and outline the auxiliary's national and civilian defense projects.

Woman's City Club to Hear Speaker on Social Hygiene

Mrs. Janet S. Burgoon will tell the Woman's City Club of Chicago how citizens may be of service in the social hygiene program set up for the protection of the armed forces when she appears as guest speaker this afternoon on a program in observance of social hygiene week. Mrs. Burgoon is regional supervisor for Indiana, Illinois, and Wisconsin with the division of social protection, defense, and welfare service of Federal Security office.



Dr. Stock Gives a Thrill Filled Night of Music

BY EDWARD BARRY.

In an Orchestra hall program packed with interest and delight Frederick Stock and the Chicago Symphony orchestra last night presented two novelties and a revival, then all but obliterated the memory of them with a deafening performance of Glière's "Ilia Mourometz" symphony.

This last is the uninhibited piece based on the exploits of a Russian Paul Bunyan who spent the first 30 years of his life sitting still, then made up for lost time by indulging in the most furious pointless activities—leaping over mountain ranges as if they were tennis nets and sweeping away cities with a swish of his horse's tail.

The piece must have reminded all but the most sophisticated members of the audience of their first childish wonder at the sheer bigness of a symphony orchestra. How the brasses used to blow in those days and the drums thump! and what splendor there was in the massed voices of the strings!

Glière brings it all back by the all-out quality of his writing. As is fitting in the case of one dealing with prodigies which were enacted back in the youth of the world, he throws restraint out the window and makes the orchestra do all the wonderful things that a child would have it do if only he knew how!

The performance did not, so far as it is known, loosen any of Orchestra hall's seams, but it did provide the audience with one of the most brilliant shows of the year. The fact that Ilia and his feats and his quarrels are not of any great personal interest to anybody is completely forgotten in listening to Glière's awesome tour de force. The music has such physical force that it comes near creating the illusion of a great emotional upheaval.

If the idea of two first performances on a single program is a terrifying one, know ye that the Eugene Zádor Pastorale and Tarantelle and the Florian Mueller Symphonic Etudes on the Folk Song, "El-a-noy," are genial, ingratiating, easy to grasp pieces. Their structure is simple, their workmanship clear. The Mueller work miraculously succeeds in retaining the earthiness and the pioneerlike swagger of its tune even amid the convolutions of a fugue.

The revival was Loeffler's "La Mort de Tintagiles," which has not appeared on these programs for 26 years. It is a sensitive, evocative, deeply mystical piece which manages to translate into musical terms such Gothic staples as moaning winds, gloomy vaults, haggard queens, and sudden death.

Episcopal Bishops Vote to Continue Work in Philippines and Japan

Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 5 (AP).—A policy of continuing church work in the Philippines and in Japan despite the war was declared here today by the Episcopal church thru its house of bishops.

The policy was determined when the house, composed of nearly 100 bishops from all parts of the nation, decided it would elect a new bishop of the Philippines and designate another bishop to look after interests of the Episcopal church having relations with Japan.

The Rt. Rev. Norman Binster, former American bishop of one of the Episcopal church's dioceses in Japan, was virtually assured of election as the new bishop of the Philippines. He is the only one nominated for the Philippine bishopric. When last heard from he was in Manila.

The Rt. Rev. Charles S. Reifsnider, until last year president of St. Paul's university, Tokio, and bishop of the Episcopal diocese of North Kwanto with headquarters in Tokio, was designated to administer the work with former missionaries in Japan.

Current Events Talk.

Appearing under the auspices of the current events class, Mrs. Ethel M. C. Brazelton will give a talk at 10:30 o'clock this morning at the Chicago Woman's club on "How Fast Are We Traveling, and Where?"

THE Inquiring Cosmetic Girl

THE QUESTION:
What do you do for Dry, Sensitive Skin?

THE ANSWERS:

Marie Ernst, receptionist, 7919 Chappel avenue—Four of us had a bridge foursome, and one of the girls had a simply stunning complexion. The rest of us finally got our nerve up to the point of asking her how she did it. She recommended PEAU SECHE Dry Skin Soap and the entire line of PEAU SECHE dry skin cosmetics. PEAU SECHE got three new customers that day—and we've all been regular users of PEAU SECHE preparations ever since.

Mrs. C. M. Glosser, bookkeeper, Ashton, Ill.—My work interested me so much and took so much of my time that I paid little attention to my dry and rather sensitive skin—until I saw a girl with little ability but attractive appearance go rapidly ahead in the business world. Then's when I became interested in PEAU SECHE Dry Skin Cosmetics—Soap, Hand Cream, Night Cream and Skin Groom Cream. PEAU SECHE cosmetics have certainly earned my gratitude.

(Wright & Lawrence, Peau Seche Sales, Inc., 13 North Michigan Avenue, will pay $3 for each true experience of Peau Seche users published.)

The Quick Brown Fox Gets to Smolensk.

Practically every one who has ever studied typing, penmanship, or doodling knows the ubiquitous practice phrase, "The quick brown fox jumped over the lazy dog's back." The other day along came the following Associated Press dispatch from Moscow:

Dragging machine guns and cannon on sledges in 40 below zero [Fahrenheit] cold over the same roads used against Napoleon, the Russians were pressing forward on several fronts, all pointed toward Smolensk. . . . At one vital German railroad junction, they said, three supply trains of more than 200 cars were destroyed. Dragging machine guns and cannon on sledges in 4. Well, So-So.

Dennis King, soon to be playing here in Noel Coward's Blithe Spirit, tells of an English actor renowned for his Hamlet who went one night to see a rival in the rôle. Afterwards he went backstage and chatted of everything except the performance. As he left, he paused in the doorway, and said, "Well written, don't you think?"

Small Fry.

Dr. S. B. Nelson took the 4 year old daughter of a patient to see Dumbo, the picture about the wistful, wonderful, wandering elephant. At the end he arose to go.

"No," the child pleaded. "Can't we see it again?"

"O, certainly," came his benevolent reply.

Again they sat thru it, and again the doctor arose to go.

"But it hasn't started yet," the child protested.

"What hasn't?" he asked.

"Those nice, noisy news reels about the war."

Well?

We offer it to our government for what they wish to make of it: With the current campaign to salvage scrap iron from back yards, empty lots, and farms, why not a renascence of the old Roman motto, Let's beat our plowshares into swords.

How to Get Up.

At Abbott hall, where young recruits learn to be naval ensigns, morning arousal is accomplished these days by a shouting of "Reveille" up and down the halls rather than by the usual bright, brassy bugle notes. Recently the new class of apprentice seamen on the third floor was awakened by the call, "Revelry . . . revelry . . . revelry. . . ." From one of the rooms floated an answering call, "Ecstasy . . . ecstasy . . . ecstasy. . . ."

Old Lamps for Old.

Twenty-three years ago a young Chicagoan home from the war, First Lieutenant Harold Pyncheon, looked over his uniforms. Among them he had a handsome custom-made dress overcoat and bathrobe, each only slightly used. The other uniforms he disposed of, but these he saved. "O, why don't you give them away?" his wife asked thru the years. "No," he always said. "I don't know. I feel sentimental about them." Well, time passed, and last year Harold Pyncheon's son, Bill, enlisted in the army as a private. A week or so ago he received his commission as second lieutenant in the armored division, and last week he received a gift from his father—the dress overcoat and bathrobe and his old army .45. "They fit perfectly," the new Lieut. Pyncheon wrote, "and are magnificent."

FALLOW LAND.

Pale, cold hillsides blanched with snow
You have seen strange ghosts aglow—
Wraiths of withered roses
From the summer hours;
Those of tiger lilies
And the autumn flowers.
In such quiet times as this,
Sleeping lilacs wait the kiss

Martha Wendt.

Brown Bomber.

Recently we chronicled the search of a latter-day Diogenes, a Chicagoan who seeks to find a man who has achieved success by working only 40 hours a week. This bit of research has elicited much comment, but we particularly treasure that of John E. Crayne, who wonders if our l-d D. ever heard of the phenomenal success enjoyed by Private Joseph Louis Barrow in much, much less than 40 hours a week. O, a split second after the opening bell or so.

"My Appetite's Quite Satisfied."

And now comes the tale of the woman noted for the marvelous dishes concocted by her Chinese chef. One day her luncheon guests marveled particularly at the mashed potatoes. Not only were they unusually succulent; they also were a bright crimson. Now, just how did he achieve that, my dear? The hostess amiably summoned him to inquire. He beamed an oriental smile of pure delight, and said sweetly, "Velly simple. Take pink sheet off newspaper and soak potatoes all morning in paper."

Navy Mothers Organize for War Service

Mrs. Helen Joyce.

Navy mothers may enlist alongside their sons in the navy program of "Service and Silence," Mrs. Helen Joyce, organizer of the Navy Mothers' club, said yesterday. More than 100 mothers of sailors, marines, and coast guards already have joined the Chicago club which recently opened its headquarters at 335 North Michigan avenue.

With the coöperation of the navy department, the club is attempting to organize a pool of women who will be prepared to serve in any emergency. Mrs. Joyce, a career woman as well as the mother of a yeoman, has volunteered her services and enlisted several other mothers to start the club. A small, attractive, and energetic woman, she has been almost too busy to worry in spite of the last letter from her son, Rodman, 21 years old, which began: "I'm in the hospital at Pearl Harbor—with the measles."

Another member, Mrs. Loren Lukey, 7313 Stewart avenue, has four reasons for belonging: two sons in the navy, and two more in the coast guard. Mrs. Leonard C. Youmans, 5109 Kimbark avenue, who is chairman of volunteers, has two sons in the navy. She was one of the first volunteers at the Service Men's center, 176 Washington street, where she practically adopted 25 sailors from the armory last September. They expressed their appreciation by sending her a Christmas present from Pearl Harbor.

"I want to do something for the boys here and maybe another mother will help my boys wherever they may be," Mrs. Youmans said.

The club is supporting the Navy Relief society and coöperating with all existing agencies that are working for the men in the armed forces. Arrangements have been made for some members to be trained by the Traveler's Aid society in order to serve as volunteers with the transit committee of the USO.

"After we have completed our membership drive we will make arrangements for regular meetings," Mrs. Joyce said. "We also have an associate membership for other members of the family and close relatives. Several fathers and wives have joined. The membership fee is $1 for every one."

Medinah Sub-Debs Plan Valentine Dinner-Dance

The Medinah Sub-Debs, under the supervision of Mrs. J. W. Buggie, director, will sponsor a Valentine dinner-dance in the Boulevard room of the Medinah club at 8 o'clock on Saturday, Feb. 14. There will be an informal opening of the Sub-Debs newly decorated clubroom tomorrow.

Benefit Concert Tonight.

Roland Gundry, violinist, will present the last in a series of five civic concerts sponsored by the Oak Park and River Forest center of the Infant Welfare, Circle 27, in the auditorium of the Oak Park High school at 8:30 o'clock tonight.

"Pursuit of a Parcel"

By Patricia Wentworth Turnbull

(Copyright: 1942: By Patricia Wentworth Turnbull)

INSTALMENT XXIX.
MISSING CYLINDER.

Delia remained looking at Antony. She had lost all her color.

"If people like that wanted something very badly . . . it does look as if they wanted that parcel very badly, doesn't it?"

"Yes, I think we may safely say that!"

Delia continued to gaze at him.

"If they wanted it as badly as all that, it wouldn't be awfully safe to—well, to thwart them?"

Antony laughed.

"Not awfully. The game Cornelius was playing isn't an awfully safe game. But then neither is polo, nor flying, nor mountain climbing, nor rugger. Men just will go and play these rough games."

"I don't call being murdered a game," said Delia with all the rest of her color gone.

Antony had an arm around her. She felt oddly rigid.

He said, "What's the matter?" and felt her draw ever so little away.

"I don't like it—it frightens me."

"I don't like their getting away with it, but there isn't anything to be frightened about. You see, at the moment we're not thwarting them—unfortunately."

Delia allowed herself to rest against his arm, but without relaxing.

"Antony—do you know what was in the parcel? I mean, how much does it matter if they get away with it?"

"I—don't—know." He spoke in a slow, thoughtful voice. "It mattered very much to Cornelius as long as he was where the Nazis could put their hands on him. It oughtn't to matter so much now. That's as far as the cylinder is concerned. There may have been papers as well. I can't say about them—they might matter—I just don't know."

She had started away from him again.

"What did you say about a cylinder? I don't understand."

Delia beat her hands together and said, "No!"

He looked very much surprised.

"I mean no—I mean it wasn't in the parcel—I mean there wasn't anything like that at all."

"What do you mean?"

Antony gazed at her.

"You opened it?"

She beat her hands together again.

Miss Simcox very slightly raised her head, and then resumed the letter she was writing to her sister Fanny. She discovered afterwards that she had written "very good looking" in the middle of a description of Bronwen's baby. It was not strictly true, but so many things are said about babies which are not strictly true, and she let it pass. The time had not yet come when it would be proper to give Fanny any particulars about Mr. Rossiter, to whom the epithet by rights belonged.

"Of course I opened it!" said Delia. She had flashed into a sudden brilliance. Her eyes sparkled, her cheeks glowed. A bright energy came from her. "Of course I opened it!"

Antony burst out laughing. He couldn't help it. Delia and her "of course!" He laughed, but he was angry, too, because she had simply no manner of business to meddle with the damned thing.

"Of course I opened it!" said Delia for the third time. "There might have been a bomb inside."

Antony felt himself slipping. He glared at Miss Simcox's back.

"There might have been a bomb," said Delia in an accusing voice.

Antony collected himself. It was no use trying to exorcise Miss Simcox. He could neither shake Delia nor kiss her. He fell back upon irony.

"And was there?"

"You know there wasn't."

"Only the wax cylinder?"

She shook her head vehemently.

"There wasn't any cylinder—I keep telling you there wasn't!"

He had let go of her. They sat back, facing one another on the deep window seat.

Antony said, "No cylinder?" and Delia repeated the words with a little jerk of exasperation in her voice.

"I keep saying so, and you won't believe me!"

"You really mean it?"

"Darling, do you want me to scream? Because I shall if you go on not believing a word I say. There wasn't any cylinder in the box. There were only a lot of papers."

Antony said quickly, "What sort of papers?"

"They were in German, or Dutch or something. I couldn't read them."

"But I expect you tried."

"Of course I tried! There was one with Luftwaffe on it, and then lists—at least that's what they looked like, only of course I couldn't read them. And there were maps with things marked on them in red. And there were lots of other papers. I suppose they might be important."

"I suppose they might," said Antony very drily indeed. He took her hands and held them in a grip that hurt. "Delia, tell me—did the box look as if it had been opened—tampered with? Was there a space where the cylinder might have been?"

"Oh, no, there wasn't."

He thought she sounded relieved, and wondered why.

"It didn't look as if the cylinder had been there and some one had taken it out?"

"How big did you say it would be?"

"About four by seven."

She shook her head. The bright hair tossed.

"O, no—there wouldn't have been room. There were a lot of papers."

"Then Cornelius spoofed him! What a bluff!"

Delia wasn't taking much notice. She had skated over some very thin ice, and she was passionately anxious to reach the shore. She made haste in that direction.

"So I tied the parcel up again beautifully—you would never have known it had been opened—and took it right off to the bank, because I thought if they had just burgled Mr. Holt and nearly murdered Miss Murdle for the miserable thing, it wasn't the kind of parcel I wanted to have lying about. Because it looked to me as if any one who had those papers might be really murdered." Her voice made a question of the last words.

Antony said quite seriously, "I think they might."

Delia relaxed.

"What a good thing the parcel's been burgled," she said in a comfortable voice.

* *

When Antony had interviewed the police and gone back to town, Delia pulled out a stool and sat down at Miss Simcox's feet.

"Don't you think he's nice, Simmy?"

The letter to her sister Fanny having been completed, Miss Simcox was now engaged on one to her sister Maud. Fanny was unmarried, but Maud was the wife of Mr. Henry Tulkinghorn, headmaster of Wrestleford grammar school. Henry was earnest, zealous, and extremely modern. But Maud was a dear. She had five children of her own, and mothered three hundred boys as well, but she had always leisure and interest to spare. To her Miss Simcox had just confided that she considered Lady Maddox was being severe—"and, altho I do not like to say so, worldly. Delia is a dear affectionate child, and Mr. Rossiter a very, very charming young man——"

She looked up from the words with what came very near to being a blush.

"My dear child——"

"O, Simmy, don't be discreet! It's so dull. If you're never going to say what you really think because Cousin Leonora or somebody mightn't approve, you might just as well be dead and buried."

"My dear—I hardly think——"

Delia nodded vehemently.

"Just as well," she said with emphasis—"and have one of those large, square, heavy stones like a table put down on the top of you so as to make sure that you'll never get up again."

"Delia—dear!"

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

A defender who is afraid to jeopardize a sure trick is not likely to do very well, especially at rubber bridge. Here the problem is merely to defeat the contract. A possible overtrick is not a consideration.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened his fourth highest diamond. East played the queen and declarer won. Declarer could count only seven tricks without establishing the club suit. Therefore, hoping that the club king would be in front of the queen, so that East could not take the lead and come thru the vulnerable diamond position, declarer led a low club toward dummy.

West did not make the common error of jumping in with his club king! Since East had played the diamond queen at the first trick, it was absolutely certain that South still had the diamond jack, and probably a guard for it. Unless East could get in to lead a diamond thru, matters looked pretty hopeless and, obviously, there was not much chance of his getting on lead in spades or hearts. The only chance, then, appeared to be in the club suit itself.

At any rate, there was no hurry about taking the club king, West reasoned. Not only did he duck, but he was careful to put in the jack rather than the deuce. Dummy's club queen won and the nine was returned. East, with the 10-8 equals, naturally covered and declarer felt doom approaching. He could not afford to let the 10 hold, since a diamond would be immediately returned thru the J-5. But going up with the club ace did no good, either. West, noting East's cover of the club nine, decided that if declarer had a six card club suit, that is, if East were now out, there would be no way to defeat the contract. Therefore, he determined to play East for an original holding of 10-8-3. To that end, he threw the club king on the ace. Now declarer was helpless. He could not keep East off lead nor prevent the fatal diamond return.

Defensive plays of this type are simple when all four hands are exposed, but they require a good deal of imagination under normal playing conditions.

Household Forum

One doesn't need to build a new house to benefit from the many new conveniences now available, for most of these conveniences and materials are as adaptable to old homes as to new ones under construction. If noises come thru old ceilings in apartments or houses it is always possible to help reduce those sounds by application of insulating boards or other sound absorbers to floors or by putting in "false ceiling." While such measures will not eliminate all sounds, they will help.

Mrs. W. F. Spierling, Chicago, informs us that she is using an old window shade for the pasting-on of large Tribune color-maps. "It's a fine way to save them," she adds.

Mrs. E. Martin, Chicago, tells us that she grew tired last fall refinishing worn spots on porch floors which were caused from the family porch rocking chairs. So now her husband is putting felt weather stripping on rockers so next spring the same trouble won't occur again.

Now your idea, please!

THE Kitchen Kibitzer

BY MARIAN CARTER

A look over the shoulder of the kitchen manager in an attempt to speed, lighten and add some novelty to her daily routine.

"City chicken" consists of cubes of veal skewered together. You dip each skewerful in egg and fine crumbs and brown in a little hot fat. Then season, cover and cook very gently until tender.

* * *

Among those "whole grain" cereals nutritionists are always preaching about are brown rice, cracked wheat, oatmeal, whole wheat breakfast foods, whole wheat flour.

* * *

Scramble eggs with tomato soup instead of milk some time, if you don't mind 'em pink. You'll like the flavor, I think.

* * *

To be sure of good quality and a minimum of waste, go to market yourself for fruits and vegetables. Telephone orders are a bad habit.

* * *

Thrifty, tasty meat treat: stuffed pork hearts served with rice. Braise the hearts very slowly, for about 2 hours.

* * *

Those globe artichokes should have tightly closed leaves if they're fresh.

* * *

Pork neck bones and backbones are bargain counter meat, but very tasty, cooked like spareribs.

* * *

If you love blueberry pies and muffins the way I do, you'll not wait until next blueberry season. Canned and frozen berries make wonderful baked things, too!

* * *

Two reasons why cream pie may taste flat, or starchy: (1) because the filling wasn't cooked long enough, (2) because you skimped on eggs.

Make Child's Fear Familiar to Banish It

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

Today I'd like to touch on one more angle of this subject of children's fears. It has to do with facing a fear or, rather, with helping your child to face his fear. Naturally this approach has to be decided with judgment. But, generally speaking, we can recommend that you help your child to:

Face a fear.

Make a familiar thing of it.

Rob it of its mystery and strangeness.

All this, while you stand by in affection and understanding.

Whether the fear seems to be of physical, mental, emotional, or nervous origin [those are rather arbitrary separations, I know] this procedure will help. Done gently and tactfully always, it will help your very small child, your in between, and later your 'teen age sons or daughters who develop fears of a very different and usually more subtle and adult sort.

A mother, for instance, found that her very little boy was almost paralyzed with terror by the siren testing in a nearby firehouse. At once she began to prepare him for the sound. They visited the firehouse, repeatedly played fire and siren, and over a period of weeks tried to acclimate him to this experience, and succeeded. Making up a game that renders familiar a fear producing object or experience is an excellent way to banish fear.

Another child [one of many, really] is fearful of shadows. Yet, what is more natural than that shadows leaping, growing, shrinking, moving, appearing and disappearing, should seem mysterious and, therefore, troubling to a child? Here, at least, is a form of fear that can be dispelled by game and experiment.

As much as possible, bring fears out into the open to get rid of them, but don't ridicule your child for having them or call him a baby and so shame him into keeping them to himself. A small child's fears are not any more foolish, if as much so, as many of the fears of grown-ups.

Dr. Block to Speak.

Dr. Henry Simon Block of the University of Chicago will speak at noon today at the Chicago Woman's Aid on "Can We Stop Inflation?"

Looking at Hollywood. . By John Chapman

Veronica Lake.

Robert Benchley Sr.

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 5.—Note to Robert Benchley Jr., c/o Harvard Lampoon: Your mag picked Veronica Lake as the year's biggest pain in the neck or something like that. You might like to know that your pappy has been cast by Paramount to support Miss Lake in "I Married a Witch." . . . Tire rationing [and I'm getting awful tired of hearing the newscasters pronounce it raytioning] is putting a serious crimp in the business of Hollywood cowboys. Horse-opera stars like Republic's Roy Rogers make the bulk of their income from personal appearances. These are mostly one night stands and the only way to make them is by car. On his last trip Rogers got four punctures, limped in from Albuquerque on tattered second hand rubber. He says he'll have to put up his car, and no more P. A.'s for the duration. . . . The emergency doesn't affect Gene Autry quite so much, because Gene can play one-week stands and have time to take his show by rail. . . . Georgia Carroll, prettiest girl in all the movies, will play Betsy Ross in a "Yankee Doodle Dandy" number. And Warners are dickering with Eddie Foy Jr. to play himself in the same film. . . . Warners have signed Norman Krasna, once of the New York graphic, to write and direct his own flickers. First one will be titled "Princess O'Rourke." . . . Hollywood will see Carole Lombard's last picture, "To Be or Not to Be," Feb. 19, and general release is set for March 6.

Ed McNamara, who's playing a Gay Nineties cop in "My Gal Sal," got a letter from a friend in Martha's Vineyard reporting on the bitterest New England winter in years—but saying he had seen a robin. "Maybe it was an unsocial robin which couldn't stand living with its folks, like some of the rest of us," continued the report. "I am going to wait until I see a second one before deciding spring is here."

RKO, which has been cleaning out producers, will put others in their places. One deal is on for Broadway's Vinton Freedley to become a producer at $2,000 a week. Another is for Billy Stephens, one-time dentist, vaudeville booker and agent, who has been co-producing the Dr. Christian things. . . . Sam Goldwyn has hired Bill Dickey to play Bill Dickey in "Pride of the Yankees." By the way, how's that title going to sound Daown Saouth? . . . Another casting in the Gehrig film is Bobby Robertson, All-American back from USC, to act a ball-playing frat brother of Lou's at Columbia U. . . . Now Republic has to go looking for a Jungle Girl again. After an exhaustive search it found Frances Gifford over at Paramount and the first jungle girl serial helped make a star of her. Paramount won't let her go for a sequel to be called "Perils of Nyoka." Good chance for some babe. . . . Metro will team Bill Powell and Hedy Lamarr for the first time in something called "Cross Roads," in which Bill, a French ambassador of 1935 vintage gets in trouble in Brazil. Jack Conway will direct it.

Brod Crawford has to crack a safe while minding a baby in "Butch Minds Baby" over at Universal. The studio has provided him with a technical expert on the safe-cracking—but not on the baby-caring-for. The technical expert is a retired Los Angeles cop, Capt. Frank G. Katzenberger, who was a safe-and-loft squad man for years. He spends hours fascinating actors and crew with the yarns and lingo of the yeggs. He knows most of the country's safe men, who consider themselves the aristocrats of the underworld, and whenever any of them pass thru town they stop off to say hello and borrow a buck.

Irving Berlin will celebrate his 35th anniversary as a song writer in about three months and there will be a great to-do. Dinners in Tin Pan alley and Hollywood the same night, radio hookups and whatnot. . . . Dick Powell returns to the movies as a song man opposite Mary Martin in "Happy Go Lucky." . . . A local writer, trying to work an angle and get a commission as a propagandist, got word from his contact man in Washington, "Propaganda captains are sleeping eight in a bed here." . . . Trade reviews label Ginger Rogers' "Roxie Hart" as a smash.

Girl Loses in Love, But It Is Good Luck

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

She knew he was married when she began going around with him. She knew he had two children, but he had told her that he had been separated from his wife for eight years; that he had married young, against his family's wishes and every one's advice. After four years of marriage, he left his wife. He never sought a divorce because, he told the girl, he had not thought of remarriage until he met her.

"I went out with him a great deal," she tells, "but I didn't think, at first, that either of us would fall in love. But the inevitable happened. I fell head over heels in love for the first time in my life. He thought he was in love with me then. He asked his wife for a divorce. She refused. She still had hopes he'd come back, if not for her sake, then for the children's.

"I was miserable when I heard the bad news, but I didn't break with him. I couldn't. I was too much in love. Well, he left me four months ago. I guess I leaned on him too much, for one thing. I wanted to be with him in all his spare time. Since parting, I've called him up at his office, only to have him hang up on me. He has another girl now, I know. I am acquainted with her. I miss him terribly. How can I go about trying to regain his love? Without it life will be too futile to continue.

"MARGO."

All right, Margo. No use bemoaning your folly. Take that on the chin, BUT TAKE IT AS FINAL. You won't believe now that what you've lost is your good fortune, as time will prove if you will only buck up and say: "I played a losing game for the last time in my life!" and then go ahead and prove it to yourself.

Sleeveless Sweater Style

BY JEAN MACDONALD.

A knitted sleeveless sweater done in a cable pattern is the ideal choice for the young miss for everyday and sports wear. It is done in a fairly heavy wool, which means that the sweater will knit up rapidly. It is fun to work the cable pattern, and a sweater of this type is most attractive with matching or contrasting skirts.

For instructions in knitting the sleeveless cable stitch sweater, No. 955, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Your Handwriting

BY SHIRLEY SPENCER.

Sir Thomas Beecham's precision is very well indicated in his writing, but the outstanding characteristic is the clean-cut sweep of it. Just as his conducting of the score of "Carmen" was all of one piece from the first note to the last, so his writing carries thru with the same oneness of purpose.

Sir Thomas' pen does not stop for any side issue on the strokes, as you can see. There is no stopping to thicken the stroke with a sensuous spot of inkiness nor any embellishment of the capitals to distract from the signature as a whole.

The way Sir Thomas places his words on a sheet shows quick and accurate decision. One way to tell whether a person has good judgment is to note how well they judge the amount of space in which they have to write and how accurately they budget that space. Sir Thomas displays excellent sense of timing.

AMATEUR GOALIE HELPS BLACKHAWKS WIN, 4-3

PHOENIX EVENT USHERS IN 1942 MAJOR SEASON

Ed Oliver in Army, Won't Defend Title.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 5.—The Western Open golf tournament, first of the 1942 season's major battles, will begin tomorrow morning over the sun washed acreage of the Phoenix Country club. Certainly, those acres have been saturated in sunshine for most of the last month, and one and all of the approximately 150 starters are hoping that the happy temperatures will remain thru Sunday's final round of 36 holes. Eighteen hole rounds will be played tomorrow and Saturday.

The Western, always a tournament of national caliber, this year carries added prestige, thanks to the decision of the Western Golf association to carry on with all of its events in spite of the war. The Kit Carsons of the professional golfing set, who are scouting this Western with their brassies and mashies, are well aware that it is right nice to win a piece of change in any of the other stops on the winter circuit, but they also realize that the tradition of the Western, one which carries a victors' roster of all of the game's greats, is one that holds a value beyond cash.

War Takes Champion.

With the USGA having canceled all its major tourneys, including the National Open, the Western, the Masters' and the PGA rank as the only true established national events of the season for professionals.

You don't have to go far around these parts to realize there's a war on. In fact, you can start with the name of Edward [Porky] Oliver.

Oliver was drafted shortly after winning this, his first major championship, when it was held on this same course a year ago. That eliminates the defending champion. Also absent will be Victor Ghezzi, National PGA title holder, who recently joined the armed forces, and Johnny Bulla, an early factor in the 1941 tourney, who has enrolled as a commercial pilot. Johnny Perelli of Lake Tahoe, Cal., took his physical examinations here tonight, pending a call from his draft board, and several others are awaiting a call.

It is suspected that any one who could collect $4,932 in four tournaments over a period of one month should merit some attention as a favorite in this show, and he is. That, of course, would be Benjamin Hogan, the Texas junior welterweight who was first at Los Angeles and San Francisco, tied for third at Oakland, and in the money in the recent Bing Crosby tournament.

Snead Is There, of Course.

Among others who aim to deter Hogan's rush to further money winning and Vardon Trophy triumph are six former champions and Samuel Jackson Snead, perennial threat in the tournament since he first played in it.

Sam'l has been having his troubles again, including another finishing eight and one embarrassing round of 34—43—77.

Two dark horse teams took the spotlight in today's pro-amateur competition, which annually precedes the big event, but several strong contenders posted sub-par scores in individual rounds. Byron Nelson shot a 67, four under par, along with Dutch Harrison, Chick Harbert, and Herman Barron, while Sam Snead and Lloyd Mangrum came in with 68s.

Barron, White Plains, N. Y., and his amateur partner, Jack Leavitt, Houston, Tex., tied with Professional Bill Williamson, Los Angeles, and Amateur J. B. Bockman of Roswell, N. M., for top honors in the pro-amateur best ball event. They had 63s, and the pros split $175 first and second prize money.

Remember, Fans? Who Could Forget?

As long as baseball is played, Chicago fans will remember these former stars who gathered in the Morrison hotel last night for the annual old timers' baseball banquet. Left to right: Joe Benz, Ray Schalk, and Urban (Red) Faber. Benz and Faber, both mound stars in the south siders' halcyon days, demonstrate their favorite pitching grips to Schalk. Schalk was—never mind; everybody knows who the Cracker was. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

Joe Dugo Can Take It and Dish It Out

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Joe Dugo, a hard hitting welterweight from the west side whose favorite occupations are boxing and truck driving, is taking dead aim at a place on Chicago's Golden Gloves boxing team. Before he can get that place, however, he'll have to beat a rugged fighter from the Savoy A. C.—Thomas James.

The showdown will come next Thursday night in the Coliseum, where north sectional champions will battle those from the south with city titles at stake. These titles automatically bring a fighting assignment on the team which Chicago will send into the Tournament of Champions in the Stadium. There the local winners will meet the best amateur boxers from a vast Golden Gloves territory which includes 23 states.

There'll Be Action Aplenty.

With so much at stake next Thursday night, the Coliseum bouts are expected to be the most furiously contested engagements in the history of the struggle for the city championship. Every boy who will enter the ring already has proved himself in dozens of previous bouts, and has emerged successfully from the sectional events which were held last week in south and north side gymnasiums.

For the first time the city title

Billy Webb (standing), head of the White Sox farm system, swaps reminiscences with Gabby Hartnett, former catcher and manager of the Cubs, who now is pilot of the Indianapolis club in the American Association.

Jimmy Archer, one of the greatest of all Cub catchers, takes a few minutes to impart some valuable pointers to Emil Kush, pitching rookie of the 1942 team.

Last night was a night of stars, baseball variety, in the Cameo room of the Morrison hotel as members of the Chicago Old Timers Baseball association held their annual banquet. An overflow throng of 1,200 attended.

LOYOLA SHOULD BE FAVORED, BUT DE PAUL SAYS 'NO'

Anything Can Happen in Basketball—and Does.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The Great Lakes Naval Training station basketball players may have lost the keen edge of their attack during the strenuous campaign but their recent defeats probably can be classed under the general heading: "Anything can happen in basketball."

Certainly the game Monday night in the Chicago Stadium between the Sailors and Notre Dame—the proceeds to be given to the Navy Relief society—has lost none of its glamor. Moreover, it will be the first appearance away from home of George Keogan, the Irish coach, who has been recuperating from a serious illness last winter.

Previous records also will mean little tomorrow evening when De Paul and Loyola meet in the Coliseum for the benefit of the Catholic Youth organization's Needy Youth fund. If records were proper criteria in basketball, the contest might now be awarded Loyola, since the Ramblers have been defeated only three times this season. No matter the excellence of the passing and the system of advancing the ball, however, field goals still pay off and the so-called "off" night of a star has ruined many a team.

Comparison of Man Power.

De Paul will have an advantage in number of players available altho this number of approximately equal men may have been a handicap in development of the De Paul team. Loyola, without Mike Dougherty, who is injured, has seven players. Bill Durkin will start at forward in place of Jack Dwan, who replaces Dougherty at center. Bill Graydon and Len Zimny will be the reserves. They have played in 14 and 13 games, respectively, of the 16 contests.

Mickey Rottner, of course, is the offensive star of the Loyola quintet and it is likely he will be the outstanding player tomorrow night despite the excellence of De Paul's Jimmy Cominsky and Bob Wozny. Rottner has scored 205 points in 16 games and he ranks with the first flight players of the nation. Jack Dwan with 135 points, Bob Tietz, 134 points, and Jack Stanton, 132 points, support Rottner. The distribution of Loyola's scoring is indicative of the strength of the Ramblers.

Loyola has scored 750 points in 16 games as compared to their opponents' 550 points. Loyola will be particularly vulnerable if one of its starting players is lost on personal fouls.

De Paul Captain Consistent.

Wozny has played most consistently for De Paul this season. This is his third year of competition and he's the team captain. He shoots with either hand and is particularly adept under the backboard. Last year he scored 166 points, a mark he may break this season. If Jimmy Cominsky, who pairs with Wozny at forward, is back in stride De Paul will have scoring strength to equal Loyola's attack.

Tickets still are available for the Coliseum double header tomorrow night. They are priced at $1.10 and $1.65. The first game between Marquette and Georgetown university will start at 8:15 o'clock. The Georgetown team is expected to arrive today.

BUDGE DEFEATS RIGGS; WIDENS PRO TENNIS LEAD

Don Budge widened his lead in the professional tennis tour last night by defeating Bobby Riggs, 6-2, 7-5, before a crowd of 2,000 in the North Central college fieldhouse in Naperville. Budge now has 22 victories and nine losses to Riggs' 15 triumphs and 13 defeats.

Fred Perry whipped Lester Stoefen, 7-5, 6-4, and Budge and Stoefen teamed to defeat Riggs and Perry, 7-5, 4-6, 6-4.

Sailors Meet Wisconsin Five Tomorrow.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 5 [Special].—Great Lakes, beaten last night in Omaha, Neb., by the Creighton basketball team, 59 to 45, regained its victory stride with a rush here tonight by whipping the University of Kansas, 53 to 37.

The triumph, 20th for the Bluejackets in 23 games, kept Great Lakes' record against Big Six competition clean. Nebraska and Iowa State have been beaten by the sailors.

5,700 See Game.

If the Bluejackets were off last night against Creighton, they were on tonight against Coach Phog Allen's Jayhawks. They connected for 30 per cent of their tosses in the first half, finishing the period in front, 26 to 15. Bob Calihan of Great Lakes divided individual honors with T. P. Hunter of Kansas, each scoring 10 points.

A crowd of 5,700 watched the Sailors play the co-leader of the Big Six conference. Lineup:

CHANUTE FIELD LOSES

Crawfordsville, Ind., Feb. 5 (AP).—Wabash college's basketball team surprised Chanute Field tonight by handing the army quintet a 39 to 37 defeat. Ray Greve scored 15 points to pace the Wabash attack, but Bill Hapac, former University of Illinois star, was the game's high scorer with 21 points for Chanute. Trailing most of the way, the Planesmen finally caught up with and pulled ahead of Wabash late in the game, 32 to 29. The Indiana five at once tied the score at 33 all and went on to win. Lineup:

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 5 [Special].—Remember Alfie Moore, substitute goalie for the New York Americans, whom the Chicago Blackhawks shanghaied from a tavern the evening of April 5, 1938, to take the place of the injured Mike Karakas? It was Moore's sensational goal tending, remember, that gave the Hawks a 3 to 1 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs in the opening game of their successful stand in the Stanley cup finals.

Well, something like that happened tonight. The Hawks won, 4 to 3, altho they were playing the Canadiens, not the Leafs. And it was Sammy Lo Presti, who was injured—not Karakas. And it was Bill Dickie in the nets—not Moore. And the Hawks didn't find Dickie in a tavern—they found him in the lineup of the eminently respectable Montreal Pats, an amateur sextet in the Quebec Senior Amateur league.

Bill Rarin' to Go—and Does.

Nor did the Hawks have to use steam baths, tomato juice, and black coffee—all of which were administered liberally to Alfie that memorable night in '38—to get young Bill Dickie in shape to face a puck barrage. The kid was rarin' to try his luck against major leaguers.

Bill was a little nervous at first. The Canadiens ran up a 2 to 0 lead in the first seven minutes, but after that he stood his ground like—well, like the bleary eyed Alfie of happy memory—and the Hawks came right back on goals by Red Hamill and Alex Kaleta to equalize the early efforts of Joe Benoit and Buddy O'Connor.

Cully Dahlstrom sent the Hawks ahead at 19:18 of the second period when he broke away on a combination drive with Kaleta and Bill Thoms to beat Paul Bibeault.

Dickie protected the Hawks' lead until 13:23 of the third period, when Gerry Heffernan skated around Johnny Mariucci and caught the right corner of Dickie's cage.

A Fight—Almost.

The Canadiens had four forwards on the ice at the time—taking advantage of a Chicago shortage in man power—and they kept the heat on Dickie for another three minutes. But Bill made two brilliant saves—then Bob Carse got a loose puck along the right boards. Bob slipped and fell as he skated in on Bibeault, but managed to slam the puck home while skidding along the ice.

Tempers flared early in the third period when Butch Bouchard tried to beat Dickie from close in. Bouchard's shot bounced behind the cage and the Canadiens claimed the puck passed thru a hole in the nets. Referee Mike Chadwick ruled the puck missed the cage, whereupon an irate fan clambered out of the stands, took off his overcoat, and offered to do battle with either Dickie, Chadwick, or both. The fan was accommodated by four ushers.

Dickie's victorious evening with the Hawks will not affect his amateur standing. Bill was granted permission to play by the Canadian Amateur Hockey association after Manager Paul Thompson had failed to find a replacement for Lo Presti, who suffered a severe eye cut during Chicago's conquest of Boston Thursday.

Hal Schumacher Signs 1942 Giant Contract

New York, Feb. 5 (AP).—Pitcher Hal Schumacher of the New York Giants signed his contract today for the 1942 season, his 10th with the National league team. The contract was believed to call for a salary of $12,000, the same he received last year when he won 12 games and lost 10. Schumacher is the third member of the Giants' squad to sign. The others are Bill Werber and Harry Danning.

GUERIN TAKES 4 RACES TO REGAIN '42 JOCKEY LEAD

17 Year Old Breaks Tie with George.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 5 (AP).—An 18 year old Cincinnati Syrian and a 17 year old Louisiana "Cajin" entered today's racing program at Fair Grounds tied for the lead among the country's riders with 26 victories each, but after the day's races were out of the way the home boy again had gone four up.

It took five winners yesterday for Jimmy George of Cincinnati to pull even with Eric Guerin of Maringouin, La., but Guerin went right back into the lead at the start of today's card, booting home Paddy in the first race. To make certain of his advantage he scored again on Night Editor in the fifth race, won on Misrule in the sixth and took the eighth on Fencing. George's mounts were second in the fifth and sixth, while Guerin was on the second horse in the seventh.

Jimmy Is Shy.

Guerin led 26 to 19 at the end of January, after passing George with 10 victories in the last five days of the month. Tuesday, the next day of competition, George struck back with two winners, each by a nose over Guerin's mount. And yesterday came his great feat of five winners—not one of which was a favorite.

Today everybody at the track was talking about that feat except the smiling, dark complexioned hero himself.

"I can't take all the credit for a day like that," he shied. "Those things just happen. I didn't feel different or do anything different."

Jimmy was Kentucky's leading apprentice last season and today F. P. Letellier of New Orleans, to whom he is under contract, declared, "He's as good a rider as I've ever seen. In less than a year he's learned more than most veterans know."

Eric Has Big Advantage.

Guerin's boss, Fred Wyse of Houston, Tex., is just as high on his boy and said before the meet that Eric would lead the country this year.

Guerin has several advantages over his Cincinnati rival. He won't lose his apprenticeship and its five pound allowance until late this summer, whereas George gives his up next month.

The Louisianian will continue campaigning, after the meet here, at Hot Springs and then in New England. But George intends to rest awhile at home before going to Lexington since Letellier does not plan to race at Hot Springs.

Also the "Cajin" has a smaller frame and is finding it easier to keep to his 102 pounds than George is to his 107.

FISHERMEN SEND IN ENTRIES FOR CASTING TOURNEY

Tribune Contest Will Be Held Feb. 21-Mar. 1.

BY BOB BECKER.

Chicagoland fishermen and casters already are sending in their entries for the annual bait and fly casting tournament which will be held in the International amphitheater, Feb. 21 to March 1. Last year 870 men, women, and junior casters signed up for this tournament sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, which now is the largest casting event in the United States.

Plans are under way to accommodate another record breaking entry at this year's tournament, which will be held in conjunction with the International Sportsmen's show. A number of entries already have been received. An official entry blank will be published in this newspaper.

No Entry Fee Charged.

One of the first entries came from Hall Edwards, Evansville, Ind. Roman Dereng, a Chicago youngster who has been competing in the tournament for several years, also has sent in his entry. There is no entry fee for any event on the program. Handsome trophies will be awarded to the winners.

There are eight events on the nine day schedule. These are the club event [for casters belonging to clubs], the bass bug, dry fly, shore casting [formerly called obstacle casting], a ladies' event, Skish, junior Skish, and the team event. Casters may procure a complete time schedule and set of rules by writing to the Casting Editor, Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

Equipment Restricted.

In both the Skish and shore casting events only standard fishing equipment will be allowed. Reels must be of standard manufacture and fitted with level-winding device. Lines must test not less than nine pounds. The tournament manager will examine each contestant's equipment in these events to make sure that no light lines or tournament reels are used.

William J. Butler, manager of The Tribune casting tournament, said yesterday that fishermen or novice casters who want individual instructions in either fly or bait casting should apply at The Tribune booth or at the casting pool. There will be no charge for these instructions. Fishermen should bring their own fly or bait casting equipment.

Fast, high powered specially designed speed boats seeing service with the armed forces will be on display at the show. Among them is a 20 foot high powered craft which has seen triple duty with various armed forces as a crash boat, a dispatch boat and a patrol craft.

Rangers Defeat Bruins, 4 to 1; Increase Hockey League Lead

New York, Feb. 5 (AP).—The New York Rangers tonight stretched their National Hockey league lead to four points by defeating the second place Boston Bruins, 4 to 1, in a game featured by the offensive play of the New Yorkers' Watson-Hextall-Patrick line.

Before 16,217 fans, the largest crowd here this season, the Rangers established a clear cut edge early in the third period after the first 40 minutes of close, fast hockey had produced a single goal.

Bryan Hextall, the league's leading point getter, scored one goal and aided in all three others, while Lynn Patrick, with a goal and an assist, became the first league player to attain the 20 goal mark. Phil Watson took second place in the points column with a goal and two assists.

The Bruins' loss was their third in a row since they lost their assistant manager and defense star, Dit Clapper. On the other hand the victory was the Rangers' seventh straight and their 13th in the last 15 games. Lineup:

WINGS TIE LEAFS

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 5 (AP).—The Detroit Red Wings twice came from behind tonight to battle the Toronto Maple Leafs to a 3 to 3 tie before 8,054. The veteran Mud Bruneteau bagged two Detroit goals, one producing the deadlock with less than three minutes to play in regulation time.

The faltering Maple Leafs, who have scored only one victory in their last six starts, got a goal in each of the first three periods off Substitute Goalie Joe Turner, making his major league debut in place of injured Johnny Mowers. Rookie Johnny McCreedy and Gordon Drillon gave the Leafs a 2 to 0 lead, but Detroit tied it up with two second period scores.

Then Hank Goldup stole the puck at the blue line and beat Turner midway of the third period before Bruneteau squared it again. Alex Motter got the other Detroit score.

OLD TIMERS PLAY

Boston, Mass., Feb. 5 (AP).—Sixteen of the greatest professional hockey players in the memory of current fans will attempt to demonstrate their old time speed and skill against the world championship Boston Bruins tomorrow night in a 40-minute charity game in the Boston Garden. Proceeds will go to the Army Relief society.

For two regulation periods such famous forward lines as Frank Boucher and the Cook brothers, Bill and Bun; Toronto's mighty trio of 10 years ago, Joe Primeau, Busher Jackson, and Charlie Conacher, and Detroit's once feared Marty Barry, Larry Aurie, and Herb Lewis will attempt to duplicate their herculean scoring feats against the Stanley cup holders.

Ching Will Be There.

Eddie Shore will be a defense man for those famous sets of forwards, along with his Boston colleague, George Owen, the professional game's only Harvard product; Red Horner, the recent Toronto tornado; big Cy Wentworth, who starred for Chicago and both Montreal clubs, and Bald Ching Johnson, who never lost his beaming smile while taking or giving bone-crushing checks during his active days with the New York Rangers. Tiny Thompson, one of the most popular players in the Bruin's history, will protect the old time stars' net.

The canny Hooley Smith, famed for his feats on the disbanded Montreal Maroons' "S" line, which also included Nels Stewart and the late Babe Siebert, will be available as a spare foreward.

Weiland's in Charge.

Those veterans, most of whom are still active in hockey in executive capacities, will be master-minded by Cooney Weiland, now of the Hershey American league club, who won all-star coaching honors with the championship Bruins last season.

Weiland seized that heavy responsibility with high glee, for it will give him an opportunity to issue orders to seven of his American Hockey league coaching rivals, Shore of Springfield, Thompson of Buffalo, Bun Cook of Providence, Bill Cook of Cleveland, Johnson of Washington, Lewis of Indianapolis, and Aurie of Pittsburgh.

With the Garden donated for the occasion by General Manager Walter Brown, the public threatening to provide a capacity crowd of 15,000, and hockey writers purchasing their own working press tickets, it appears likely the relief society will benefit to the extent of more than $15,000.

YANKS GET MOORE FROM BRAVES IN DEAL FOR HOLMES

Boston, Mass., Feb. 5 (AP).—Secretary John Quinn of the Boston Braves announced tonight that Outfielder Gene Moore had been sent to the New York Yankees to complete the deal for Tommy Holmes, recently acquired outfielder. First Baseman John [Buddy] Hassett already had gone to the New York club for Holmes in the exchange, which called for cash and two Boston players. Moore, a seasoned outfielder and an average hitter, was handicapped by injuries last year with the Braves.

DU SABLE, CLIFTON GONE, BEATEN BY TILDEN, 31 TO 27

Negro Team Drops to Tie for Section Lead.

Du Sable High school's senior basketball team felt the loss of its star center, Nat Clifton, for the first time yesterday. The colored squad absorbed its first defeat, 31 to 27, at the hands of Tilden Tech on the latter's court in the central section of the Public School league. The setback sent Du Sable into a tie for the sectional lead with Manley, which defeated Farragut, 5? to 30, in Farragut gymnasium.

Lindblom's seniors, with Wally Silko and Stan Cernich each scoring eight points, defeated Kelly, 30 to 25, on the Kelly floor. It was Lindblom's fourth triumph in six games. A free throw by Rube Barasch, forward, enabled Harrison Tech to triumph over Gage Park, 28 to 27, in another central zone game in Gage Park gymnasium. Lineups:

Crane Tech, led by Ed Kowalewski, yesterday routed Foreman, 43 to 16, in Crane Tech gymnasium. It was Crane Tech's fourth victory in five games and it now is tied for the west section senior lead in the Public School league with Austin, Wells, and Marshall. Kowalewski scored five baskets and two free throws.

Kelvyn Park and McKinley won two other sectional senior contests. Kelvyn Park disposed of Washburne, 37 to 22, on the latter's floor. Kelvyn Park was in front, 21 to 12, at the end of the first half. Orville, Costelis, center, scored seven field goals and one free throw as McKinley won from Medill, 45 to 31, in McKinley gymnasium.

Austin's juniors retained second place in their division by conquering Wells, 45 to 35, on the Austin court. It was Austin's fifth triumph in six engagements. Pete Jansen, center, starred for the winners with nine field goals and two free throws. Lineups:

CUBS STILL HOPE TO PLAY AT NIGHT ON SOX DIAMOND

The Cubs have not given up their plan to play some night games under the lights of Comiskey park this summer. James T. Gallagher, general manager of the north side club, said last night that he expects to confer with Harry Grabiner, vice president of the White Sox, in the next few days and that he believes an agreement can be reached. Grabiner could not be reached last night.

When President Roosevelt asked Commissioner K. M. Landis to schedule as many night games as possible to accommodate defense workers, Cub officials announced that they hoped to arrange for use of Comiskey park. The White Sox, however, demurred on the theory that their own schedule of night games was enough for one city.

Since then the seven game limit for each club with lighting systems has been increased to 14 with a special dispensation from Landis for 21 in Washington.

The Cubs had ordered a lighting plant at a reported cost of $185,000 before the United States entered the war. After the attack on Pearl Harbor, Owner P. K. Wrigley said the material had been turned back to the government.

Testimonial Dinner Will Be Held for Ormsby Tonight

A testimonial dinner will be held for Emmett [Red] Ormsby, American league umpire for 19 years, tonight in the Perez clubhouse, Marquette road and May street. Proceeds of the dinner will be given to the Rev. Louis J. Briody, pastor of the Holy Redeemer church, Evergreen Park.

How to Punch for a City Title

Joe Dugo Can Take It and Dish It Out

event will be run off as a man to man clash with the champion of the north meeting the champion of the south. That gives each boy a definite foe to point for as he prepares for the big show next Thursday.

He's Heard of Thomas.

"I've heard a lot about this James fellow," Dugo said yesterday as he climbed out of the CYO ring, where he does his training under Paddy Kane and Dick Fitzpatrick. "It sounds like trouble, but I don't pay any attention to that. I just go ahead. I'm used to hard fights."

Joe was brought up on the near west side, having lived at 622 May street for most of his 19 years. Sometimes fighting was one of the necessities of life, but Joe, like most CYO and Golden Gloves boxers, never degenerated into a street brawler. When he used his fists, there was good reason for it—and he never had to use them on the same fellow twice.

First Bout Ends in Victory.

Joe began his formal boxing education in the west side CYO gymnasium at 1145 Vernon avenue. In his first club fight, he won by a knockout, and he went right on from there. He was the CYO novice champion of 1940 and in 1941 he took the open division title. This is his first attempt in Golden Gloves.

Joe gets hit quite a bit in his bouts but he's rugged enough to take it. He doesn't pay much attention to the other fellow's punches; he wades right in and delivers so many of his own that the opponent usually is in full retreat before the bout is very far along.

Joe Works for a Living.

Joe is of Italian parentage and was born on Chicago's west side. He's been working for a living since being graduated from the Skinner school at Aberdeen street and Jackson boulevard. He hasn't any liking at all for indoor work. He prefers to climb into a truck and keep going on long runs.

Joe has four brothers, one of whom was a pretty good amateur boxer several years ago. From this one—Sam—he got quite a few pointers. Another brother—Tony—is in the army.

Joe is keen on going right up thru the Tournament of Champions and he feels that if he can get by his opponent in the Coliseum bouts next week, he'll have a mighty good chance. Golden Gloves fans recall that Chicago fighters always have given a great account of themselves when it came time to go up against the out of town boys.

Ticket Rush Is On.

The main attention in the out of town bouts tonight will be focused on Indianapolis, where the semi-finals will be held. Fort Smith, Ark.; Grand Rapids, Mich., and Oklahoma City, Okla., will run off earlier rounds.

With the Coliseum bouts less than a week away, Chicago boxing fans have launched a concerted rush for tickets. Reserved seats at $1.10 and $1.65 are now on sale in the Tribune Public Service offices at 1 South Dearborn street in Tribune Tower lobby. Mail orders should be addressed to Golden Gloves Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, making checks payable to Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

BRADLEY BEATS MARQUETTE IN OVERTIME, 52-50

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 5 [Special].—Bradley Tech took a 52 to 50 overtime basketball victory from Marquette university here tonight for its 10th triumph of the season.

Bradley blew a 6 point lead in overtime after the regulation playing time had ended with the score 44 to 44, but Guard Paul McCall's set shot from the side provided the game winning margin.

The game was close all the way and Bradley won on its free throw superiority. The Braves hit 10 out of 20 from the foul line, while Marquette was making only 8 of 19.

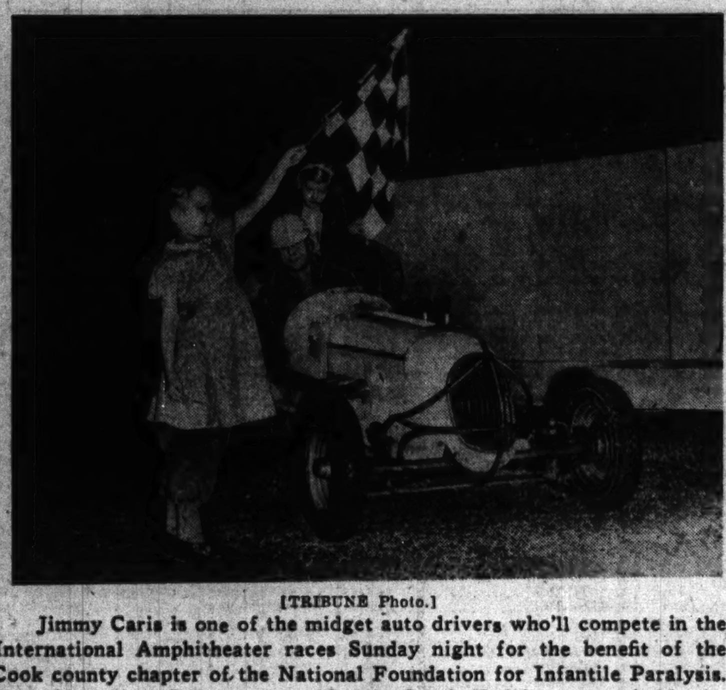
Races for a Good Cause



[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Aids Polio Fund

Eight midget auto races are scheduled for the benefit of the Cook county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis Sunday night in the International amphitheater. Sprint championship events for classes A and B cars will be featured. The card is sponsored by the Chicago Auto Racing association, which announced that only box seats at $1.10 each will be reserved. There will be 8,000 general admission seats at 65 cents.

Entries closed yesterday with 53 drivers listed from seven states. Pete Nielsen of Los Angeles, former champion of the Pacific coast; Art Hartsfeld of Detroit, Michigan state champion; Myron Fohr of Milwaukee, Wisconsin state title holder, and Roscoe Hough of Fort Wayne, champion of Indiana, are among the out of town entrants.

Infantile paralysis victims were given a sample of the speed attained by the midget cars as Duncan, Caris, and Cummings took a practice spin in the amphitheater yesterday.

Freshmen Are Made Eligible in Big 3 Games

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 5 (AP).—Yale university announced tonight that in conjunction with its Big Three rivals, Harvard and Princeton, it was modifying, for the duration of the war, the three presidents' agreement so as to make freshmen eligible for varsity competition and to permit the starting of football practice on any date.

Freshmen will be eligible for varsity teams with the start of the summer session July 6. Yale, in company with most colleges, is conducting summer sessions so that its students, most of them eligible for military service, may obtain their degrees sooner.

The announcement said the Big Three hoped to continue intercollegiate competition so far as war conditions permit but would not extend it to the summer session except for possible occasional contests with nearby colleges or military camp teams.

The athletic agreement among the presidents of the three schools signed Jan. 1, 1923, set Sept. 15 as the earliest date to start football practice. Harvard and Princeton abandoned this in recent years, starting practice a few days earlier, and Yale's practice opened Sept. 13 last fall.

AAU Bans Five More Fighters on Pro Charge

Capt. Roy E. Davis, chairman of the registration and boxing committee of the Central AAU, has ordered the disqualification of five professional boxers masquerading as amateurs. They are Jesse McGown, Andy Sterley, Berlin Hadnott, Clifford Smith, and De Witt Foster. All were charged with competing as professionals under assumed names. Previously Alvin Bevil, William Jordan, and James Smyles lost their amateur status for doing the same thing.

The list of names and the aliases they used follow:

Jesse McGowan	Bob Stoner
Alvin Bevil	Al Martinez
Andrew Sterley	Andy Martinez
Berlin Hadnott	Lew Scott
William Jordan	John Stanley
James Smyles	Sam Wilson
Clifford Smith	John Rhodes
De Witt Foster	Bob Brown

None Were Qualifiers.

None of these boys, with the exception of Smyles, qualified for the city Golden Gloves finals in the Coliseum Feb. 12. When Smyles' duplicity was uncovered he was displaced in the championships by Harry Stephens, Catholic Youth organization middleweight.

An amateur card will be held this evening in Madison Athletic club, 4711 Madison street, featured by soldier boxers from Fort Sheridan. The army boys include Jim Holliday, featherweight; Sergt. Walter Fox and Jack McClintock, lightweights, and Corp. Stanley Bator and Sergt. Fred Zerwienka, middleweights. McClintock is paired with Milton Little, Holliday with Stanley Berg, Fox with Matt Walton, Bator with Frank Stelton, and Zerwienka with Eddie Cavanaugh.

If Castiglione wins he will seek a rematch with Harry Teaney, Cleveland boxer, who was awarded a disputed decision over him in the Coliseum last month. Previously Nickie had beaten Julie Kogon, Joe Ghnouly, Pete Lello, and Leo Rodak. Supporting matches:

Bill Petersen, Indiana Harbor, vs. Jim Brown, Canton, O. [6], heavyweights.

The total was considerably more than twice as large as the $291,530,621 in the year ended Dec. 31, 1929, record high of the pre-depression era. It was nearly four times as large as the $178,141,334 in the year ended Jan. 31, 1933, when the depression low was reached.

WOOL IN CIVILIAN CLOTHING TO BE LIMITED BY WPB

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5 (AP).—The government soon will establish specifications for woolen cloth used in civilian clothing, possibly requiring that at least 75 per cent of such cloth be made of rayon or cotton and reworked or reused wool, it was learned today.

Army requirements in 1943, contemplating an army of 5,750,000 men, will exceed the total domestic raw wool output, R. R. Guthrie, textiles chief of the War Production board, told a meeting of the woolen and worsted industry advisory committee.

LEATHER DIVIDENDS.

What is the dividend situation of the United States Leather company? Could you furnish me with the company's sales and profits since the loss of 1938? How does the company rank in the industry?—N. L. T.

Answer: United States Leather company paid a total of $14 a share toward arrears on its 7 per cent prior preference stock in 1941 and a payment of $1.75 was made Jan. 2 this year. A similar dividend is payable April 1 and will leave arrears at $26.25 a share. Nothing has been distributed on the class A shares since 1929, when the initial dividend was paid. The common stock has received nothing since the company was organized in 1927. No class A or common dividends can be authorized until the preference accumulations are paid off.

1941	$20,491,414	$1,064,920
1940	13,118,285	5,787
1939	14,541,887	150,572
1938	12,613,423	*1,696,524

*Loss.

The company is the largest domestic tanner of sole and heavy leather.

PARTNERSHIP TAX.

Is a partnership liable for federal income taxes?—B. J. H.

Answer: A partnership is not required to pay federal income taxes. It must, however, file a special return for the purpose of informing the treasury department as to the distribution of partnership profits to individual partners. Individual partners must report their proportionate shares of these profits whether or not the profits actually have been distributed to them.

DECEDENT'S RETURN.

Answer: All income, earned or accrued, and all allowable deductions must be reported in the return of a deceased person. The return must cover the period of the taxable year up to the date of death. Tax returns of decedents are prepared by representatives of the estate and filed when the decedent would have filed them. The executor or administrator may be required to file two returns—one for the deceased covering the period up to his death and one for the estate beginning with the date of death. It should be noted that returns for a decedent or for his estate are considered returns for the full taxable year and the deceased is entitled to his full personal exemption even if he died during the first week of the tax year.

WAR DISLOCATES PAINT INDUSTRY'S SUPPLY SOURCES

Shortage of Fish Oil Is Declared Likely.

The Pacific coast fishing industry has been dislocated by the war and the outlook for fish oil supplies is clouded, Ernest T. Trigg, president of the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer association, asserted yesterday in a survey of raw material supplies for the industry.

Trigg said normal fish oil supplies probably will not be available this year because of war conditions. Fish oil is one of several fats and oils used in making drying agents for paints and varnishes.

Difficulties Foreseen.

"After war was declared," the survey said, "fishing continued without much interruption in southern California and, after a short period of interruption, was resumed in the Monterey district. San Francisco has been very much paralyzed and only spasmodic fishing has resulted. It is very doubtful whether anything like a normal crop will be produced this year because of the declaration of war and the commandeering of many more fishing boats and difficulties in selecting crews who are all Americans."

Trigg said the Defense Supplies corporation has obtained additional tung oil for its stock piles from the Universal Trading corporation, agent for the Chinese government. Universal is continuing its efforts to bring tung oil from China despite increasing obstacles, he reported. Tung oil is one of the most efficient drying agents for paints and varnishes.

Supplies of perilla oil, imported from Manchuria, are dwindling and no imports have arrived for a long time, Trigg said. The oil is "definitely out of the supply picture," he added.

Substitutes Used.

The lack of tung and perilla oils has increased the pressure on less desirable drying oils, such as oiticica, linseed, soy bean, and dehydrated castor oil. Trigg said that stocks of old crop oiticica oil are inadequate to fill potential demand. He reported that the new crop, which is expected to arrive from Brazil in March or April, appears to be curtailed by drouth and parasites.

Despite increased domestic flaxseed goals by the department of agriculture, linseed oil will continue to be in great demand because of the shortage of imported oils and the tremendous need for edible fats and oils, he said.

Castor beans are arriving in large quantities from Brazil, the report indicated. However, Trigg observed that supplies of dehydrated castor oil used in the paint and varnish industry may not be adequate despite the enlargement of milling and processing facilities.

PUBLISHER ASKS LATIN AMERICAN TRADE CHANGES

Eugene F. Sitterley, New York, president of Importers Guide, international business publication, asserted here yesterday that the Latin American countries "cannot be made into a closely knit hemispheric ally if we continue to insist that we take about 400 million dollars a year more in raw materials than we send to them in return in manufactured goods."

Speaking before a luncheon meeting of the Export Managers Club of Chicago at the La Salle hotel, Sitterley declared:

"Promises sufficed, some thought, in peace time, but we have found out that we have to give Latin America action, action in terms of goods, money, military and naval assistance, capital and credit, in return for her bountiful supply of raw materials." He said "it is possible that trade with Latin America in 1942 will become one of the most important assets many manufacturers can have."

RAIL BONDS RISE; LOANS OF OTHER CLASSES QUIET

New York, Feb. 5 (AP).—Rail loans gave today's bond market fair leadership, but other corporate groups were reluctant to follow the pace. United States obligations showed small price variations.

A number of the carries issues moved up a point or more and fractional gains were more widely distributed. Continuing as chief buying point was the belief in investment quarters that the carriers would receive a substantial part of the requested 10 per cent increase in freight tariffs.

There were only a few wide swings in foreign issues. Sydney 5½s climbed 1½ and Norway 6s backed down 1⅜.

BANK CLEARINGS RISE AGAIN, BUT AT REDUCED RATE

New York, Feb. 5 (AP).—The big gains registered in bank clearings in recent weeks narrowed in the period ended Wednesday, but the total remained substantially ahead of 1941 and the preceding week.

Transactions at 23 large cities, as reported to Dun & Bradstreet, aggregated $7,249,209,000, an increase of 13.7 per cent over $6,376,944,000 in the comparable 1941 period. The amount was $110,456,000 above the preceding period.

Detroit reported the highest gain over a year ago at 44 per cent. Chicago clearings totaled $413,800,000, up 16.0 per cent.

REPORT MACHINE TOOL SHORTAGE IS LESS ACUTE

Set Goal of Two Billion Dollars' Worth in '42.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—A shortage in machine tools to make the things to win the war is being relieved, according to a report issued today by the War Production board. William H. Harrison, director of the production division of the WPB, told of increases in the output of new tools, of greater use of existing tools, and of interchanges of tools for more efficient production.

Harrison disclosed the 1942 requirements for machine tools and related metal working machinery would be 2 billion dollars' worth and added that this goal "seems reasonable of attainment." The 1941 output was 840 million dollars and present production, he said, is at a rate of 1,100 million dollars' worth a year. This was the first report on the machine tool situation since creation of the WPB.

Match Machines to Production.

Harrison listed as "aggressively under way" several moves to match machines with production requirements. These included the following:

Personal discussion of individual production problems with substantially every machine tool builder in the country.

Simplification of sizes and designs.

Harrison said that the conversion of entire industries, like the automobile plants, from peacetime to wartime jobs was a substantial aid in bringing about maximum usage of tools thru interchanges.

Some Tools Wearing Out.

"Of major concern to those who must produce tanks, guns, planes, and ships for the fighters is the consumption of perishable cutting tools such as twist drills, reamers, milling cutters, hobs, breeches, taps, and turning tools.

"Production of these tools in 1941 totaled $160,000,000," Harrison said. "Expansion now under way will provide an output of $260,000,000 in 1942. To meet the needs of the new program additional expansion will be necessary to a total of $360,000,000 this year.

"Improvement is reflected for December and January and we look for greater improvement month by month."

COAL SLOWDOWN CAUSES DECLINE IN CAR LOADINGS

Railroad freight carloadings totaled 815,567 cars last week, 2,237 fewer than in the preceding week but 101,213 more than in the corresponding week of 1941, the Association of American Railroads announced yesterday. A decrease in coal loadings was largely responsible for the decline in total shipments, the report stated.

	Week Jan. 31.	—Change from— Prev. week.	Year ago.

WAR LABOR BODY TAKES OVER G. M. CIO PAY DISPUTE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5 (AP).—The War Labor board announced after a conference with Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins today that it has assumed jurisdiction over the dispute between General Motors corporation and the CIO Automobile Workers involving swing shift operations and pay for Saturday, Sunday, and night work. The issue is a vital factor in expediting conversion of the automobile industry to full war production. The board will hold a hearing next Tuesday.

Principal issue is the company's request that present contract provisions calling for double pay on Sundays be eliminated to facilitate the transition to round-the-clock operation, seven days a week, on war items.

TRAILER CAMP AND DORMITORY BIDS WANTED

Bids will be opened Feb. 13 in the offices of the Farm Security administration in Indianapolis covering a 500 bed dormitory and a camp for 200 trailers for munitions workers at Wilmington, Ill. This announcement came last night from Otis W. Roberts of the FSA.

There will be eight dormitories on a 14 acre site on one side of highway 66A just east of Wilmington, each to hold 62 beds, and the trailer camp on 20 acres across the road.

The new munitions housing projects are in addition to the 500 prefabricated houses already planned by the FSA on another Wilmington site.

MORE EFFICIENT USE OF FREIGHT CARS DEMANDED

Eastman Warns All Will Be Needed.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation, yesterday warned carriers and shippers that they must use existing equipment and facilities to greater advantage. He said that there can be no diversion to the transportation industry of scarce materials, needed also for war, as long as there remains some equipment not being used to the fullest extent possible.

Eastman, in his second Chicago address in two days, spoke before the Traffic Club of Chicago in the Palmer House. The meeting was crowded with railroad presidents, truck and air line executives, and big shippers anxious to learn what lies ahead for transportation under its new wartime director.

Says Needs Must Be Met.

Indicating that the ODT will be the one to determine when existing transportation equipment is not being given its fullest use, Eastman said, however, that the nation's transportation system must be given the equipment to handle the increased burdens that will be placed on it.

"It will be part of our duties to protect the carriers from an encroachment of war production on materials and equipment which are as essential to them as is food to the human body," he explained.

Eastman listed following as immediate dangers that lie ahead for transportation under the emergency:

1. Shortage of materials necessary to keep existing facilities in good working order and a shortage of materials and facilities to build new equipment.

2. Shortage of rubber which is limiting operation of both trucks and the private automobile—the latter being the most important transportation medium used by the public.

3. Continually increasing strain of moving troops and supplies.

Traffic Trends Reversed.

4. Reversals of the normal trends of traffic. The heaviest loads are now being borne by the transcontinental and Pacific carriers.

5. Diversion of traffic to land from the sea as intercoastal and ocean shipping declines.

6. Use of railroads to transport workers in defense plants to and from their employment.

7. The burden of transporting the huge amount of materials under the war production program.

8. Storage of goods awaiting transport.

Eastman said that the transportation job for war production will prove far greater than any one realizes. If one analyzes the work and parts involved in making an airplane he will be staggered by the amount of transportation involved, he said, and the same goes for everything else.

The shortage of rubber, he continued, imposes a terrific problem. Most of the big arms plants and war housing projects were placed in locations which made workers and residents dependent upon automobiles for transportation.

Trucks Vital to Rails.

Trucks, he said, are of vital importance to the railroads, which have become their largest users. For instance, the Pennsylvania railroad is the largest truck operator in the country. Railroad operations are now geared to the trucks and if their usage is reduced by a shortage of tires the movement of freight by the railroads will be greatly retarded.

Another big problem will be that of storage, Eastman continued. When the huge arms plants start turning out finished articles at peak production there will be times when the army and overseas demand will not be able to absorb them. War materials cannot be left at the manufacturing plants because it would cause a jam there and they cannot be kept at the seaboards. Consequently it will be necessary to find suitable storage place adjacent to transportation at strategic points.

Plans Pooling Program.

Eastman indicated that greater efforts will be made to coördinate and pool traffic on all forms of transportation such as is now being done by certain truck operators. He said he has set up a traffic movement division which will have the task of seeing that traffic moves as smoothly as possible.

One tight situation that has already developed, he said, has been in the supply of refrigerator cars. He explained that this is the result of the huge movement of supplies for army camps and overseas shipment as well as to the demands of increased business activity.

Eastman said that so far the railroads have done a splendid job. He praised the work of Ralph Budd, president of the Burlington railroad and a Chicagoan, whose job Eastman assumed as head of the nation's transportation.

Ouster Case of Utilities Will Go to Supreme Court

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 5 (AP).—The "Geneseo case," in which the State Supreme court held that Illinois cities could compel private utilities to vacate their streets upon expiration of utility franchises, will be appealed to the United States Supreme court. The Illinois Supreme court today granted a stay of its mandate pending outcome of the appeal. Several private utilities joined in the litigation, which directly affected the Illinois Northern Utilities company and the Central Illinois Electric and Gas company.

Chicago Plane Tool Firm Hit by AFL Strike

An argument over a closed shop yesterday crippled operations at the Armstrong Brothers Tool company, 317 North Francisco avenue, all of whose contracts are for national defense equipment, largely tools for airplane factories.

Five hundred of the 550 employés, members of the United Automobile Workers, AFL, walked off the job when negotiations for a closed shop were halted.

Later negotiations were resumed. Last night company and union representatives still were conferring at a meeting attended also by Arthur C. Viat, a federal conciliator.

Says Most Would Work.

Sergt. George W. Barnes of the police labor detail said that he agreed with company officials, who based their statement on a number of telephone calls, that most of the employés wished to work. He said there would be police protection this morning for any willing to pass thru the picket line.

The union's local 732 won a National Labor Relations board election Dec. 19 giving it the right to represent the employés in bargaining for contracts and other negotiations. The vote was 215 to 188. Anthony Dorio, business agent, is said to have demanded a closed shop, however, and the plant owners refused.

Object to Closed Shop.

Both Lenox Armstrong, president, and Paul Armstrong, vice president, said they were willing to recognize the union as sole bargaining agent, but were unwilling to force employés to join the union against their will.

They said the plant holds about $500,000 worth of defense contracts, and that only 50 men remained on the job.

The firm is 51 years old, and many of its employés have been with it for more than 20 years. Officials said this was the first labor trouble in the company's history.

ALCOHOL NEEDS BELIEVED FILLED BY SUGAR RULES

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5 (AP).—The War Production board said today that no further sugar restrictions—beyond those embodied in the retail rationing plan soon to go into effect—would be needed to meet foreseeable requirements for industrial alcohol.

The conversion of beverage distilling plants which have facilities for turning out 190 crude Ethyl alcohol from corn or grain will provide sufficient industrial alcohol, combined with output from molasses, to meet a demand which has been trebled by increased production of smokeless powder and other military items, WPB officials said.

Present grain supplies would be ample to provide many times the amount of industrial alcohol needed, WPB sources said, but distilling capacity puts a definite ceiling on this type of production.

Name Acting Manager of WPB Chicago Branch

Appointment of Thomas N. Wynne of Indianapolis as acting manager of the Chicago office, contract distribution branch of the War Production board, was announced yesterday by Joseph L. Overlock, state director for the WPB branch in Illinois. Wynne succeeds Thomas S. McEwan, resigned, who is continuing on a consulting basis. The Chicago office serves manufacturers in northern Illinois and Lake and Porter counties in Indiana, assisting mainly in arranging subcontracting of war production contracts.

1941 RAIL NET INCOME ABOVE HALF BILLION FIRST TIME SINCE '30

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5 (AP).—The nation's class 1 railroads in 1941 had an estimated net income of $500,545,671, more than two and a half times the 1940 profit, the Association of American Railroads reported today.

This was the first time since 1930 that their income exceeded the half billion dollar mark. In that year the net was $523,907,472. The net income in 1940 was $191,050,215.

Operating revenues last year totaled $5,346,699,998, an increase of $1,048,700,000 over 1940 and an increase of sixty-six million dollars, compared with 1930.

Net railway operating income before payment of interest and rentals for the nation's 135 class 1 railroads last year amounted to $99,502,930, a return of 3.79 per cent on property investment, compared with a return of 2.61 per cent in 1940 and 3.36 in 1930.

Operating expenses in 1941 amounted to $3,664,175,018, an increase of 574 million dollars, compared with 1940 but a decrease of 267 million dollars compared with 1930.

Britain Looks for Markets in This Country

British manufacturers are surveying American markets to determine what goods they can sell in this country without competing with domestic products and arousing the hostility of American manufacturers, it was indicated yesterday by I. M. Sieff, vice chairman of Marks & Spencer, Ltd., London.

Sieff is attending the personnel conference of the American Management association in the Stevens hotel, which he addressed Wednesday night. He is representing his company, an English chain system with 236 stores and more than 20,000 employés. He explained he is conducting a survey, from headquarters in New York City, of gaps in American requirements which could be filled by British companies.

"I have found that we could very well send you china and other earthenware, leather goods, and fine quality textiles, among other things, without competing with American products," he said.

"Altho England is obtaining important help under the lend-lease act, it needs many things which it must buy with dollar exchange. To get this dollar exchange we must sell goods in the United States."

TEXTILE MILLS' '41 OUTPUT SETS ALL-TIME RECORD

Textile mill activity broke all previous records in 1941 for the third successive year, Douglas G. Woolf, editor of Textile World, trade publication, reported yesterday. But he warned that many branches of the industry will not share in the "overall textile activity which will make 1942 another big year."

The report, released in advance to newspapers, will be published in the annual review and forecast number of the publication later this month.

Textile World's index of textile mill activity last year reached the "incredible figure" of 188, on the basis of the 1923-'25 average equaling 100, Woolf said. This is an increase of a third over the previous record high of 142 in 1940. The 1939 index figure was 132.

He predicted that the all-time monthly record set in October, 1941, will stand for some time.

Reserve Bond Buying Plans Bring Clash

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5 (AP).—A growing controversy in the house judiciary committee threatened tonight to delay final enactment of new wartime powers legislation.

The committee broke up its executive session this morning after what one member said was "heated discussion" over the senate approved proposal to allow federal reserve banks to purchase government obligations direct from the treasury instead of on the open market.

Eccles Hits Bank Opposition.

Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the Federal Reserve board, told the committee that this proposal, backed by the treasury, was opposed principally by "a few of the big banks that are interested in the buying and selling and from dealers and from people in the money market."

Opponents contended the legislation would give the government too much manipulatory power over the markets and would lead to inflation.

Less strenuous opposition developed within the committee to clauses in the bill to tighten enforcement of priorities and allocations orders and expand property seizure powers.

Seizure Power Called Extreme.

Some committee members insisted the bill would give the government power to seize, by condemnation, tangible property such as machines and tools without providing for due compensation to the owners.

"Under the senate bill," one member said, "the government can go into a plant and take out one piece of machinery and leave the rest of it intact. However, compensation is allowed only for the machine seized. No provision is made for losses that might occur thru the fact that the machine in question might force a shutdown of the entire plant because of its relation to other equipment."

CEILINGS PLACED ON PINE LUMBER PRICES BY OPA

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5 (AP).—Price Administrator Leon Henderson today imposed price ceilings on western pine lumber—approximating 21 per cent of this country's lumber output—at prices from $2 to $5 per thousand feet under current prices.

The ceiling covers Ponderosa pine, Idaho white pine and sugar pine, becomes effective Feb. 15, and is at about the levels prevailing in the first week of October, 1941.

Unlike the earlier lumber price schedules, which use as a base a rough green price, the western pine order sets a finished price. Costs of drying are included in the base price.

The price schedule on iron and steel products was revised to make it "more workable and self-operative." The OPA also fixed price ceilings on railroad specialties such as couplers, side frames, bolsters and yokes, at levels of last Oct. 1.

NATHAN STRAUS GIVES UP POST AS USHA'S HEAD

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5 (AP).—Nathan Straus today formally gave up the job as administrator of the United States Housing authority. Before 1,200 USHA employés in the interior department auditorium he announced he had submitted his resignation to President Roosevelt and had called the employés together to say "good-by." The President has not accepted the resignation, but Straus expressed confidence he would.

Leon H. Keyserling is acting administrator. He previously has served as secretary to Senator Robert Wagner [D., N. Y.] and as deputy administrator and general counsel of the USHA.

Balk at Free Insurance

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5 (AP).—The house banking committee today approved a billion dollar program for insuring property against air raids and other enemy attacks, but balked at proposals to make part of the insurance free. It decided that premiums should be charged at a rate to be determined by the RFC's War Damage corporation.

The premium plan was substituted for a senate measure authorizing free insurance against losses not exceeding $15,000. After the senate's approval of its bill there was murmuring in congress over free insurance of property while soldiers and sailors had to pay for insurance on their lives.

To get the program started speedily the house committee directed that such insurance might be free for a month or two—June 30 at the latest—that the Reconstruction Finance corporation would require to prepare rates based on actuarial estimates.

The program, sponsored by Federal Loan Administrator Jesse Jones, is designed to give every kind of property owner reasonably priced protection against any kind of damage resulting from the war with the exception of sabotage. It would apply specifically to cargo shipments, but not in cases where insurance could be obtained thru the maritime commission.

Under authority of President Roosevelt the RFC's War Damage corporation already has undertaken a 100 million dollar insurance plan. The measure approved by the banking committee would increase the RFC's borrowing power from about 7½ billion dollars to 10 billion dollars and would direct it to turn over to the WDC a maximum of 1 billion dollars.

TWO BIG STEEL MAKERS REPORT LARGER PROFITS

U. S. Rubber Gains Also Despite Tax.

Two big steel producers, Republic Steel corporation and National Steel corporation, and the United States Rubber company yesterday reported net earnings were substantially higher in 1941 than in 1940, altho the provision for federal taxes in each case was several times as large as in the earlier year.

Republic Steel, which has main offices at Cleveland, O., and one of its plants at Chicago, reported its 1941 net of $24,038,340, equal to $3.87 a common share, was the largest in the company's history. The previous record high was $21,113,507, or $3.30 a share, in 1940.

The company, rated their largest among the nation's steel producers, provided $46,250,000, compared with only 8 million dollars in 1940, for federal taxes.

Last Quarter Profit Dips.

Republic Steel's fourth quarter net, however, dropped to $6,041,244 from the $8,480,174 in the record final quarter of 1940.

Chairman Tom M. Girdler said 1941 ingot production averaged 99.5 per cent of capacity, then declared: "The operating rate undoubtedly would have been well in excess of 100 per cent of capacity had there been an ample supply of raw materials, principally scrap, available for our use."

National Steel corporation, Pittsburgh, provided more than 2½ times as much federal taxes in 1941 as in 1940 but still showed a 2 million dollar increase in net income, a preliminary statement disclosed.

The 1941 net of the company, which is rated the nation's fifth largest steel producer, was $17,102,350, equal to $7.75 a share, compared with $15,066,340, or $6.83 a share, in 1940. The provision for federal income and excess profits taxes was $19,825,000, against $7,477,695 in 1940.

National Steel's fourth quarter net income was $4,180,078, compared with $4,225,213 in the last three months of 1940.

U. S. Rubber Sales at Peak.

President F. B. Davis Jr. of United States Rubber company reported sales of his company in 1941 totaled $315,345,328, 38 per cent more than in 1940 and the highest in 21 years.

The company earned $13,662,658, equal to $4.86 a share, against $11,425,-

Expect Ceiling Prices on Meat; Hogs Sell Highest Since 1928

Indicate Early Action

Packing house officials said yesterday they expected the Office of Price administration to establish ceilings on wholesale prices of meat cuts within the next few days. They do not expect ceilings to be placed on the prices to be paid for the live animals.

The belief that OPA may establish the prices at which meat may be sold, packers said, is based on the fact that the department of agriculture already has placed "floors" under the markets thru its lend-lease buying program.

Paying High Prices.

It has paid high prices to obtain supplies and stimulate production. It spent more than 160 million dollars between March 15 and Dec. 31, 1941, for meat, lard, and meat products.

The meat packers believe ceilings will be placed on the market because of the present high prices of pork. First steps toward putting a ceiling on the market probably will be taken today, the packers said. They expect lend-lease buyers to reduce purchases sharply for the week, in the hope of preventing further advances in hog prices.

If this fails, packers said, a ceiling is likely to be clamped on prices immediately.

"Ceilings will not affect meat at its present levels," one packer predicted.

Market Bounds Again

Another rise in wholesale markets for fresh pork and a decrease in available supplies sent hog prices up 25 to 35 cents per hundred pounds to new peaks at the stockyards yesterday. Top loads soared 35 cents to $12.85 and the average for the session rose 25 cents to $12.55.

The general level of the market was above any day since September, 1928, and highest for February since 1926. The average was second highest for a winter season since 1920, comparing with a price of $7.75 the same day in 1941, and with $5.05 two years ago. Butcher shop owners paid $22 wholesale a hundred pounds for top loins, compared with $16.50 in 1941 and $10.50 in 1940.

55,000 Hogs on Market.

Farmers cut the hog supply at the 11 principal markets down to 55,000 yesterday, against 74,000 a week earlier and 69,000 the same day last year. Some hog raisers with small shipments said they are holding back most of their stock until they learn government plans regarding prices.

Lamb prices rose 10 to 25 cents to the highest February levels since 1930. The $12.60 top compared with $10.60 the same day last year. The majority of fat lambs sold from $12.25 to $12.50. Buyers gave $11.00 for summer shorn lambs, $10.75 for yearlings, and $6.85 for old ewes.

The general level of the cattle market was highest for this month since 1930, and third highest for February since 1920. Most classes were steady to strong for the day. Gains of 10 to 15 cents occurred in beef cows.

RIGHT TO A HEARING ON WAGE-HOUR LAW APPLICATION UPHELD

Cincinnati, O., Feb. 5 (AP).—The Sixth United States Circuit Court of Appeals ruled in effect today that before a firm can be ordered to produce records for the wage-hour division, it must be granted a hearing to determine whether it is engaged in interstate commerce.

Reversing an order of District Judge Ernest A. O'Brien in Detroit, Dec. 10, last, instructing the General Tobacco and Grocery company, to produce certain records sought by the wage-hour administration, Judge John D. Martin wrote:

"It is unreasonable to assume that congress intended that one who, when called upon to produce his books and records, denies that he is engaged in transactions within the purview of the act, should be refused a hearing upon that issue before his privacy is invaded in derogation of his individual immunity from unreasonable search of his papers and effects."

The Detroit concern obtained a stay of Judge O'Brien's order pending appeal, contending it was engaged in intrastate activity and therefore not subject to provisions of the wage-hour law.

HUB COMPANY'S TRUCK QUOTA IS INCREASED TO 50

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—The War Production board today informed the Hub company of Highland Park, Ill., that it may produce 50 medium and heavy trucks this month, an increase of 47 in its February quota. The increase is to keep the plant in operation, it was said, and to make its facilities and men available later for additional war production of heavy duty trucks.

WPB instructed the Cadillac motor car division of General Motors that it may complete 719 special ambulance chasses. Without this, completion would have been banned by the Feb. 1 stoppage of production of passenger cars and light trucks.

Sears Sells Its Interest in Winter Piano Firm

Sale of Winter & Co., piano manufacturer with plants in La Porte, Ind. and New York, to a syndicate composed of the present management and eastern interests, was announced yesterday by E. P. Brooks, a vice president of Sears, Roebuck & Co. Sears has had an interest in the Winter company since 1919. W. G. Heller, president of Winter & Co., will continue president.

'PARITY INCOME' GOAL REACHED, SAYS U. S. AID

Hutson Tells Grain Selling Policy.

Commodity Credit corporation's president, John B. Hutson, declared in Chicago yesterday that the parity income goal of the farm program has been achieved. He disclosed at the same time that the credit agency is pouring a million bushels of government owned wheat a day into live stock growing areas to help keep feed costs down to a level that will encourage live stock production.

John B. Hutson.

Hutson, in an address at a luncheon of the Agricultural club in the La Salle hotel, revealed also that in shuttling wheat into feeding areas the big government crop loan agency has encountered a shortage in railroad freight cars.

Has Big Loss on Corn.

Touching on other aspects of the agency's operations in its effort to meet the parity price and parity income aims formulated by congress, Hutson also said:

1. That the agency has incurred a bigger loss on corn than on any other crop. He said that since the agency was organized it has lost 35 million dollars on corn, but he termed this "not an enormous price to pay if it enables us to realize our goal and increase live stock production."

2. That "we have put the wheat price down to the price of corn—actually a little below when feed value is considered—to meet the needs of feeders." An incidental result, he said, was the easing of the wheat storage problem.

3. That the farmer has as much to lose as anybody else if inflation gets out of hand.

4. That the corporation is trying to keep from building up a large staff and is "trying to throw back as many functions as possible to the grain trade."

Sells at Near Parity.

Hutson told the club that the government, in its current selling program, is getting about parity for cotton, 92 to 93 per cent of parity for wheat, and 85 per cent of parity for corn.

[The department of agriculture estimated the average farm price of corn on Jan. 15 was 78 per cent of parity. Story on page 35.]

Many Decline Fractions to One Point.

New York, Feb. 5 (AP).—Rail stocks and specialties had moderate strength in today's stock market but many leaders in the recent three-day recovery faltered. Trade was hesitant at the start and the price level was generally lower around midday. Some come-backs were made in the final hour but declines of fractions to a point were well distributed at the close.

Business news, for the most part, appeared bullish—last week's freight loadings were off less than seasonally, retail spending was being maintained at a high level, and there were more good earnings statements and favorable dividends.

Some of the Losers.

Stocks showing losses included United States Steel, Chrysler, Goodrich, United States Rubber, common and preferred, United Aircraft International Harvester, American Telephone, Western Union, Anaconda, Kennecott, American du Pont, Dow Chemical, Allied Chemical, Standard Oil [New Jersey], and Consolidated Edison.

Standard brands, the liveliest performer, came out in one 10,000 share block, off ⅛, but ended unchanged. Talk of estate liquidation in this issue was heard.

Nickel Plate preferred rose 3 points to 50, a new 1941-'42 top. Modest improvement was retained by Santa Fe, Pennsylvania, Atlantic Coast Line, Nickel Plate common, Great Northern, Bethlehem, Montgomery Ward, Westinghouse, Eastman Kodak, Loew's, and J. C. Penney.

CHICAGO STOCKS UP.

Prices moved unevenly higher on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday in transactions involving 15,000 shares.

Chicago corporation common, which declined ⅛, and Rollins Hosiery, which closed unchanged, were the volume leaders, with 1,150 shares of each issue traded. Other active stocks were Commonwealth Edison, off ⅛, Standard Oil of Indiana, unchanged, and Swift & Co., up ⅛.

Chicago corporation preferred advanced ⅞ to 32, a new 1941-'42 high.

NEW INVESTMENT FIRM SUCCEEDS STERN, WAMPLER

Announcement was made yesterday of the formation of Kebbon, McCormick & Co. to continue the investment business formerly conducted by Stern, Wampler & Co., Inc. Partners in the new firm will include L. Raymond Billett, James R. Connell, J. W. Hirsch, Richard A. Kebbon, John C. Marshall, D. Dean McCormick, and Harry N. Pritchard. All have been associated with Stern, Wamper & Co., except McCormick, who is resident manager of the Chicago office of Alex Brown & Sons, Baltimore.

The new company will occupy the present quarters of Stern, Wampler & Co., at 231 South La Salle street, Chicago, and 40 Wall street, New York City. James R. Connell will be in charge of the New York office.

GRAIN PRICES DIP AS GOVERNMENT UNLOADS WHEAT

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

The rising flood of cheap government owned wheat streaming into the feed grain markets widened the gap yesterday between parity price levels for grains and the actual prices being paid farmers.

Parity is that price level at which the department of agriculture calculates that the farmer would be getting a comparable return for the things he has to sell in relation to the prices of the things he has to buy. The purchasing power of the farm dollar would be at 1909-'14 levels, when it bought more than at any other time in history.

Spread in Grain Prices.

For the last several months government officials have been promising farmers parity prices for their crops so that they will expand their production to meet wartime food requirements. On Jan. 15 the farmer was getting 82 per cent of parity for wheat, 78 per cent for corn, and 86 per cent for oats.

Yesterday the farm price of grains was moving downward, mainly, according to the grain dealers, as a result of the government's program for getting rid of a lot of cheap, old wheat. It recently offered 100 million bushels for sale at prices around 25 cents a bushel below feed grain levels at that time.

"The government is going to crucify the grain dealers if it doesn't revise its feed wheat sales program," said a director of the Board of Trade. "You can't convince a New Englander that Illinois corn is a good buy when he can get 60 pounds of government wheat for 80 cents and only 56 pounds of corn for 84 cents."

Corn Goes Lower.

But the corn price didn't hold at the 84 cent level yesterday. Instead, it was down around a cent a bushel. It had sold two weeks ago for 86 cents, the highest price in more than five years. Oats had sagged from more than 60 cents down to around 58½ cents a bushel.

The lack of interest in cash grain in the open market and the confusion that continues to exist over the price control program permitted futures prices to dip in a light trade on the Board of Trade.

Wheat finished ⅝ cent lower, with the May delivery at $1.29½ a bushel. Corn was down ½ to ⅝ cent; oats, ¼ to ⅜ cent; rye, ⅛ to ⅝ cent, and soy beans, ¼ to ⅞ cent a bushel lower. Lard closed 2½ cents higher to 2½ cents per hundredweight lower.

The number of open contracts calling for the future delivery of wheat on the Board of Trade reached the lowest levels since the exchange started keeping records in 1922. Open contracts amount to 34,503,000 bushels, compared with more than 50 million a year ago.

PRICE DECLINES IN JANUARY FOR 3 MILK CLASSES

Class prices for milk delivered in the Chicago federal milk marketing area during January dropped 2.5 cents a hundredweight [46.5 quarts] in three classes of utilization, and rose 2.5 cents in the fourth over December figures.

Minimum prices which dealers will pay producers were announced yesterday by A. W. Colebank, acting administrator. They are: Class 1, $2.908 a hundredweight; class 2, $2.528; class 3, $2.208; class 4, $1.897.

Class 1 is doorstep milk and bulk milk used for fluid consumption. Class 2 is that used for cream, ice cream, cottage cheese, and flavored milk drinks. Class 3 is that used in evaporated and condensed products, and class 4 is milk used for butter and cheese.

URGES AVOIDING LEGAL PHRASES IN LABOR PACTS

Industrial peace under a labor contract can best be achieved by elimination of tricky legal phrases and the absence of lawyers when the contract is negotiated, W. I. McNeill, director of industrial relations and engineering for the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet company, said yesterday.

He spoke at the personnel conference of the American Management association in the Stevens hotel. He urged that contracts be "worded in plain everyday English that the workman can understand."

R. J. Greenly, acting chief of the personnel division of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, Pittsburgh, Pa., asserted that the most critical bottleneck in industry is inadequately trained supervisors.

CASUALTY FIRM ELECTS TWO NEW VICE PRESIDENTS

Directors of Continental Casualty company yesterday announced election of two new vice presidents. They are Walter E. Krafft, Chicago, assistant secretary and head of the company's surety department, and Leonard G. Grewe, manager of the company's Seattle branch office.

Continental Assurance company announced the election of three men to its board of directors. They are Edison Dick, vice president of A. B. Dick company; Howard C. Reeder, vice president of Actuary Continental Assurance company, and Stuart J. Templeton of Wilson and McIlvaine.

CIO Asks $1 Pay Boost of U. S. Steel Subsidiary

Two Companies Defer Action on Dividends Because of War

Directors of Woodall Industries, Inc., Detroit, manufacturer of products used for interior finishing and insulation of automobiles, voted yesterday to omit payment of the dividend normally made in January. At the same time the Electrolux corporation, New York manufacturer of vacuum cleaners, announced suspension of quarterly dividend payments, stating that as and when conditions justify, dividend action will be considered.

H. J. Woodall, president of the Woodall company, said that altho a profit equal to 21 cents a share had been earned during the first fiscal quarter, the need for changing operations from civilian to war production necessitated omission of the dividend.

Material Shortage Blamed.

Directors of Electrolux said suspension of quarterly dividends was caused by rationing of raw materials used in their product, and increasing conversion of their facilities to the production of war materials.

The Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator company announced an extra dividend of 25 cents along with the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents on common stock. Similar amounts have been paid in recent quarters.

MONEY HOARDING IS INDICATED IN BANKS' REPORTS

Reserve Officials Cite Circulation Rise.

Possibility that some persons have become panicky and withdrawn savings from banks to hoard in fear that the government might take the funds to finance the war was seen by some reserve officials in Washington last night after the federal reserve board reported a 134 million dollar increase in money in circulation.

The officials said that the jump in circulation was only a "suspicious" sign that cash was being hidden because of fear of government seizure, and not conclusive evidence. They emphasized that the secretary of the treasury and other federal authorities have stated publicly that the government has no intention of commandeering savings.

The reserve board's report said that member bank reserve balances as of Wednesday were estimated to be 3 billion 330 million dollars in excess of legal requirements. This represented a drop of 150 million dollars in excess reserves as compared with a week earlier.

BIG STORE SALES MOUNT IN WEEK; FAR ABOVE 1941

Department store sales in the seventh [Chicago] federal reserve district last week were 29 per cent larger than in the corresponding week a year ago and 0.5 per cent larger than in the preceding week, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday.

Chicago sales were 24 per cent larger than a year ago and 2 per cent smaller than in the preceding week, the bank said. For the four weeks ended Jan. 31, compared with a year before, district sales were up 34 per cent and Chicago sales 29 per cent.

The Federal Reserve board estimated the nation's department store sales last week were 29 per cent larger than in the corresponding week a year ago. For the four weeks ended Jan. 31, compared with the like 1941 period, sales increased an estimated 35 per cent.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5 (AP).—Charges made against residential consumers of gas, used principally for cooking and heating, vary as much as 887 per cent among cities of the nation, the Federal Power commission reported today.

The agency pointed out the charge for 10 therms of natural gas in Huntington, W. Va., was only 23 cents, compared with a $2.27 charge for an equal amount of gas in Phoenix, Ariz.

Prices charged for gas service to residential customers were studied by the commission under the direction of a senate resolution. It presented a table of "lowest and highest residential bills for natural gas [March 1, 1941], showing that 25 therms cost 56 cents in Huntington W. Va., against $4.65 in Decatur, Ill.; 35 therms cost 79 cents at Huntington and $5.98 at Phoenix, Ariz.; 100 therms cost $2.26 at Huntington, $10.20 at Cedar Rapids, Ia.; and 250 therms cost $5.56 at Huntington, $22.18 at New Orleans.

'PARITY INCOME' GOAL REACHED, HUTSON ASSERTS

Explains U. S. Grain Selling Policy.

parity price and parity income. He included farm benefit payments in parity income and also made allowance for increased production. With these factors considered, he said, growers of wheat and corn for commercial sale have reached a parity income basis.

Declaring that the ratio of feed costs to live stock prices is favorable—that is, permits sufficient profits to the feeder to encourage production of live stock—Hutson intimated without saying so directly that it will be the government's policy to keep corn prices around the present levels.

Expects No Policy Change.

Replying to the question, "Will the CCC try to maintain corn prices at present levels and not let them go higher?" Hutson cited recent statements by Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard that the government expects to keep the price at a point that will result in a favorable feed cost ratio. Hutson then said the ratio is favorable and that he knew of no plan to change the present policy.

In his statement that larger crops, along with benefit payments, should be considered as well as parity prices in determining whether farm income parity has been attained, Hutson touched on a subject that has aroused controversy. Some farm groups have criticized this view and have held that prices should be boosted to the full parity level even tho it would result in more than parity income because of larger yields. Parity is the price calculated to give the farmer a purchasing power equal to an average of that which prevailed from 1909 to 1914.

Secretary Wickard, who was in Chicago during the day, was unable to make a tentatively scheduled appearance at the club meeting.

Urges Staggered Work Hours

Communities must stagger working hours if they expect their transit companies to obtain new street cars and buses, the American Transit association was told yesterday at its conference in the Stevens hotel.

"The ability of the companies to obtain new equipment will depend upon the extent to which their communities utilize existing equipment," asserted Charles Gordon, the association's managing director.

A Community Problem.

He said staggering of working hours is a community problem. Not only will it help transportation companies in meeting the increased demands on their facilities but it will help speed up other traffic. He said staggering of hours can't be effective unless the peak is spread over 1½ to 2 hours.

Gordon spoke before an operating meeting, one of three sections into which the 600 company officials attending were divided for the second day of the parley yesterday. Other delegates attended maintenance or purchasing sessions.

John D. Beebe, representative of the B. F. Goodrich company, Akron, O., told the maintenance session that an adequate supply of rubber for war purposes and rationed industrial uses will be made available in the future thru heavier reclaiming and increased synthetic rubber production.

Figures on Production.

He predicted that from these two sources alone an annual production of 850,000 long tons will be available by 1944. This compares with more than a million tons consumed in the nation last year. He said synthetic rubber production will jump about 30,000 long tons in 1942 to 400,000 long tons in 1944. Reclaimed rubber should increase from about 320,000 lon gtons in 1942 to 450,000 long tons in 1943 and 1944.

Beebe said the tire rationing program is designed to satisfy 47 per cent of the 1941 truck and bus tire market.

He told the transit company officials too little rubber has been set aside for public transportation equipment uses other than tires and said efforts now are being made to have this situation corrected.

The conference will be concluded today with an engineering conference.

U. S. Rubber Also Gains Despite Rising Taxes.

241, or $3.58 a share, in 1940. Provision for federal and foreign income and excess profits taxes was $18,896,044, almost triple the $6,534,593 paid in 1940.

Davis said $1,400,000 was charged against earnings "for estimated war losses which have occurred on the company's plantations in Malaya, and in the export operations in the Philippines and elsewhere in the far east."

New York Telephone company, in a preliminary report, said its net earnings for 1941 were $32,296,018, equal to $7.66 a share on common, compared with $34,429,223, or $8.17 a share, in 1940. In the fourth quarter the company's profit dropped to $7,554,697, or $1.79 a share, from $9,379,526, or $2.22 a share, in the fourth quarter of 1940.

Bell Aircraft Net Soars.

President Lawrence D. Bell said gross sales jumped from $5,188,001 in 1940 to $46,414,444 in 1941.

A tentative report of Bristol-Myers company, New York manufacturer of proprietary drugs, toiletries and allied lines, showed that company's 1941 net was $2,450,670, or $3.67 a share, against $2,523,642, or $3.73 a share in 1940. The estimated fourth quarter profit was $615,705, or 92 cents a share.

WHOLESALE EGG PRICES LOWEST SINCE OCTOBER

Wholesale egg prices made new declines yesterday with the market for all graded eggs dropping to 29½ cents a dozen. Losses from the previous day ranged from ½ to ¾ cent. The market reached new lows since last October.

Companies drying eggs for shipment to Britain under the lend-lease program increased their purchases of undergrades and farm run eggs. Officials said they had sold large quantities of dried eggs to lend-lease buyers this week.

Egg futures declined for the fourth consecutive day on the Chicago Mercantile exchange. Losses since Saturday ranged close to 2 cents a dozen with the market closing .05 to .65 cent lower yesterday. The October delivery displayed considerable rallying strength and finished at 32.3 cents.

The trade in butter futures was small and prices were unchanged. Wholesale butter prices also were unchanged.

AFL Union Wins Chicago Western Union Labor Vote

The AFL Commercial Telegraphers' union won a runoff election among Chicago employés of the Western Union Telegraph company, it was announced yesterday by the National Labor Relations board. In an election held Dec. 5, neither of the competing unions received the necessary majority, but the vote held Wednesday resulted in 1,115 votes for the AFL union and 765 votes for the Telegraph Workers. A CIO union which had participated in the first election withdrew.
